The Finance Commission under date of March 2, 1921, recorded itself as opposed to the adoption of the enabling act, pending before the Committee on Cities. From that communication I quote the following conclusion:

"The Finance Commission . . . for the following reasons wishes to be recorded in opposition to the bill.
1. If such a mandatory bill is passed by the Legislature it will in effect be an interference with the judicial branch of the government and with the settlements already made.

2. It will force the city to pay a large sum of money for which there is no justifiable warrant and will create a most unfortunate precedent for the presentation of other cases which have been settled.

3. It will tend to weaken judicial settlements.

In connection with this matter the City of Boston has paid nearly $45,000 during the past twenty years, a schedule of which payments I annex hereto.

Regarding the further amount involved in the matter, I assume that the amount claimed is approximately $7,450, being the difference between the amount found to be due to the claimant by the auditor and the amount for which the case was settled while pending before the Supreme Court on appeal by both parties from the decision of Justice Fessenden of the Superior Court, who had found for the claimant in the amount of $18,500.

Very truly yours,
E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Dear Sir,—Replying to your communication of September 20, regarding the order passed by the City Council at its meeting on September 17, relative to the plan of the New York authorities concerning tax exemption for a period of years on all new dwellings that are built to provide homes for those of modest means, I beg to state I have communicated with the New York officials and they have sent me the inclosed letter and copies of ordinances passed by the city of New York in the years 1921, 1922 and 1923.

FUNDS FOR REGISTRY OF DEEDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 29, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith communication received from the Register of Deeds of Suffolk County requesting additional funds to carry on the work of the department, and respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Registry of Deeds,
Boston, October 26, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,Mayor of Boston:

My dear Mr. Mayor:—I desire to call your attention to the tremendous volume of real estate transfers that have been filed in this office during the current year. On October 1 the entry book showed 61,626 transactions compared with 47,669 on the corresponding date in 1922, and the latter amount was the high record up to that date. For the full year of 1907, my first year as register, there were only 32,699 transfers, so that the work for the current year will be considerably more than doubled.

There has been no proportionate increase in the number of clerks employed, and therefore the work of recorders and conveyancers has necessarily fallen behind. At the present time each day's new business is larger than can be handled by the present force, and the conveyancers, attorneys and patrons of the office in general are very much inconvenienced and put to considerable expense by the delay caused in searching through the hundreds of papers that are not indexed promptly, because of the lack of clerks to perform the work.

I inclose a copy of a protest that was received recently from some of the leading conveyancers. I have assured them that everything possible was being done to expedite the work of the office, and have intimated that I would take the matter up with you at the first possible opportunity to see if additional funds could not be provided immediately to give the public more satisfactory service.

I estimate that to handle the business efficiently and expeditiously funds should be provided to cover the compensation for the months of November, December and January next, of the following clerks:

Three compensators at the rate of $1,500 per year; five indexers at the rate of $1,320 per year; two registered land clerks at the rate of $1,500 per year; two pagers at the rate of $1,200 per year.

The unexpended balance in the budget, appropriation "A-1, Piece Work, Copyists," is $3,303.41. The expenditure under this item during the current month is $2,821.83 and with the accumulation of business on hand the next three months' expenditures should be at least as much as during the current month. I would, therefore, request additional funds for this item of $5,000.

By reason of the hard usage during the present season, a large number of the typewriters are in need of some repairs, and I also request that the amount of $50 be provided for this item under "General Plant" B-9.

For "Printing and Binding" B-1, an additional sum of $500 will be required.

The total number of regular employees in this department at the present time is 74, while the Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds, which transacts about the same volume of business, has a force of 88 regular clerks.

I urgently request that you should arrange to provide funds to meet this emergency as above suggested.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM T. A. FITZGERALD,
Register.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Reserve Fund, $2,735, to the appropriation for Registry of Deeds, A-1, Permanent Employees, Copyists, 21, piece work, $5,000; A-2, Temporary Employees, $4,185; B-1, Printing and Binding, $500; B-39, General Plant, $50.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

7. Report on order (referred today) concerning dogs on Common and Public Garden—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have no serious objection to the passage of the order, except that I would like to suggest that, on a matter of such importance, such a momentous proposition, it might be well to add to the Finance Commission, Chamber of Commerce, and possibly the Governor or somebody representing the Governor, to sit in conference with the Police Commissioner and the Mayor on the matter. I might also suggest that the gentleman might provide, through an amendment to his order, for a particular parking space for the dogs, squirrels and doves, permitting the dogs to remain in their special parking space and the squirrels and the pigeons in theirs. Then we might arrange to have these militia ordered out on the Common and Public Garden to take care of each one of these reservations. The gentleman might have his order go a little farther. He might add to the squirrels and the pigeons. He might add something to protect the nuts on the Common from the squirrels, as well. He might make some arrangement in his order to protect the worms and insects from the squirrels and from the pigeons, too. I don't know how his order is going to work out. I do feel that the Mayor and the Police Commissioner will probably sit down every day from now until springtime, and perhaps by that time they may strike upon a plan that will carry out the gentleman's wishes. I might suggest that we suggest to the Police Commissioner, the Mayor, and the rest of those joining in the conference, that every man with a dog have his dog in his pocket, and let the dog put its foot on the Common take the muzzle out and put it on the animal. It seems to me the order might be made practical if some of my suggestions were lived up to. This order has much merit, I agree, as much merit as a lot of the orders that the gentleman has introduced, and I think, if the embryo in the order the provisions for the Chamber of Commerce to join with the Police Commissioner and the Mayor, there may be some way of protecting the pigeons and the squirrels from the dogs. I can hardly agree with him that the only dogs that go on the Common are Back Bay dogs, as he suggests, brought there by the ladies of the Back Bay. I think the dogs on the Back Bay are just as human as dogs anywhere else, and I think it is wrong and an insult for him to place the entire responsibility on the Back Bay dogs, because most of them are toothless, like their owners. However, taking everything into consideration, I don't think the order will do any harm, and I am very certain it will do no good!

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, some days the Common comes in here with an ill humor, and almost everything that is said with a snarl or a growl. Today he is in good humor, and the order I have offered meets his facetious attitude. He says it is in good order. Then, why does he indulge in the humor? What is the objection to the order? He hasn't announced any. I have tried to discover what his objection was.

Coun. WATSON—I am going to vote for it, Henry.

Coun. HAGAN—It cannot be, Mr. President, that possibly his objection to the order is that I am trying to protect the squirrels from being killed by the dogs, and that he wants the squirrels killed, that he is afraid to go on the Common, and that he has no appetite for nuts. I think perhaps that is the gentleman's reason for objecting to the order. Certainly, I think there can be no other. I hope that there will be no other objection, now that we have retaliated in kind.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I think I was misunderstood when I said that there was some merit in the order. I mean that there was some merit in the disorder, not in the order. However, I shall vote for it.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, speaking seriously, I am absolutely opposed to the order. I don't think that dogs going through the Common ought to go through on the end of their tails. I think that dogs are a pretty faithful friend of mankind, and whatever little liberties we can give them we should give them, without chaining or muzzling them. I think the order is a rather a harmless order which was humane in character. We have on the Common a large flock of quite tame and a number of squirrels, which are a great source of amusement and pleasure to women and children. The squirrels have become very tame. Now, dogs running at large are killing the squirrels and the pigeons, and I wanted to reduce that sort of thing to the minimum. This is the reason that I would expect to do. If dogs are to be permitted to run at large without any restraint, we know that some dogs are going to get over onto the Common and the Public Garden, and that is all right. But if there was some preventive measure adopted to try to reduce the evil I have referred to, it might meet what I have in mind. I don't think there is a place where dogs can be permitted to run at large without inhabiting the Public Garden and the Common to the disadvantage of the animals and birds there, which remain in their place the time. I am sure that the gentleman is just as humane in his ideas and that he would not care to see those same squirrels, which are so lovable and which are a great source of no fond of eliminated by the dogs. He does not care the dogs treated ill. Neither do I. I am sure also that he would not want the other animals treated ill by the dogs.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I cannot see any logic in the order. How can you restrain dogs or prevent their coming in contact with the squirrels and pigeons on the Common and the Public Garden without some enclosure? We cannot expect the police officers to chase dogs around the Common or the Public Garden or to chase the pigeons around. I think the order is out of place in this body and will simply cause a certain amount of ridicule to be cast upon the body by the outside public. I propose to vote against its passage.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have wondered when the gentleman who offered the order spends his spare time, and at last I have found that he spends it on the Common and the Public Garden. I want to suggest to him that he should be careful, that he should observe the motto, "Safety first." It is a dangerous place to spend one's time. I would think that the gentleman who is going to control the dogs on the Common and the Public Garden? Why not arrange to have every dog's teeth pulled before he goes on the Common or Public Garden, and then he will be harmless? I don't think the gentleman is really serious about the order. If so, why not have it referred to Franklin Park, Blackstone square, Eagle Hill, every other park and playground in the city? Nevertheless, I am going to vote for the order. It is in line with many of his orders, but I am going to vote against the same.

The order was declared passed. Coun. DONOGHUE doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The order was passed, yeas 5, nays 3.

Yeas—Coun. Hagan, Healey, Lane, Walsh, Watson.—5.

Nays—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Mortiarty.—3.

BOSTON PREPARED TO DIG OUT OF SEVEREST SNOW-STORMS OF WINTER.

PURCHASE OF FIFTY CHAMPION SNOWPLOWS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT FITS PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT FOR WAGING SUCCESSFUL BATTLE AGAINST RIGORS OF COLD.

ONE OF FIFTY CHAMPION SNOWPLOWS WITH WHICH CITY WILL FIGHT STORMS THIS WINTER.

Boston has made extensive preparations for caring for the city streets during the winter should there be as severe snowstorms as last winter. The army of the Public Works Department has been thoroughly reinforced with equipment and is ready to give battle to old King Winter no matter how severely he blows.

As one feature of the preparation the Public Works Department has purchased fifty Champion snowplows for clearing the streets, in addition to other equipment. The city has been divided into ten contract districts with 500 men and 100 trucks ready for war. In addition to that, 2,000 men and the entire equipment of the department have been armed and will be turned loose on the work when the snow falls. Boston citizens may thus feel secure that the city will be well taken care of.

The Public Works Department has no set amount to be devoted to cleaning and care of the streets during winters but a general outline of work is planned. This work costs from $20,000, as was the case in 1920, to more than $1,000,000, as was the case last winter. It has been the plan by the department to clear and remove the snow entirely from the downtown streets, and in the outlying districts to open streets and clear roadways.

CITY TO START WAR ON TAX DODGERS.

Citizens who have not paid their taxes on personal property for the last six years must settle immediately or they will face arrest. Mayor Curley has made that announcement in discussing the $349,538 of taxes still on the books and after a conference with Collector William M. McMorro, Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan and City Auditor Rupert S. Carven.

Equally interesting was the Mayor's statement that he would have prepared for him at once a list of the "tax-dodging" individuals and firms, to be given out for publication, if charges were not paid within a few days.

The City of Boston loses thousands of dollars annually through the working of the statute of limitations. All unpaid bills of this nature are outlawed after six years and the items are erased from the books as noncollectible. Many persons move away from the city and cannot be located. Others are able to avoid payment, for one reason or another.

The taxes for personal property now on the books go back to 1916. For that year the aggregate is $19,068; for 1917 the total is $13,647; 1918, $20,420; 1919, $45,855; 1920, $118,177; 1921, $157,173; 1922, $181,196. Mayor Curley said that he was astonished as he read several of the names and firms which the collector gave him.

CITY'S BURDENS MAY INCREASE UNDER EQUAL PAY PLAN.

Mayor Curley informed heads of departments at his monthly conference Friday afternoon in the Council Chamber that the equal pay for women plan, which school teachers have put on the ballot to be voted upon this December election, will cost the City of Boston an extra million dollars if passed.

He was urging retrenchment in municipal departments in order that there might be enough money saved to help out extraordinary demands which confronted the city next year.

He also announced that the City Hospital was running behind, and would need perhaps as high as $200,000 to carry on to the end of the fiscal year, on account of a great amount of sickness this year which had kept the hospital running to capacity.

The Unemployment Bureau, said the Mayor, was unfortunately becoming more busy, and whereas a month ago it was unusual to see ten men outside the offices in City Hall now it was usual of a morning to see from fifty to one hundred. He saw indications of a general slackening of industry.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

NOTED MEDICAL MEN JOIN WITH CITY OFFICIALS IN THORNDIKE MEMORIAL DEDICATION.

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY AND THE COUNTRY'S EMINENT MEDICAL MEN ATTEND EXERCISES AT BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL.

Late Thursday afternoon the Thorndike Memorial building, a temple of medical research, the first for Boston City Hospital work, was dedicated. It is located on the East Concord street side of the City Hospital grounds and is made possible by the will of the late George L. Thorndike.

The structure cost over $500,000. Its floors are replete with apparatus employed in the most modern methods of analysis and research. Three top floors will be devoted to bacteriological, physiological and physicochemical investigations. Tremendous opportunities for biological and physico-chemical investigation are afforded by the extraordinary X-ray equipment.

Exercises were simple, though impressive. Mayor Curley, Dr. William T. Mayo, world-noted surgeon of Minneapolis, and Dr. Henry S. Rowen spoke before 200 city officials, noted physicians and surgeons. They observed the opening of the most complete and most notable institution of its kind in connection with municipal enterprise.

George Thorndike provided in his will that a fund then set aside should be allowed to accumulate until it reached $200,000. He stipulated that the sum should be turned over to the city for the erection of a building in memory of his brother, Dr. William H. Thorndike, who years ago was one of Boston's prominent surgeons and who gave twenty-five years of free service to the Boston City Hospital. The money was "to be used for the relief of suffering humanity, to which he sacrificed his life."

For several years before the Thorndike fund became available the trustees of the Boston City Hospital had planned for its use. They decided upon an institution entirely devoted to the detection and the study of diseases by the newest methods of laboratory science, because the City Hospital had reached that development in its service where no notable forward steps could be taken, comparable to those of private or heavily endowed public institutions, unless a building of this kind were erected.

Dr. Francis Weld Peabody has been directing the layout and equipment of the laboratories. Dr. Peabody is a graduate of Harvard College, 1903, and Harvard Medical School, 1907. He served as assistant resident physician at Johns Hopkins Hospital in 1908-09, was a fellow in pathology at Johns Hopkins in 1909-10, later was assistant resident physician at the Rockefeller Hospital, and later physician at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston.

He will have a large staff of highly trained assistants, among them Dr. Henry Jackson, Jr., Dr. James T. Wearn, Dr. Thomas R. Buckman, Dr. Robert W. Nye, Dr. G. O. Brown, Dr. Perry B. Davidson and Dr. Elmer Heath.

WARNING OF WASTE OF MEN AND MATERIAL OF PRESENT AGE SOUNDED AT DEDICATION EXERCISES.

MAYOR CURLEY REVIEWS DEVELOPMENT IN MEDICINE IN PAST SIXTY YEARS AND PART BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL HAS PLAYED IN THIS, DURING EXERCISES COMMEMORATING ERECTION OF THORNDIKE MEMORIAL BUILDING.

Address by Hon. James M. Curley at dedication of Thorndike Memorial November 15, 1923:

It is a worthy ambition to desire to be remembered with honor by posterity and gratitude by those who survive us after we have passed out of life; the monuments we erect to our dead and the epitaphs we write upon them only illustrate the attempt of men to put off the inevitable day when they shall be forgotten of earth. Monuments and epitaphs are as futile as records written in water; forgetfulness is the changeless penalty of death; remembrance must be written into the hearts of posterity by good deeds.

This we do know, that he who, living or dying, by sacrifice and generosity, provides some instrumentality for the service of humanity, in conserving the health and increasing the happiness of his fellow-men, some beneficence for the betterment of the community and the safeguarding of its lives and homes, such a man may snatch from the oblivion of the grave, as long as his beneficence endures and bears fruit, the remembrance, gratitude and honor of the generations he has blessed by his gifts.

This beautiful building which we dedicate today to the memory of Dr. William H. Thorndike and the long and devoted service he gave to this hospital as one of its medical staff, is not only a memorial to the service and sacrifice of a great surgeon, but is a monument to the generosity and affection of his brother, George L. Thorndike, who provided the funds for the erection of this edifice.

The Thorndike Memorial with its splendidly efficient equipment represents the most advanced thought and achievement of modern medical science, and constitutes an assurance of safety for the health and strength of the Boston community that no other instrumentality can. The Thorndike Memorial with its laboratories and trained investigators, is, metaphorically, a clinical citadel, devoted to research, to the study of diseases and their causes, to the acquisition of the knowledge that is power, that is preparedness against an enemy more insidious and deadly than an army with banners; it is a medical armory where the weapons of prevention are forged; a fortification whose garrison is alert, open-eyed, open-minded, intelligently inquisitive, scientifically curious, relentlessly at war with disease and its allies, ignorance, dirt and decay; and its establishment and operation constitute an achievement that marks it as the crowning glory of the long and honorable life of the Boston City Hospital.

Begun during the administration of Mayor Joseph M. Wightman in 1861, and completed and dedicated to the service of the people during the administration of Mayor Frederick L. Lincoln in 1864, the Boston City Hospital was the first municipal hospital established in America. Beginning with a medical staff of 35 physicians and surgeons and housing 180 patients in the first year of its existence, its growth has been steady, upward, onward, progressive, abreast of every year of its life. Responsive to every sane improvement in medicine, hospitable to every constructive and proven method contributed to its administration by science and research, hostile to charlatany, courteous and helpful to experiment, but skeptical of the claims of visionaries and theorists, its expansion has been sound, safe, solid, and beneficial to the community; and today it has a staff of 145 specialists in the various branches of medicine and surgery, 70 house officers, 225 nurses trained in its own school, two supplementary relief stations and a convalescent home. In the immediate future we have the Lydia A. Cooper endowment of some $600,000 for general hospital uses and the health units made possible by the vision and beneficence of George Robert White to supplement its useful activities.

These, with this splendid Thorndike Memorial and its wonderful practical possibilities in the domain of medicine, make the Boston City Hospital and its constantly widening influence for human good, an instrumentality that should be a source of pride to every Bostonian and a stimulus to the generosity of a community, never parsimonious in its response to every good cause.

It is worthy of note in contrast to the 180 of its first year to state that an average of 1,200 patients have entered and left its wards daily during the past year, without any reference to the army of sufferers served by its out-door clinics, which number about 500 a day.

What a marvelous record of achievement in medical science the sixty years of life of the Boston City Hospital covers; achievement more useful, than that of all the ages preceding its foundation! In those early days of the sixties anesthesia and antiseptics were unknown in medical practice. The Civil War, with its terrible death roll from diseases whose causes were only vaguely known and in whose presence medicine was practically helpless; and the surgery, whose operating skill, unrelieved by the mercies of modern agents, was at its best a horror, came and went to swell the roster of death and disability.

Pasteur is a name that stands out in the nineteenth century like a blaze of glory across the skies of science, his discovery of the germ theory was an event equal in importance to any in the history of the race. Lister has entered the Medical Hall of Fame by his discoveries in antiseptics, which have banished the terrors of operative surgery.

These sixty years have seen anesthesia and asepsis revolutionize surgery. Antitoxin, the child of Pasteur's germ theory, has stamped out practically yellow fever, bubonic plague, typhus, typhoid, diphtheria and plagues and pests ranging in virulence from sleeping sickness to beri-beri.

These discoveries have stimulated research, investigation, preventive medicine, changing old ways and old ideas, reforming hospital treatment and aiding recovery by introducing the methods of segregation and isolation, the lesser units in ward construction and, impressing upon all the imperative necessity of cleanliness and the elimination of every source and agency of infection.

The discovery of the X-ray has had an importance that it is difficult to overrate; it is a scientific eye from which nothing is hidden; and it is interesting to recall that it was first installed in the Boston City Hospital, the instrument, crude in its way, being made in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It is here in its fullest development in this Thorndike Memorial, with its dangers safeguarded against, so that ample protection is provided for both operator and patient.

The discovery of radium has proved a boon to humanity in its application to medical practice and its greatest possibilities await the development of scientific research. I will not multiply instances of the tremendous changes and discoveries in this span of wonderful years. I do not care to be guilty of the impertinences of a layman of enlarging on matters familiar to you all; I merely recall the age of miracle we are living in.

I wish only to emphasize the value of the Thorndike Memorial to Boston in particular and humanity in general as one agency in the revolution going on under our very eyes; and to announce the pride I take in being privileged to open its doors and dedicate it to the service of this city.

I have always been intensely interested in the Boston City Hospital and its work and possibilities and I have sought as far as lay in my official authority to foster its administration and augment its efficiency. Its expansion must always keep pace with the growth of the city and in order that its onward march may not be slowed up and that it may be ready to face and solve the problems of the future I have instructed the trustees of the hospital to ask the Legislature for authority to borrow and spend $3,000,000 for new buildings and equipment for maternity and other pressing needs. The mothers of men are the tap root of the race; they must be guarded and cared for in the most trying and important function of motherhood; it is the highest duty of society.

The greatest evil of this age and the one that does most to handicap the progress of the world is the waste of men and material everywhere; and I am of the opinion that the doctrine that must be forced into the brain of America day in and day out is the conservation of the gifts of God and the arrest of the spendthrift waste that marks our civilization.

The waste of material, even though nature will reproduce much that is destroyed, is criminal, affecting as it does every activity of civilization; but the waste of humanity, as needless as wicked, through disease, sweated industry, child labor, slum conditions, insanitary housing and kindred evils is the unforgeable sin; and unless this human wastage is arrested civilization must fail and the republic pass—eternal vigilance is still the price of civilization.

The Thorndike Memorial in its best sense is a temple raised to the glory of God, doing for man and his physical being the service the church gives to man and his spiritual welfare. Its mission is the extirpation of the physical evils that are the outgrowth of ignorance and neglect which destroy the man made in the image of his God; the discovery of the causes and cures of these ills; the protection of human life in all its stages; and the ending by precaution and prevention of the slaughter of the innocents, the terrible death toll of infancy, and the wreckage of physical humanity so frequently reflected in its moral attributes, and which places such tremendous economic burdens on every community.

The dedication of the Thorndike Memorial is without any exaggeration the most important event in the latter day history of Boston; its activities will concern the whole country; its discoveries and achievements will interest all earth and add to the righteous pride and real glory of Boston.

If the medical profession of Boston will continue to live up to its noble traditions and pursue its splendid ideals, which connote a ceaseless endeavor for man and his health and a constant forward march towards physical perfection it will be well with the Thorndike Memorial and make secure the honorable fame of its founders.

CITY'S BURDENS MAY INCREASE.

He warned heads of departments not to make recommendations for increases of pay to employees of more than $100 unless on the sliding scale of promotions.

Vacancies should be filled by those within the departments; that is, the civil service list should be drawn upon for the lowest paid grades, the higher grades to be filled by promotions within the department.

Street Commissioner John H. L. Noyes asked if promotions were to be made only by seniority. The Mayor said no, that merit must count. "The Civil Service and Finance Commission," he said, "had disrupted every political organization in the city and the municipality should be run like any other big corporation, that was spending $1,000,000 a week, on a sane and efficient basis."

He recommended reasonable increases in the Library Department, saying that the employees in the library were the poorest paid in the city's service. "It is a travesty on education," he said, "to find an educated library employee getting $20 a week while the elevator man was getting $21."

PUBLIC LIBRARY EXHIBITION NOTE.

There will be on view for a few days in the Exhibition Room of the Public Library in Copley square several water-colors of church interiors painted by Miss Emily M. B. Warren, English artist and lecturer. The picture of the grave of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey has been given a place in Queen Mary's famous Dolls House. For this Miss Warren has made a replica on ivory measuring one by one and one half inch. All of Miss Warren's water-colors reproduce admirably the atmosphere and feeling of the English ministers.

MAYOR CURLEY SECURES QUICK ACTION FOR NAVY YARD.

Mayor Curley's move to secure action from Washington for the benefit of the workers at the Charlestown Navy Yard has met with immediate results, and it is probable that the impending cut of 50 per cent in the working force at the Charlestown yard will be prevented.

Attention of the Mayor was called to the situation when a delegation of employees called at City Hall and explained that unless immediate action was taken the working force of the yard would soon have to be reduced. The delegation explained that the Charlestown yard wished to have a chance to bid on the reconditioning of five vessels being reconditioned by the United States Shipping Board.

The call for bids was received at the Navy Yard on November 5 and were to be closed at the New York office of the Board on November 14. The delegation claimed that this was too short a time for the yard to study the plans and specifications and make a proper bid for at least one of the ships. When this was learned the Mayor sent the following telegram Saturday to President Coolidge:

"The exigencies of the situation at the Boston Navy Yard with a proposed reduction of the working force of at least 50 per cent in the near future make it imperative that bids for the reconditioning of the five naval vessels to be received by the Shore Establishment of the United States Navy at the New York office of the Shipping Board on November 14, 1923 upon the following vessels, 'Cantigny,' 'Marne,' 'Curcu,' 'Tornse' and 'Aisne,' shall be extended for a period of three weeks in order that the Boston Navy Yard may be afforded opportunity to submit a bid, which they will be unable to do unless extension of time is granted."

President Coolidge has promised immediate action in the following telegram received by the Mayor Sunday, from C. B. Slemple, secretary to the President:

"At the direction of the President I am immediately bringing to the attention of the Shipping Board the request contained in your telegram.

C. B. SLEMP,
Secretary to the President.

CITY HALL NOT PLACE TO PROTEST AGAINST GENERAL HALLER.

MAYOR CURLEY ISSUES STATEMENT EXPLAINING HIS STAND AND ANNOUNCING THAT POLISH GENERAL IS GUEST OF AMERICAN LEGION AND GOV. COX AS STATE'S HOSTS.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement November 13:

As there appear to be people in Boston who are still protesting against the coming of Gen. Josef Haller to this city as the alleged guest of the municipality I desire to restate the fact that the distinguished visitor comes as the guest of the American Legion and the Governor of the Commonwealth.

My position is plain and intelligible. In accordance with a time-honored custom I will receive General Haller or any other distinguished visitor with proper courtesy, who is interested enough to call at City Hall. This I conceive to be my plain duty as Mayor of an American city, without any reference to any foreign quarrel, activity, or interest, his name may be associated with, and with which the City of Boston, as an essentially American community, has nothing to do. For this reason Premier Clemenceau, General Gouraud, and other visitors from abroad were courteously received at City Hall, though doubtless there were groups of our citizens to whom they were antipathetic. For the benefit of all concerned I wish to emphasize the fact that whether my personal sympathies and views coincide with, or differ from, those of citizens who protest this or that visitor, my official duty is quite another matter and must be the deciding factor.

Meantime those who object to General Haller, who has been honored and entertained by the President of the United States and other American dignitaries, should carry their protests to the Massachusetts hosts of the Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Polish Republic, namely, his Excellency, Governor Cox, or Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, and not to the Mayor of Boston.

MAYOR REGRETS INABILITY TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

Mayor Curley sent the following telegram to the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association in Convention at Norfolk, Va.:

HON. J. HAMPTON MOORE, President, Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, Norfolk, Va.:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—I regret beyond measure that the burden of municipal problems preclude my attendance at the Sixteenth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Convention assembled at Norfolk, Va. The service of your association in the development of the American Merchant Marine, the establishment of inland waterways and the demand for public improvements upon the harbors of the Atlantic and Pacific slopes constitutes the finest character of economic service in behalf of our common country and I assure you I wish the convention a most eventful and successful session. I desire to again reassure you that I am heart and soul with this national movement and shall be ever ready to serve the association with every means that lies within my power.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR CURLEY GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGE OF PHARMACY.

TELLS OF WORK FOR CONSERVATION OF HUMAN RACE DONE BY MEMBERS OF UNSUNG PROFESSION DURING CENTENNIAL EXERCISES.

Address of Mayor Curley delivered at centennial exercises of Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, held November 14, 1923.

MR. PRESIDENT.—It is with sincere pleasure that I come today to the centennial exercises of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy to bring my felicitations to those who have had the administration of its affairs in their keeping and to express my wishes for the continuance of its good work and success.

The care and conduct of this useful institution with its responsibilities and anxieties have come down to you as a legacy from the longer years of a century ago when this college was established; and it speaks well for the kind and character of them who guided and directed its fortunes that they have been able to bring it into these spacious days of 1923, honored and respected in this city for the high standards of personnel and work it has given to the community.

What a tremendous scientific revolution this college has witnessed and been a part of in the wonderful century of its existence. It has been a century of change and progress, of expanding knowledge of research and discovery, of constant advance along lines helpful to society; yet when this institution was established the world's knowledge of medicine, drugs and the healing arts was relatively limited and its appliances crude, and quackery, charlatanism and empiricism had still to be reckoned with, even in the center of civilization.

Today the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy has its feet firmly on the earth; it has passed out of the days of doubt and obscurity; it has found itself, and made itself unquestionably one of the efficient units of that great army of conservation whose talents and energies are dedicated to the great work of bettering the race and community, eliminating disease, stopping the waste of human life and making the world we live in cleaner, sweeter and safer for humanity. It has demonstrated its usefulness to the world and proven its right to live and be reckoned with.

That it has appealed by its practical usefulness to other minds than ours is shown by the existence of the George Robert White Hall in which we meet today.

George Robert White the donor of this handsome structure understood the value of the trained and educated pharmacist as a necessary ally of the medical profession and its related activities in the field of research and preventive medicine in the war on disease and the battle for the conservation of human life; and it was no mere accident that its utilitarian purposes and facilities should be housed in a home of beauty.

This hall was a foretaste of the munificence of a man who loved beauty as sincerely as he labored for his fellow man; who left a great fortune for the benefit of the city he lived and died in; and who fully realized that he who wishes to pass his name down in honor and esteem to succeeding ages must write that name into the hearts and minds of posterity by good deeds for the betterment of the race.

The health units we are building in this city in his name and through his beneficence will not only help to extirpate the unsightly and unwholesome slums of Boston, but will replace them by centers of light and healing, of education in a knowledge of health and sanitation, which will be reflected in better lives and living conditions and a serener and sweeter outlook on life.

The Massachusetts College of Pharmacy always has been and always must be a vital adjunct to the healing arts. The medical profession cannot live by itself alone; its work must be supplemented by the knowledge and skill of the pharmacist; just as the planning and campaigning of the spectacular leaders of an army can secure victory only by the practical and prosaic services of those who feed and clothe the men who fight the battles.

The names of the graduates of this institution in the war of conservation of the race may not glitter in the bulletins of victory but there would be no victories to record and no bulletins to blazon were the unpublished activities of the pharmacist absent from the struggle.

I sincerely trust that the work of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy may be as successful and useful in the future ahead of it as in the years that are behind it.

EVOLUTION OF THE PRESENT BOSTON HEALTH DEPARTMENT; ITS EARLY DEVELOPMENT AND ITS ASSOCIATION WITH BOSTON'S HISTORICAL CHARACTERS.

BY S. L. MALONEY, SECRETARY, BOSTON HEALTH DEPARTMENT, BEFORE THE CITY FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS, CITY HALL, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1923, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

Your Honor Mayor Curley, Health Commissioner Mahoney and Members of the Federation of Women's Clubs:

My part in today's program is to give you an idea of the history and activities of the Boston Health Department, which will include its beginnings and its present divisions, responsibilities and its budget. It is significant to note that men of influence in Boston's early history gave attention to the prevention and control of disease. Health, history and heroes are bound in one. Our predecessors here blazed a trail that has not only kept Boston in the forefront of American municipalities in matters affecting public health, but has left a path that sanitarians of other cities in later years have safely followed. In other directions, also, the same may be said of Boston's early history, the history of Plymouth Colony and the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Many of the men of those early days that we remember through our school histories have their names in the archives of health in this section of the Commonwealth. I have in mind Samuel Fuller, Governor Winslow, Capt. Robert Keyne, Rev. Cotton Mather, Thomas Dawes, and the first president of Boston's first Board of Health, Paul Revere. If you will permit, I will digress for a few minutes to tell you of the activities of these pioneers, these pathfinders who were interested not only in their own welfare but the well-being of their fellow man; these far-sighted men who through wise and sane legislation, some of which still remain intact on our statute books, and which has served as a model of health legislation in the leading cities and states of the Union, and who through their financial and physical efforts, laid a firm foundation on which the present model structure has been built, and which has weathered the ravages of time and the onslaughts of epidemics.

Boston's health program and the beginning of its early progressive health legislation began with the founders of the Colony, and we may picture the figure of Dr. Samuel Fuller who came here on the "Mayflower" in 1620 ministering to the colonists, and his wife, Bridget Lee, who came here three years later, and acted as nurse in his professional work. Doctor Fuller and his wife did not confine their work to Plymouth Colony but went on healing missions throughout the Massachusetts Bay Colony, especially in times of epidemic, and not long after we find Governor Winslow ministering to the Wampanoag Chieftan, Massasoit.

As early as 1639 Massachusetts provided for the registration of births, deaths and marriages, although there are still about a dozen states in the Union that at this late date do not provide for such registration.

In colonial days there were many wells and springs in and about Boston, and of course we all know of the great spring nearby in Spring lane, to which residents came even as far as from Charlestown to secure water, but despite this supply there was always a shortage of water, and this condition was so well known that Capt. Robert Keyne of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company provided enough money in his will to build here the first conduit in America in 1652. In consequence of epidemic conditions in the Barbadoes and the West Indies in 1647 and 1648, the first sanitary legislation in America was enacted in March of 1648 by the General Court of Massachusetts Bay Colony, which provided for maritime quarantine to prevent the introduction of plague through trading vessels from the West Indies. With the abating of the epidemic the act was repealed the following year. In 1666 the selectmen made rules and regulations concerning the work of scavengers, and they were active in 1678 in their efforts to restrict the spread of smallpox. In 1692 the General Court provided that the selectmen of Boston and other market towns should regulate offensive trades, and in the following year, 1693, the Governor and Council quarantined at Long Island, Boston Harbor, the fleet of Sir Francis Wheeler, which had arrived from Martinique, the crew of which was sorely afflicted with what was supposed to be yellow fever. Later, in 1699, the Privy Council passed another quarantine act but this was disallowed because of its unusual character and stringent regulations. Inland quarantine was usually adopted in early colonial times whenever smallpox appeared, but it was seldom effective.

In 1647 there was passed by the Legislature an act against the pollution of the harbor or the "Cove" which is now the vicinity of Haymarket square and statutes which required the isolation of the sick, and interesting local regulations relating to the care of persons ill with smallpox and the disposition of their clothing adopted in accordance therewith, were promulgated in Boston and Salem as early as 1678, so that the attempt to check the spread of communicable diseases by proper management is no innovation and was made in early colonial times. During the smallpox outbreak in Massachusetts Bay Colony this same year, the town officers of Boston and Salem adopted measures for isolation and disinfection not unlike those in existence at the present time. From that time to the present our town and state governments have continued to practice and to improve methods of control, not only of smallpox, but of an increasing number of other communicable diseases.

The Massachusetts Acts of 1701 provided for the impressment of houses to serve as hospitals to which patients might be removed and for furnishing nurses and attendants in addition to requiring towns to provide places for the isolation of smallpox. In a few other states, also, towns are required by statute to provide for the establishment of communicable disease hospitals. This Massachusetts law is still on the statute books, but it has been invoked only in serious epidemic emergencies, probably intended to be enforced only in a serious outbreak. In town meeting September 22, 1701, an order was passed regulating the laying or repairing of drains and in 1709 the Massachusetts Legislature passed an act regulating drains and sewers.

In 1721, we saw the efforts of Dr. Zabdiel Boylston and the Rev. Cotton Mather to provide inoculation against smallpox treated with derision by many of our citizens. The experiences, services and writings of Doctor Boylston were recognized later, however, when the Royal Society of London made him a fellow. The Rev. Cotton Mather, who had been abroad, had also called the attention of the physicians in Boston to the favorable accounts from India and England of inoculation with smallpox vaccine for the purpose of securing immunity.

In 1742 an act was passed relating to the spreading of smallpox and other infectious diseases. Further progress along lines of prevention is indicated in 1782 when Harvard University established three medical professorships. An act against selling unwholesome provisions was passed in 1785 (known as the "Great Public Health Act").

In 1795 the Boston Aqueduct Company was incorporated for the purpose of bringing water into the city from Jamaica Pond, but in 1816 this supply had become inadequate and an act utilizing other supplies was not passed until 1846.

The Public Health Acts of Massachusetts in 1797 gave the local boards of health authority to abate nuisances to prevent the spread of contagion and related largely to quarantine matters and this seems to be the beginning of a period that was to last for three quarters of a century, during which it was generally believed that municipal cleanliness was about all that was necessary to preserve the public health. The importance of contagion was forgotten, and the entire attention of sanitarians was devoted to improving the environment, and even that was given only very slight attention. This Act of 1797 specifically provided for the manner in which local government should order the abatement of nuisances and secure compliance with its orders, and this law has remained practically unchanged on the statute books until the present writing—over 125 years—and it has served as a model, being copied almost verbatim by fourteen other states. This is of such interest and worth that I shall quote it:

"The board or the health officer shall order the owner or occupant at his own expense to remove any nuisance, source of filth, or cause of sickness, found on private property, within twenty-four hours, or such other time as it deems reasonable, after notice served as provided in the following section; and if the owner or occupant neglects so to do, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding twenty dollars for every day during which he knowingly permits such nuisance or cause of sickness to remain after the time prescribed for the removal thereof."

This statute of 1797 had such broad provisions as to give local sanitary authority all the power necessary for the exercise of its proper functions, and has been maintained against all attacks upon it as a competent source of authority.

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries there was probably no permanent private organization designed to promote the public health and officials gave but a small part of their time to the work, and in emergencies, temporary committees or officers were appointed. It is said that a board of health was established in Petersburg, Va., in 1780, one in Philadelphia in 1794, and one in New York in 1796.

The first comprehensive state enactment for the establishment of a local department of health was that of June 22, 1797, in Massachusetts, and under its provisions Boston established a board of health, with Paul Revere as president.

This act was amended several times between 1799 and 1816. The order of election of the first Board of Health is of interest:

On Saturday the Ninth day of March, 1799. Agreeable to a Notification from the Honble Thomas Dawes & Wm. Smith Esqs a Committee from the Honble General Court of this Commonwealth, the Representatives of the several Wards in the Town of Boston, elected agreeable to an Act of the Legislature of this Commonwealth for the Establishment of a Board of Health, met at Faneuil Hall at Eleven o'clock A.M.

Thomas Dawes & William Smith, Esqs being present, the last mentioned Gentleman proceeded to read the Returns from the several Wards, and declared the Members who were severally present duly elected.

The Board then proceeded by Ballot to the Choice of a Secretary for the Ensuing Year; and Mr. John W. Folsom had a majority of Votes, was duly elected, and he accepted the Choice.

The Committee having Retired the Board then proceeded to the Choice of a President for the Ensuing Year and directed the Secretary to collect and sort the Ballots, when it appeared Paul Revere Esq. had a Majority of Votes, was duly elected, and he accepted the Choice.

On a Motion That a Committee be Appointed to Prepare and Report, as soon as may be, Rules and Regulations for the government of the Board, passed in the Affirmative, and the following Members were Nominated and Appointed, viz.

MR. JOSEPH HEAD
JAMES PRINCE &
PAUL REVERE, ESQ.

On a Motion That a Committee be appointed to Apply for the Use of the Senate Chamber at the Old State House, being an Eligible and convenient situation for the future Meetings of the Board, passed in the Affirmative, and John Winslow Esq. was Nominated and Appointed.

Adjourned to Wednesday next 4 o'clock P.M.

On March 16, 1799, Dr. Benjamin Waterhouse published in the "Columbian Centinel" the first story in America of Jenner's vaccination discovery and was entitled "Something Curious in the Medical Line," and on July 8, 1800, the first vaccination was performed in Boston. Dr. James Jackson, returning from Europe in September, 1800, gave added favorable opinion and the movement soon became widespread and two years later the Boston Board of Health officially recommended it.

I should like to comment further in a general way regarding state and local health department inception and progress under legislative authority, before I give you the legal history of Boston's present Health Department. In that way I think I can best inform you of the present activities of the Boston Health Department as it exists now. A state health department which should investigate diseases, guide and direct local health activities and remedy defects of local government in matters of health control is quite modern, and it was first urged in 1849 by a commission of which Lemuel Shattuck was the guiding spirit and who wrote also that remarkable document of 1850, called the "Report of the Massachusetts Sanitary Commission."

In 1853 the Massachusetts Medical Society petitioned for the appointment of a general board of health and in 1861 a committee of the Boston Sanitary Association presented a memorial to the Legislature for the establishment of a state health department and vital statistics. But not until 1869 was the State Board of Health established by act of the Legislature, the first permanent board of its kind in the United States. Later, in 1877, Massachusetts was the first state to enact a law providing for the inspection of plumbing, and in 1881 the city of Lawrence was the first municipality to adopt a complete plumbing code. In 1878, Prof. W. R. Nichols went to Europe to study water purification for the Massachusetts State Board of Health and his report was printed in the annual report of that year. In 1883 he published his notable book on water supply. Again in 1894 Massachusetts was in the front rank, with the establishment of the first tuberculosis sanatorium in Rutland, Mass. Linda Richards, a graduate of the New England Hospital fifty years ago, was the first graduate nurse in America.

We now come back to the Boston Health Department itself and follow the functions and powers of the authorities designated with health supervision and control from early Boston history to date. The by-laws and orders of the town of Boston in the province of the Massachusetts Bay, revised in the year 1750, contains in chapter III, the following:

"To prevent nuisances in the Common, and to regulate the same, it is voted and ordered: That no Person shall lay any dead Carcass, Carrion, Ordure, Filth or Rubbish of any kind on any part of the Common, or elsewhere in this Town, not being on such Person's own land, except in such places only as he shall be by the Select-Men for the time being allowed for that purpose, on the Penalty of not less than Ten Shillings, nor more than Twenty Shillings, at the Discretion of the Justice before whom such conviction shall be."

In 1797, Chapter 16, of the Acts of that year approved June 22, 1797, besides referring to the powers of the Selectmen to remove and accommodate persons sick with contagious diseases, and making it necessary for persons arriving from places infected to inform the Selectmen, ordered that: "each town or district in this Commonwealth, may at their meeting held in March or April annually . . . when they shall judge it to be necessary, choose and appoint a health committee to consist of not less than five nor more than nine suitable persons, or one person to be a health officer, whose duty it shall be to remove all filth of any kind whatsoever, which shall be found in any of the streets, lanes, wharves, docks, or in any other place within the limits of their town, whenever such filth shall in their judgment endanger the lives or the health of the inhabitants thereof; all the expenses whereof to be paid by the person who placed it there, if known, or if not, by the town." This act also authorized the committee or health officer to serve a notice upon the owner or occupier of any private property on which was found any filth as described above, and upon failure so to remove such filth from such property, after the expiration of the twenty-four hour period of the notice served, the offender was subject to a fine of $100, together with any costs to the town in removing the filth. Thus we see that the power to prevent nuisances and to regulate the same was first in the selectmen, and then in the committee or officer appointed by the town or district. Its attention was directed chiefly against insanitary conditions.

Next we have the Acts of 1799, chapter 10, "To empower the Town of Boston to choose a Board of Health and for removing and preventing nuisances." This law authorized the Board to examine into all nuisances and such sources of filth as may be injurious to the health of the inhabitants of Boston. It enumerated the sources from which filth might proceed, such as, drains, slaughter-houses, tanyards, fishhouses, hogsties, docks, stables, animal and vegetable decompositions, vessels, etc., and then broadened the powers almost without limit, by the phrase "or any other cause of any nature or kind whatsoever, which in their opinion may be injurious to the health of the inhabitants." Here, too, first appeared the power which the Board of Health then had, and which it still has today, of making rules and regulations, which had the force of law within the limits of the town.

An interesting feature of this law of 1799 was that the Board of Health appointed by virtue of it was constituted the Health Committee for the Town of Boston and was invested with all the powers and duties formerly given to the Health Committee which was authorized by the Acts of 1797, cited above.

Next came the first real organization, by statute of the Board of Health of Boston, by the Acts of 1816, chapter 44. This law empowered the inhabitants of the town of Boston to choose "one able and discreet person, being a freeholder and resident within the ward for which he shall be chosen," to be a member of a Board of Health. This Board consisted of one person from each ward, chosen by a majority of the voters present, and the number of members thus elected was twelve. This law provided for the selection of a president and a secretary from among the members thereof, called together by the "president for the time being," the administration of oath of office to the secretary for the faithful performance of his duties, the keeping of all records, books and papers of said Board, by the secretary, and made certified copies of votes, orders, etc., of the Board, or copies certified from the records by the secretary admissible as evidence in court procedures. This law further empowered the Board and described as its duty to examine into all causes of sickness, nuisances and sources of filth injurious to the health of the inhabitants of the Town of Boston, and with reference to contagious and malignant disorders within the limits of the town, if examination by the physician of the Board determined that the public safety required it, gave the Board power to remove such a person to the hospital on Rainsford Island or any other place within the town, or to confine such person where he then was. A penalty of not less than $5 nor more than $500 was provided for refusal to obey such order of the Board.

Again, in this law of 1816, appeared the legislative power of the Board with reference to the making of rules and regulations relative to preventing, removing, or destroying all nuisances, source of filth and causes of sickness within the town. It further provided for seizure and removal to a safe place without the city of unwholesome or putrid or tainted meats, fish, vegetables, bread or other articles of provisions which in the opinion of the Board and the consulting physician of the Board were unfit for food; for the making of rules, etc., relating to clothing capable of conveying disease; to regulate quarantine of vessels; to appoint a principal physician to the Board, resident in the Town, to reside on Hospital Island during quarantine.

That brings us to the first Charter of Boston as a City. This was done by the Acts of 1821, chapter 110, section 17 of which stated that all the power and authority by law vested in the Board of Health for the town of Boston relative to the quarantine of vessels and relative to every other subject whatsoever, shall be, and the same is hereby transferred to and vested in the City Council created by the act. It further provided that these powers were to be carried into execution by the appointment of health commissioners, or in such other manner as the health, cleanliness, comfort and order of the city may require, subject to alterations by the Legislature. Three such commissioners were appointed hereunder. The Town Board of Health had been abolished and from 1822 to 1873, committees of the City Council supervised health matters.

At about this period the department consisted of two branches, one concerned with the enforcement of quarantine regulations, and the other having control of sanitary conditions within the city. Mayor Josiah Quincy seemed to have been the first Mayor to clash with the Board of Health in these early days, as to the line of demarcation in authority over cleaning of the streets. These differences between Mayor Quincy and the three-headed Board of Health, led in 1824 to its displacement by a single commissioner, and under his administration the collection of house offal formerly done by contractors was taken over by the Board of Health. It is notable in this connection that the cleanliness obtained and the abatement of nuisances under Mayor Quincy was claimed by him to have had the effect of perceptibly lowering the death rate, which is stated to have been 20 per 1,000 inhabitants in 1825, as against 23 per 1,000 for the preceding ten years.

Next came the revised charter of the City of Boston, under the Acts of 1854, chapter 448, creating a Mayor, a Board of Aldermen of thirteen members, and a Common Council of seventy-five persons both of which latter bodies were denominated the City Council. Section 40 of this chapter vested all the power and authority now in the City Council or in the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, relative to the public health and the quarantine of vessels still in the City Council, to be carried into execution by the appointment of one or more health commissioners.

Under the provision of chapter 206, Acts of 1859, the inspector of milk was authorized to be appointed by the Mayor and Aldermen of the several cities of the Commonwealth.

In 1863 the City Ordinances of May 21 of that year declared that "the Board of Aldermen shall constitute the Board of Health of the city, for all purposes, and shall exercise all powers vested in and shall perform all the duties prescribed to the City Council as a Board of Health, subject only to ordinances, regulations, and orders of the City Council," which was further empowered to annually elect by concurrent vote of the two branches of government a superintendent of health, who might appoint an assistant, subject to approval by the Board of Aldermen. Then there was a city physician elected annually by concurrent vote of the two branches, and further an annual election in the same manner of five consulting physicians, to give to the Mayor, the Board of Aldermen or the Common Council all such professional advice necessary in connection with contagious or other dangerous diseases in the city, or other matters relating to the preservation of health.

Still further, on December 2, 1872, the Mayor was vested with the power to appoint a board of three commissioners to exercise the functions of the Board of Health. This was about one month after the Boston Fire, at a time when there had been reported several hundred cases of smallpox, and in the first report published at this time there is no mention of insanitary conditions, and the rules and regulations adopted deal entirely with smallpox and other infectious diseases. This last legislation by the city government relative to health supervision was the direct result of the conflicting delegation of powers relative to health, and was an attempt to secure more concentrated control of such matters.

We then find in 1885, under chapter 266 of the Acts of that year, a still further revision of the city charter, and under the Act of 1885, chapter 382, every member of the Board of Health and every health inspector was required to subscribe to and take an oath before the city clerk for the proper and faithful performance of his duties. Then the Board of Health was authorized in 1895, chapter 449, to appoint as employees of the department one or more health inspectors, to perform duties and have powers conferred by law on inspectors of milk, inspectors of vinegar, of animals and of provisions and of animals intended for slaughter.

Then comes the revised charter of 1909, Acts of 486 of that year, which expressly prohibited the abolition of the Board of Health, which as it then existed consisted of three commissioners. Under the provisions of this act, the Board of Health still functioning as it then existed, the City Ordinances of 1914, chapter 17, declared that the Health Department shall be under the charge of a board of three commissioners (which was later changed to read "a health commissioner" by the ordinances of the same year, second series), to exercise the powers and perform the duties relative to public health conferred by special or general acts on the City Council of Boston or boards of health, and included power to appoint a city physician, medical inspector, etc.

That brings the Health Department to the present time so far as organization is concerned, carrying with it practically all the powers and duties that were formerly authorized to be performed by the various other councils, boards, commissioners, officers and the like that were from time to time invested with health control powers.

To be more specific with reference to the budgets, activities, personnel and administration of the department, it might be well to state that the activities of the department originally embraced a much wider scope. Quarantine observation and collection of ashes and garbage were originally functions of the department but are now in the hands of the Federal Government and the City of Boston Public Works Department, respectively. School medical inspection began officially, under the Boston Health Department in 1894, and reached a high state of efficiency in the prevention and control of diseases among school children. It has, however, since 1915, been transferred to the School Committee, under the direction of Dr. William H. Devine, as director. Co-operation in this latter connection is still exercised by the Health Department in that a daily list of communicable diseases reported for the calendar day is sent to each public or private school or hospital or institution in the city. A remark here relative to other functions related to health which are in other cities, but not in Boston, under the Health Department, seems worth while. I refer now to registration of births, deaths and marriages, under the Registry Department in Boston; to the hospitalization of diseases of all kinds, particularly communicable diseases, in the Boston City Hospital; and to the hospitalization of cases of tuberculosis among Boston residents, under the Boston Sanatorium Department. Perhaps, however, this arrangement of municipal government functions in Boston has its proper significance, and there certainly is no friction existing between the departments concerned; quite the contrary.

With the exception of the Quarantine Division, up to 1915 part of Boston's Health Department, the organization of the Health Department under the Ordinances of 1914 remains the same today; i. e., Medical, Child Hygiene, Sanitary, Food Inspection and Laboratory Divisions, and Division of Vital Statistics, Records and Accounts. Then, for purposes of administrative efficiency, there are within the department other divisional activities, as follows:

First: Under the Food Inspection Division, the Abattoir Inspection Service at Brighton, where all slaughtering of animals in Boston is supervised; the Bureau of Milk Inspection; the Dairy Inspection Service; Pedler Inspection Service, and the Market, Store and Restaurant Service.

Second: Under the Medical Division there is the Bureau of Communicable Diseases in charge of the epidemiologist of the department; the Health Unit at No. 17 Blossom street, and the Detention Hospital at 112 Southampton street, Roxbury.

Third: Under the Sanitary Division there is the Convenience Station Service and the general Sanitary Inspection Service, which includes housing inspection.

Fourth: Directly under the Health Commissioner is the Bureau of Administration, under the management of the secretary.

Fifth: The garage, at 20 North Grove street, which also houses the Superintendent of Pedlers.

With reference to the central office of the Commissioner, the following is the location, in City Hall Annex, of the various divisions of the department: On the eleventh floor are the offices of the commissioner and the secretary, the Medical Division, the Division of Vital Statistics, Records and Accounts, the Bureau of Milk Inspection, the Laboratory Division and the Child Hygiene Division. On the tenth floor are the Food Inspection Division, the Dairy Inspection Service and the Sanitary Division. The Bureau of Milk Inspection, part of the Food Inspection Division, is located on the tenth floor so that outlets to the outside air, through the roof may be more easily available in connection with the operation of the chemical laboratory which is part of this service.

The total appropriation for 1923 was $535,836.01 based upon the total estimate asked for by the Health Commissioner. Taking the various divisions of the department, as noted before, the following expenses for salary and other services is approximated as indicated. Approximated figures represent a fair statement of actual conditions for this year (the fiscal year does not end until January 31, 1924) because they are based on actual expenditures for other recent years. The commissioner's office, including the Bureau of Administration under the secretary, has a total salary expense of $10,353.15, exclusive of the salary of the Health Commissioner fixed by law at $7,500 a year, and a total other expense of about $8,000 for supplies, advertising, printing, and the like. The secretary has six office assistants, and under his direction the library of the department is kept intact, with adequate cataloging and indexing for reference purposes; the publicity and health educational activities emanate from here; all matters affecting the personnel of the entire department are registered in this office; the "Monthly Bulletin" is prepared, edited and mailed; annual reports of the divisions are correlated, edited, and prepared for final printing and distribution; special circular letters of general health scope, and regulations are prepared, published, promulgated and distributed, under the direction of the Health Commissioner; all licenses, with the exception of milk licenses, are issued here, and an account of all money collected for these licenses is required to be forwarded daily to the secretary who is bonded for the collection and deposit of all fees prescribed by law; contracts entered into on behalf of the city by the department are recorded; and generally all matters over which it is necessary for the Health Commissioner to exercise personal supervision, including the record of official transactions, are handled through the Bureau of Administration.

The Medical Division is in charge of a deputy commissioner, who has for assistants, one epidemiologist in charge of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases; one chief medical inspector, twelve medical inspectors, one director of health unit, one hospital superintendent, one supervising nurse, twenty nurses, one hospital helper, one fireman, one custodian and six clerks. Child hygiene activities were up to June 22, 1923, within the Medical Division, but the Child Hygiene Division has since been reinaugurated. Total expenses, therefore, of the medical division proper, exclusive of child hygiene activities, approximate $177,602.69. In this division, all communicable diseases are reported, tabulated, indexed and subsequently visited for purposes of supervision over isolation methods; modern preventive methods for the eradication of diphtheria are carried out; special attention is paid to the more uncommon diseases, such as smallpox, leprosy, and typhus fever a confirming diagnosis being made of all chicken pox cases to ascertain definitely that such a case is not an unrecognized case of smallpox. These uncommon diseases are quarantined or placed under observation at the Detention Hospital, which has recently been renovated to include modern sterilizing and laundry equipment, and additional quarantine facilities, so that it is possible now to accommodate adequately those persons whom it may be necessary to place here for observation or treatment.

Another feature of medical division activity is the supervision of all cases of venereal diseases reported to the local board as having lapsed treatment. Reports of investigations made are subsequently reported to the State Department of Public Health.

A bi-yearly survey of all cases of tuberculosis reported to the Boston Health Department is made by the nurses attached to the Boston Sanatorium and results reported to the Health Department, Medical Division, to bring records up to date.

The Health Unit is an adjunct of this division, too, under the control of a director. Here are housed all the agencies whose activities in matters of health of children and mothers, nutrition, and the like, are co-ordinated by the director in charge. There is in this unit a dental clinic operated for the city by experts from the Forsyth Dental Infirmary. This feature of health preservation is a departure from the recognized scope of health work, considered to be preventive rather than curative.

Next we have the Child Hygiene Division, with a deputy commissioner in charge, under whom serve one supervising nurse, eleven nurses, one clerk, and one special investigator. All matters relative to infant welfare are conducted in this division, day nurseries are examined and passed upon prior to the issuance of licenses, and special research work done to reduce deaths from infant and maternal causes. Special attention is also paid to the manner of feeding and care of infants, laying particular stress on the value of breast feeding of infants by mothers. The total expenses of this division since June 22, 1923, have been $13,191.18, but this figure is based on a seven months' approximation, so that the yearly total would be nearly twice this amount.

The Division of Vital Statistics, Records and Accounts, is in charge of a deputy commissioner, under whose direction are employed five clerks and stenographers, and one settlement investigator. The total expenses for this division, including salaries, and other expenses, are $31,500. In this division all purchases made on behalf of the department are registered and referred to the Supply Department, or the Printing Department, as the case may be, for actual purchase. All expenses for the Health Department, whether for personal or other services, are recorded in this office, correlated to the various items in the segregated budget to conform with the department appropriations, and periodical reports made to the City Auditor and Budget Commissioner. The annual budget is correlated here and allotments thereunder made to the various divisions of the department that a proper and systematic check may be kept on expenditures. Vital statistics are also prepared in this office; and about $50,000 is annually expended for the care and treatment of persons ill with communicable diseases in hospitals outside of Boston in those instances where the legal settlement of the person ill has been determined to be in Boston, this feature of the work being in the hands of a settlement investigator.

The Laboratory Division comes next. A deputy commissioner, who is a physician, is in charge; and he is assisted by a bacteriologist who is assistant director of the laboratory, and who is also a physician; then there are four bacteriologists who are not physicians, two technical assistants, three media men, two clerks-stenographers, two rat catchers, and one laboratory helper. The total expenses are estimated at $36,000. Bacteriological and serological examinations of specimens submitted to determine the presence or absence of disease organisms are made; bacteriological examination of foodstuffs to determine if there are any putrefactive bacteria present are made, and water and other miscellaneous examinations are also made. Rat trapping and examination has been discontinued at present, but from early in 1921 until the latter part of 1922 an extensive rat campaign was conducted, along the water front, to prevent the introduction of bubonic plague rodents. Research work is also performed; and educational advantages offered to hospitals, schools and institutions to learn the methods employed.

The Food Inspection Division is in charge of a deputy commissioner, under whom there is one chief food inspector, eleven food inspectors, one inspector of pedlers, and one clerk. In the dairy service, in charge of a veterinarian, there are seven inspectors and one clerk. The milk inspector has three collectors of samples, one chemist and two clerks under his supervision. The Abattoir Inspection Service, in charge of a veterinarian, has two veterinary and one lay inspectors under his charge. The total expenses of the entire Food Inspection Division, including these various services is approximated at $56,500. Generally, in all branches, the work done includes control and supervision, locally, over the sale, production and manufacture of food, drug and milk supplies, under the provisions of the "Food and Drug" law; wholesale and retail market, store, bakery and other food establishment inspection; ante and post mortem inspection of cattle, sheep and swine; collection and examination of milk samples and consequent court procedures for violations of the law relative to milk and its products, and to oleomargarine, vinegar, butter, cheese, etc.; issuance of milk and oleomargarine licenses; pedler inspection; dairy farm and city milk plant and receiving station inspection and examination; control of communicable diseases in animals, with a general route system which permits a fairly regular check to be kept on sanitary conditions and cleanliness of food establishments.

The dairy service has been partially motorized and the use of automobiles for transportation has resulted in a financial saving to the city, and greatly facilitated the manner and number of inspections possible.

Finally comes the Sanitary Division in charge of a deputy commissioner. He has under his control one chief sanitary inspector, four-four sanitary inspectors, three patrolmen detailed here by the Police Department, four constables to serve legal notices, one chief caretaker in charge of all convenience stations in the city under the Health Department and who is in charge of fifteen caretakers and ten matrons employed in these stations; and five clerks.

Generally, in the Sanitary Division, work consists of examination into all nuisances and sources of filth and other insanitary conditions, and to order them abated, a feature of the order of abatement being that the department may order a nuisance abated but may not direct the manner in which it shall be done. Specifically, dirty yards, insanitary conditions in houses and other buildings, passageways, alleyways, barber shops, offensive trade establishments, hen-yard locations, stables, dumps, basement and cellar rooms and water-closets; gas fixtures and appliances, wet and spongy lands, manuring, massage and vapor bath establishments, lying-in hospitals, plumbing and sewerage facilities, and the like require attention. Lodging houses and tenement houses are made the subject of regular inspection with a view to determining their condition. All inspectors are assigned to and made responsible for the sanitary condition of a specific district. A campaign is conducted annually to eradicate the mosquito pest by spraying stagnant pool locations with oil to prevent breeding of the pest. The convenience stations are located in the most advantageous sections of the city, and the two larger ones are operated on a twenty-four hour basis, both for men and women. There are eight stations, and $147,000 is annually allotted for upkeep, repair, supplies, personnel, etc.

As stated before, the total budget appropriation for the Health Department for the fiscal year 1923-24 was $535,836.01, which is greater by $205,986.35 than 1916. The population in 1916 was 746,083, and in 1923 is 770,400, an increase during this period of 24,317. The per capita cost of health preservation based on actual budget allowance in 1916 was $0.4421, as compared with $0.6955 in 1923. This comparison of per capita health cost is perhaps not so significant from the standpoint of accuracy as the same statement based on actual expenditures for these years, but as total actual expenditures for the entire fiscal year 1923-24 cannot be known till January 31, 1924, I shall give you the per capita cost of health in Boston for 1916 and 1922, based on actual expenditures. In 1916, therefore, total expenditures were $387,751, population 746,083, which gives us a per capita of $0.4393; in 1922, total expenditures were $463,819, population 764,017, which gives us a per capita of $0.6071, an increase of $0.1678 per capita over this period. It might be interesting here to note that of every dollar raised by taxation and spent by the municipality, the Health Department's apportionment is one cent.

The following cities, according to the latest available figures, show that the amounts indicated were expended for health purposes, per capita, in 1920: New York, 69 cents; Chicago, 39.2 cents; Philadelphia, 39 cents; Detroit, 73.3 cents; Cleveland, 48.3 cents; St. Louis, 34 cents; Baltimore, 53.1 cents; Los Angeles, 52.2 cents; Boston 54 cents. In some of these cities as compared with Boston the Health Department assumes additional functions relative to health, such as birth registration and recording, hospitals, school health supervision and industrial hygiene, but legislation in Massachusetts has definitely placed the various health services that in Boston are under departments other than the Health Department under the supervision and direction of separate departments, and perhaps the present arrangements work out as well in Boston as different methods do in other cities. Centralization of the control of all municipal health services might have its effect in co-ordination, but it is certain that specialization of control by decentralizing these special health services, such as births, deaths and marriage reporting, hospitals, industrial hygiene and school health supervision is possible because it permits specialists in these particular lines to devote themselves to their specialties without a centralized administration direction.

Much progress has been made in this city since the original, so-called Paul Revere Board of Health of 1799, when directive action was centered in sanitary environment. Today preventive medicine prescribes the best method of control to be directive action with respect to the individual, and his personal environment and habits with reference to the community. The strides that have been made under the present health commissioner, Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, have been made possible with the assistance of the present Mayor, James M. Curley, who has well been named the "Health Mayor." His efforts to annually provide more health units through the medium of the George Robert White Fund have earned him the commendation of all who are interested in health and social welfare and preventive medicine. To quote him, he recently said: "The ancient world recognized that a sound body was a prerequisite of a sound mind; and our world recognizes this sound philosophy and understands that in the preservation of the American republic no factor in its life is of greater importance than the preservation of health and the prevention of disease."

PRESENTS KEY TO RAILROAD MAN.

Mayor Curley, Thursday, bestowed upon Vice President D. C. Coleman of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the key of the city, and also presented him and the other members of his party copies of "Boston 100 Years a City," the new official history.

Coleman was one of the principal speakers at the dinner of the New England Railway Club at the Copley-Plaza. In his party were F. L. Wauklyn, executive secretary to the president of the Canadian Pacific; John Walsh, general manager of the Quebec Central; R. W. Robie, general manager of the American Express Company; R. D. Fitzmaurice, general superintendent of the New Haven; Frank Barbey, vice president of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, and Arthur J. Connolly, president of the New England Railroad Club.

CITY TO SELL REAL ESTATE.

The City of Boston is shortly to hold an auction sale of a half a million dollars' worth of discarded real estate.

Mayor Curley has refused in many instances to dispose of certain of the parcels privately on the ground that "evil-minded persons might think there had been a deal," although he is personally of the opinion that the prices brought by private negotiations would be higher than those obtained at auction.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 77.

I. CHARLES RIVER BASIN LOCK.

The repairs to the Charles River Basin lock having been completed, the lock was again opened to navigation on Monday, November 5, 1923, at 9 a. m.

II. SIGNS ON SPRINKLER SYSTEM ALARM GONGS.

With the approval of the Fire Commissioner and the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters a uniform sign has been adopted which may be placed near the outside sprinkler alarm gong to indicate its purpose and to suggest action in case the gong is ringing. This is an enameled iron sign, 11½ inches by 15 inches, with the words "Sprinkler Fire Alarm—When Bell Rings Call Police or Fire Department" in white lettering on a red background.

Recommendations should be made that this sign be placed on all buildings having sprinkler systems so that loss of time in sending in alarms of fire will be avoided.

III. CHANGES IN ASSIGNMENTS, FIRST DEPUTY CHIEF.

The following assignments will be added to the running card of the first deputy chief, to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, November 9, 1923:

SALARIES AND COST OF LIVING.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the Statistics Department be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council on or before the second Monday of January 1924, two reports on salaries and wages received, respectively, by the county and city employees, the School Department excluded, said reports to include charts and tables indicating the number of employees receiving uniform wages in the various departments, and other information on the following subjects, viz:

First, wages and salaries paid by the Commonwealth.

Second, wages and salaries paid by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Third, conclusions reached by recent commission considering the question of wages as affecting the cost of living.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule that the order may be put upon its passage. I would state that the reason why I have presented this order is that the Council should have before it in the consideration of the budget some intelligent understanding of the wages and salaries paid to city employees outside of Boston, so that the City of Boston may deal intelligently with the question and may pay as good a wage as the Commonwealth and other cities and towns in the United States. You cannot pull arguments down out of the air; you cannot manufacture evidence; but if we know what they are paying in the State of Massachusetts and in three of the great metropolitan cities of the United States, such as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, action can then be intelligently taken to put Boston on an equal plane with the Commonwealth and with three such cities. Therefore, in order that the Council may be able to discuss and consider the matter intelligently when the budget arrives I have introduced an order looking to the Statistics Department investigating this matter and giving us a report, so that we may have the necessary information before us by the second Monday in January.

The order was passed under a suspension of the rule.

JOHN T. SCULLY SQUARE.

COUN. GILBODY offered an order—That the space at the junction of Codman and Patterson streets and Dorchester avenue be named John T. Scully square, in memory of said John T. Scully, a veteran of the World War, and that signs be placed to designate the square.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 6, nays 0.

JITNEY LICENSES, HANOVER STREET.

NATIVES AND CITIZENS OF BOSTON AND VICINITY HONORED IN HALL OF FAME.

In the American Hall of Fame, New York City, dedicated in 1901, are inscribed on bronze tablets the names of 56 eminent men and 7 distinguished women deemed worthy of the highest honor on account of their services and attainments. Of the 63 individuals thus selected (up to 1920 inclusive) but one elector of 100 leading Americans, 27 were natives or for some time citizens of Boston or vicinity. The names of the latter are as follows: Chosen in 1900—John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, William Ellery Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Daniel Webster, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Horace Mann, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Samuel Finley Breese Morse, Joseph Story, Asa Gray, Gilbert Stuart—total, 13.

Chosen, in 1910—Edgar Allan Poe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, George Bancroft, John Lothrop Motley, Phillips Brooks—total, 5.

If those who were natives or residents elsewhere in the State are added to the list, the following 7 names increase the total to 34 for Massachusetts or more than half the whole number, viz.: William Cullen Bryant, Jonathan Edwards, Mark Hopkins, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney, Maria Mitchell, Mary Lyon.

If all New England is included, 4 more names will bring up the total to 38 or 60.3 per cent of whole number chosen. viz.: Roger Williams, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emma Willard.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 265, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds as contained in sec. 26. (2) By Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor which licensees claimed the right to sell was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher than the now By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

No. 47

NEW STUART STREET THOROUGHFARE WILL PROVE GREAT BOON TO CITY.

ARTERY FROM HUNTINGTON AVENUE TO WASHINGTON STREET OPENED LAST WEEK WILL GIVE BOSTON CITIZENS SHORT CUT TO BUSINESS CENTER AND EASE TRAFFIC TENSION.

NEW STUART STREET HIGHWAY AT HUNTINGTON AVENUE COMPLETED AND OPENED FOR TRAFFIC NOVEMBER 20.

THE SAME SECTION UNCOMPLETED SHOWING WORK DONE TO MAKE STREET IMPROVEMENT.

The new Stuart street from Washington street to Huntington avenue, and the widened Eliot street to Park square, was thrown open for public travel on November 20, which marks the finish of this public improvement authorized by the Legislature in 1920.

The construction of this street by the present administration from Dartmouth street to Huntington avenue and from Washington street to Columbus avenue involved the tearing down of a large number of business blocks and dwellings, and the fullest possible accommodation was given the occupants, and the demolition of buildings was carried on progressively, so that the ultimate completion of the street was very little delayed. Exceptional cases, however, required drastic action and buildings were sold at auction and immediately torn down by the city.

The section between Dartmouth street and Huntington avenue involved the construction of a retaining wall and deep fill along the Boston & Albany Railroad, which was also carried to completion within the time specified.

The principal contract for street construction was awarded to M. F. Gaddis Company on August 24, 1923, with the date of completion on or before November 15, 1923. This firm deserves a great deal of credit for prosecuting the work during long hours and on every Sunday, in order to finish it before November 15, and particularly on account of the interference of public service corporations on their uncompleted underground work.

CREDIT UNION FLOURISHING.

The Mayor received the following communication from the committee of the Employees Credit Union of the City of Boston.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The officers and directors of the City of Boston Employees Credit Union respectfully submit the annual report of the Credit Union for the year ending October 31, 1923.

The annual meeting was held on Tuesday, November 20, and reports for the year made by the supervisory and credit committees and Board of Directors showed the Credit Union to be in a flourishing condition.

During the year loans amounting to \$108,557.54 were made to employees of the City of Boston, making a total since the Credit Union was organized through your initiative, in 1915 of \$444,607.50. The losses have been comparatively small, being $\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 per cent of the total amount loaned in eight years. Interest charged on loans has been at the rate of 8 per cent per year, but after December 1 the rate will be reduced to 7 per cent. Every request for a loan which, in the opinion of the Credit Committee, is reasonable has been granted; 840 new loans were granted during the year, at an average of \$129.25 each.

On and after December 1, 1923, the amount which a member may deposit in any one year will be limited to $500.

Dividends on shares have been declared each year since organization at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, and interest on deposits has been at the same rate. There is a sufficient sum in the guaranty fund now $2,872.48—to provide against losses, besides which there is $7,266.24 of undivided earnings. In addition to the above, $4,000 is set aside in the bank as a reserve fund for emer-

MAYOR SCORES VICTORY FOR WEST END FAMILY BARRED FROM UNITED STATES.

Mayor Curley was especially pleased to learn November 21 of the admission of Mrs. Jacob Klayman of 16 Anderson street, Boston, by the authorities at the Bureau of Immigration at Portland, Me., with her three children, Annie, nineteen years of age, Jennie, seventeen years of age, and Rosie, twelve years of age. It appears that Jacob Klayman, who is employed as tailor's pressman, came to the United States in April, 1910, and was followed by his wife who arrived in America in 1913.

"Mr. and Mrs. Klayman at a great sacrifice established a home for their children on Anderson street and Mrs. Klayman went over to Russia to bring back her children. They arrived upon the steamship "George Washington" at Portland, Me., upon November 2, 1923, and were held by reason of the exhaustion of the Russian quota.

Mayor Curley certified that Mr. and Mrs. Klayman were hard working and deserving persons of excellent character, probity and honor and the enforced separation of their children after a long and arduous journey from Russia was a grave hardship and presented a most intolerable cruelty in the Klayman home.

tion regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To Room 906, City Hall Annex, for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must be paid in advance.

BOSTON GETS FUND FROM PORTLAND, ME.

His Excellency Governor Percival P. Baxter, one of the executors under the will of his father, James Phinney Baxter, waited upon his Honor Wednesday, November 21, with reference to the will payment to be made under the will of James Phinney Baxter, late of Portland, Me., which will provides a bequest of $50,000 to the City of Boston, $5,000 of which is to be paid to the city provided it accepts the bequest within three years after the final probate of the will, which was July 19, 1921, and the balance of $45,000 to be paid by the trustees within ten years of the final probate of the will in such installments and at such times within the ten years as the trustees may determine.

The $50,000 is to accumulate until the year 2020 or until such sum accumulates to $1,000,000, and the same is then to be used for suitable buildings to be erected in the City of Boston to commemorate the lives and deeds of the founders of New England. The city is to complete the building and all such details on December 31, 2025.

Upon recommendation of Mayor James M. Curley on July 25, 1922, the Council adopted the order providing for the acceptance of the bequest.

MAYOR REFUSES TO BOW TO DICTATES OF LOYAL COALITION ABOUT MEETING.

PROTEST OF KINDRED ORGANIZATION TO KU KLUX KLAN HAD TRIED TO PREVENT MEETING IN SYMPHONY HALL ON NOVEMBER 25,—CALLS COALITION OFFICERS "FLAG-FLAPPING" PATRIOTS.

Mayor Curley sent the following answer to the Loyal Coalition November 19:

MR. TELFAIR MINTON, 312 Nottingham Building, 25 Huntington Avenue, Boston:

SIR,—I have your letter of November 17, 1923, protesting against a contemplated meeting in Symphony Hall to be held on the evening of November 25 and asking that the Mayor of Boston prevent such meeting.

You write as secretary of a rather unsubstantial and tenuous organization known as the Loyal Coalition, whose president, F. Eugene Farnsworth, is a person of unsavory reputation and anti-American activities, whose treasurer, Arthur W. Joslin, has a vicious court record as a polluter of elections and whose secretary, Telfair Minton, has achieved a dubious notoriety as a flag-flapper, British propagandist, agent provocateur and in other roles equally malodorous and mischievous.

The address of the Loyal Coalition appears to change with the seasons; its aims and ends appear to be the same in secula seculorum, to disturb the peace, collect easy money, slander the Catholic population of Massachusetts and live by false pretences.

Who pays the bills of this disreputable organization is as profound a mystery as the membership of it is; and only when your Loyal Coalition can come to the Mayor of Boston with clean hands, with a membership that is real American, loyal and visible to the naked eye, and with an official staff that is not in need of moral disinfection, can you hope for any recognition at his hands.

The contemplated meeting which appears to alarm you is being conducted by and for American citizens; the announced speakers are reputable, cultivated gentlemen and scholars who have been scrutinized, examined and admitted to America by the constituted authorities. Unless the activities of these visitors show a tremendous change from a previous tour of America, their meetings will be conducted in a peaceful and orderly manner and devoid of the unfortunate public disturbances that marked the recent visit of a British politician who treated a friendly government, France, with scant consideration and sought to tie up the American republic with his pestilential and peculiar propaganda without any special protest from the Loyal Coalition, the Ku Klux Klan and kindred infamous organizations.

Your declaration that "The Loyal Coalition will not countenance any infringement on the rights of free speech and free assembly guaranteed to citizens of the United States by the Constitution thereof" must be very reassuring to our national, state and municipal governments; and carries with it a glorious echo of the undaunted utterances of the historic "Three Tailors of Tooley Street"; it will have a stimulating effect upon the embattled barber of New Brunswick, who, razor in hand, is camped upon our frontier prepared to lead his dauntless army of patriots, clad in nocturnal lingerie, to the suburbs of Boston to take counsel with you and the other members of the Loyal Coalition.

How the British empire will feel about your protest and proclamation I do not know; doubtless our state department will assure them that you are dangerous only when taking up a collection for personal and patriotic purposes; yet they may regard your minority allusion to "Aliens who come as guests to our country for the purpose of fomenting hatred toward a friendly nation" as an unkind and uncharitable whack at a recent visitor to this continent.

I appreciate your fear of being forgotten unless you get into the limelight occasionally. I know the business of saving the American republic from spooks and men of straw grows more difficult and unprofitable daily; there is too much competition in this form of enterprise, too many Richards in the field; and while the number of silly gulls and dupes do not decrease to any great extent the profits of patriotism appear less when the easy money has to be divided up among so many sterling patriots. Let me suggest that Boston is overworked and that you transfer your ingenious talents to rural New England, where under the guidance of your barber-president you might be able to tide over a hard winter.

Meantime the meeting you protest will be held. Most of the organizers are and a large majority of the audience will be American citizens and their wives and families, peaceful, law-abiding persons of good repute, many of whom were the uniform of and served the armies of the American republic on the fields of France and Flanders, at a time when you were flapping flags in New York schoolhouses, and defaming the men who were defending ours. The Mayor of Boston has never obstructed or interfered with any peaceful assembly of law-abiding citizens, native or alien, when they have met in good faith in accordance with law, to agitate or protest any question not inimical to the republic; but he will not hesitate to throttle and prevent gatherings of evil doers, lawbreakers and disturbers of the peace, whether they are led by aliens like Farnsworth or pseudo-Americans like yourself who design to foment dissension and threaten the peace of the city.

Truly yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

INVITES FINANCE COMMISSION TO CONFERENCE ON SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Mayor Curley on Tuesday, November 20 addressed the following letter to Hon. Michael H. Sullivan, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission:

I beg to acknowledge receipt this day of report of the Finance Commission relative to the Soldiers' Relief Department, and have examined the findings of the commission with a due appreciation of the ever-present possibilities of improving the conduct of any municipal department.

I nevertheless am of the opinion that there is always a grave danger of committing the error, which apparently has been unconsciously committed by the Finance Commission, namely, of confusing the expenditure of money by the city in return for patriotic service rendered by its citizens, with what it is customary to term charity offerings.

Personally, I have indulged in a pardonable pride in the administration of the Soldiers' Relief Department under the present commissioner, himself a patriotic citizen who has devoted more than a quarter of a century to the service of the country, and a participant in every war during that period of time, Brigadier Gen. John H. Dunn. Under his administration as Soldiers' Relief Commissioner a degree of efficiency has been established that has resulted in a saving in excess of $500,000 in the short period of one year, and this result has been accomplished without being unjust or without permitting the payments made by the city to have the atmosphere of charity offerings.

The viewpoint of an agency removed from the active administration of a municipal department, and which viewpoint is based on an investigation covering a reasonable period of time, is unquestionably a good one, and that the city may be permitted an opportunity to profit by the work which the Finance Commission and its investigators have accomplished, I respectfully suggest the advisability, provided it is agreeable to your commission to attend a conference at the office of the Mayor on Monday, November 26, at three o'clock p. m., at which conference the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, the Budget Commissioner, and the Corporation Counsel may be present, for the consideration of a program that I trust may promote increased efficiency without in any way lessening the valuable service which the Soldiers' Relief Department is performing for the civic welfare of the city, state and nation.

MAYOR THANKED FOR NAVY YARD EFFORTS.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I desire to express to you, for the civilian employees of the Boston Navy Yard, our gratitude for the determined stand you have taken in all matters pertaining to the employment of the citizens of Massachusetts at this historical shore establishment of the United States navy.

Committees representing the civilian employees of this Navy Yard have frequently called upon you to enlist your aid in establishing fair play in all matters pertaining to the government and the employees.

Your attitude at all times has been such that justice, truth and fairness in all activities pertaining to the navy and its establishments have struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all citizens employed at this station.

The Metal Trades Council of the Boston Navy Yard, represented by committees, has approached you on numerous occasions on matters that pertained to the navy and to her shore establishments, and the assistance you have rendered to bring them to the attention of the public and public officials is characteristic of a man who loves liberty, justice and truth.

I am happy to write you and convey to you innumerable expressions of gratitude from the rank and file of this Navy Yard for the consistent manner in which you have displayed your energy for an adequate navy and a stabilized force to sustain the fleet.

Our appeals to you have always been based on justice. The record of this shore establishment for quality, quantity and speed is unsurpassed by any other organization engaged in similar work.

We stand ready to defend our rights as citizens and we know that the Mayor of Boston will ever be ready to see that justice will prevail in all matters that concern the citizens of Massachusetts employed at the Boston Navy Yard.

WILLIAM A. McDONALD,
Chairman, Metal Trades Council.

MAYOR WINS FOR IRISH SOLDIER.

Mayor Curley was gratified to learn of the admission of William Deignan from Jarrow-on-Tyne, England. It appears that Mr. Deignan is an Irish soldier who served throughout the war with Germany as a soldier in France, rendering conspicuous military service as a member of the British army. Mr. Deignan after his return to his home in England at the conclusion of the war found conditions of employment exceedingly hazardous and uncertain and desired to join a cousin, Patrick F. Bruen, resident at 59 Larn street, Roxbury, in order that he might have better opportunity to secure employment and necessary means of livelihood.

Mayor Curley filed a very earnest report in behalf of Mr. Deignan as a worthy soldier who had given meritorious service throughout the period of the World War and who should have opportunity to secure a living in the United States irrespective of the quota of immigrants destined to America from the British Isles being exhausted. The Department of Labor at Washington has honored Mayor Curley's request in behalf of the soldier and his admission has been secured.

General Order No. 424.

The Superintendent of Police is hereby directed to make the following details for duty at the special primary on Tuesday, November 27, 1923, to be held in the Fifteenth Suffolk Representative District (Ward 15), in this city:

1. The necessary number of patrolmen from Police Divisions 9, 10 and 13 to attend the several polling places in those divisions, on special primary day, November 27, to preserve order and protect voters in the full exercise of their rights.

2. One sergeant to report at the office of the Board of Election Commissioners, City Hall Annex, Court square, at six o'clock a. m., Tuesday, November 27, 1923; thence to proceed in a motor vehicle, to be provided for the purpose, with ballot boxes, etc., to the several precincts in Ward 15, and deliver same to the police officer detailed in each precinct.

3. One patrolman to each of the eleven precincts in Ward 15, at seven o'clock a. m., Tuesday, November 27, to receive ballot boxes, etc., from sergeant detailed on truck, in such case provided; such detail to continue until the ballots are counted and the result declared. They are then to bring the ballots and returns to the Election Commissioners' office on Tuesday, November 27.

4. On receipt by the patrolman from the sergeant, detailed on motor vehicle, as herein provided, of registering ballot box, voting lists and such other documents as may have been received from Election Commissioners, the patrolman detailed at polling place will deliver same to the warden or clerk of the precinct, allowing no person to take or handle them before such delivery and hand the key of the registering ballot box to the warden. On delivery of the ballots to the warden, the patrolman will take from him a receipt for the ballots, which receipt will be returned to the Election Commissioners.

5. After the warden has opened the box and allowed the election officers and the public to see that it is empty, the box is to be again locked and the key given to the patrolman, who is to retain it until after the polls have closed, except that, at the request of the warden, the patrolman may allow him to open the box for the purpose of pressing down the ballots, in order to make room for more ballots, after which the patrolman will see that the box is again locked, and the key returned to the police officer.

6. The patrolman will obtain from the warden copies of poster, which will be sent to the latter, in relation to smoking and the use of liquor in polling places, and post same in conspicuous places where they may be easily read. Tacks will be sent for the purpose.

7. The warden will deliver to the patrolman detailed at the polling booth for his use at that place a copy of the descriptive voting list, which must be returned to the warden at the close of the polls.

8. When the polls are opened the patrolman will mark in the place indicated on the tag attached to the key the figures which the register shows before any ballots are cast.

9. At eight o'clock p. m., Tuesday, November 27, 1923, when the polls close, a sergeant will report in Ward 15, to meet motor vehicle at last point of morning distribution; thence to proceed to each of the several precincts in Ward 15, and receive registering ballot box (which must be locked) and key thereof, voting lists envelope, signed by the warden, and other election officers, receipt for ballots, unused ballot envelope (containing unused and spoiled ballots), stamps for marking spoiled ballots, carry them to the Election Commissioners' office and deliver same to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners.

10. When the polls are closed the patrolman will mark on the same tag the figures which the register shows after all ballots have been cast. He will then hand the key to the warden, who will open the box and take out all the ballots to be sorted and counted. The warden will then cause the voting lists, including the list used by the police officer, to be sealed up in an envelope, the envelope to be certified by the signatures of himself and the other election officers, and the same returned to the Election Commissioners, as described in section 9 of this order. The patrolman will not allow this envelope to be put into the ballot box. The sergeant, who will report on motor vehicle, will keep it about his person until delivery at the office of the Election Commissioners. The unused and spoiled ballots are then to be put in the envelope for unused ballots, and the envelope sealed and certified.

11. It is important that the patrolman sees that the voting lists envelope is signed by the warden, clerk and all the inspectors. The patrolman will also see that the special book for signatures of voters is returned in the registering ballot box.

12. In case a patrolman is detailed to relieve another after the close of the polls, the commanding officer will see that he is instructed as to the duty of bringing the official returns, the box of ballots cast, and the press return to the Election Commissioners' office as soon as they are delivered to him by the election officers.

13. When the ballots have all been counted, the ballots thus counted, tally sheets and nothing else (the ballots to be in their separate party envelopes), shall be placed by the warden in the leatheroid box sent for that purpose, which must be sealed up and signed by all the election officers. The patrolman will particularly see that this box is properly sealed up and that all the election officers have signed their names to the certificate on the box. The patrolman will then bring the box, official return, press return and stamps for marking defective ballots to the City Hall Annex, Court square, and deliver same to the Election Commissioners. The patrolman is directed not to allow the official return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box.

14. While the polls remain open an officer of rank will visit the polling place in each precinct of Ward 15, at stated intervals, to be designated by the captains of Division 9, 10 and 13, respectively, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer at the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division, the officer in charge will communicate immediately with headquarters.

15. Attention is called to the fact that the polls at the special primary on Tuesday, November 27, shall open at eight o'clock a. m., and close at eight o'clock p. m.

16. Commanding officers of Divisions 9, 10 and 13, respectively, will see that the officers detailed for duty on special primary day are furnished with a copy of the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners entitled, "Instructions to Police Officers on Primary . . . Days."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

NAVY YARD DENIED TIME TO BID FOR WORK.

Mayor Curley received the following letter on November 16, from the United States Shipping Board at Washington, D. C.:

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR,—Your communication addressed to the President has been referred to me for reply.

The specifications for reconditioning these five vessels were sent out to all bidders on November 3, and all received them as soon after that time as the mails would regularly reach them.

Due to the character of the work to be done, and also to the fact that time was a most vital element in having the work completed—as conditions necessitated having the service of at least one or two of these ships by February 1—the time had to be made one of the controlling elements, and it was felt that from November 2 to 14 was quite ample for any yard that could handle this work to make their bids. I have consulted several prominent shipbuilders, and they assured me the time was ample. In view of these facts the Board felt it was absolutely impracticable to extend the time for opening these bids.

It is regretted, therefore, that the time could not be extended to the Boston yard as requested.

Very sincerely yours,

W. S. BENSON,
Commissioner.

BUILDINGS RAZED.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions open in the Boston and Metropolitan districts as follows:

CIVIL ENGINEERS DECEMBER 17, 1923.

These examinations are for the service of the state, all cities, and such towns as are classed under civil service.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade A if the salary is less than $720 a year or more than $1,200 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Subjects and Weights.—Rodmen: Experience 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; tracing, 3; questions on the duties of the position, 6; total, 20. Assistant draftsmen: Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; drawing, 9; total, 20.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draftsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,800 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution, plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

Subjects and Weights.—Instrumentmen: Experience, 16; penmanship, 2; plotting, 6; questions on duties, 8; mathematics, 8; total, 40. Draftsmen: Experience, 16; drawing, 7; mathematics, 6; duties, 4; plotting, 4; tracing, 3; total, 40.

Grade C.

Assistant engineers, assistant civil engineers, and designing engineers: (a) who assume responsibility for the direction of surveys, the preparation and examination of, or advice upon, plans, designs and specifications for a minor section of a large engineering or a major section of a small engineering project; or (b) who supervise or inspect the construction or the operation of work on such a project; or

(c) who operate a completed section of such a project; or (d) who make investigations of, and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C if the salary is more than $2,340 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or, if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years of practical experience.

Subjects and Weights.—Experience, 10; design, 2; mathematics, 2; questions on materials and methods of construction, 3; engineering theory, 3; total, 20.

Grade D.

Senior assistant engineers, senior assistant civil engineers, and senior designing engineers: (a) who supervise and assume complete responsibility for the work of a main division of an engineering organization, involving the direction of surveys and design and construction; or (b) who maintain and operate the major section of a large engineering project; or (c) who make independent investigations of and reports upon engineering projects as a basis for executive, administrative, or judicial action; or (d) who take charge of a large engineering department in the absence of the chief engineer; or (e) who give advice on large or complicated engineering projects, which may involve the preparation of plans.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade D if the salary is more than $3,600 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, not less than three years of service in Grade C. If appointed otherwise than by promotion, within a department or major division thereof, at least eight years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch covered by the position, and two years of which shall have been in an executive capacity; provided, that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of four years of practical experience.

Subjects and Weights.—Experience, 24; questions on materials and methods of construction, 5; engineering theory, 5; design, 6; total, 40.

The following was offered:

ORDERED, That the new intermediate school on Poplar and Hawthorne Streets, Roslindale, in the Charles Sumner District, be named the Washington Irving School, in honor of Washington Irving (1783-1859), graduate in law though never practitioner of it, historian, essayist, and novelist, author of the highest rank, whose writings are characterized by the greatest care and accuracy, purity and beauty of diction; long-time representative of our government in Great Britain and Spain.

That the new intermediate school on Cottage Street, East Boston, in the Samuel Adams District, be named the Rufus Choate School, in honor of Rufus Choate (1799-1859), illustrious graduate of Dartmouth College, later graduate in law, representative in Congress, successor to Daniel Webster in the Senate, later acknowledged leader of the Massachusetts bar, orator quite on a level with the most distinguished masters of modern eloquence, an ardent believer in the future greatness of our national power.

That the new intermediate school on Charles Street, Dorchester, in the Mather District, be named the Grover Cleveland School, in honor of Grover Cleveland (1837-1908), twice President of the United States, lawyer by training, markedly sagacious in all phases of public affairs acquired by a long apprenticeship, in character "of the open and downright sort that all men who love strength must always relish," a President second to none in his sense of justice, his sense of right and of fair dealing.

That the new elementary school on Faneuil Street, Brighton, in the Bennett District, be named the James A. Garfield School, in honor of James A. Garfield (1833-1881), twentieth President of the United States, honored graduate of Williams College, valiant soldier in the Civil War, winning high rank and enviable distinction as an officer of volunteers, cut off early in this Presidency by the assassin's hand.

That the new elementary school on Chestnut Hill Avenue, Brighton, in the Bennett District, be named the Alexander Hamilton School, in honor of Alexander Hamilton (1757-1804), illustrious statesman, orator, lawyer, and general, aide-de-camp and secretary to General Washington during the War of the Revolution, industrious student of finance and government, member of the Continental Congress, first Secretary of the Treasury, founder of the United States National Bank, author of the funding system, restorer of the public credit when the nation was burdened with a heavy debt and almost destitute of credit.

That the new elementary school on Northbourne Road and Nathan Streets, Roslindale, in the Francis Parkman District, be named the Edwin P. Seaver School, in honor of Edwin P. Seaver, born at Northboro, Mass., Feb. 24, 1838; after completing a public school course in that town was successively graduated from the Bridgewater Normal School, Phillips Exeter Academy, and Harvard College, where he devoted particular attention to mathematics, later serving as Assistant Professor of Mathematics at Harvard from 1865 to 1874. He also served as a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard. In 1874 he was appointed Head Master of the English High School, becoming Superintendent of Schools, Dec. 1, 1880, and continuing in that position until July 12, 1904; died Dec. 7, 1917.

That the new elementary school on Harvard Street and Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, in the William E. Endicott District, be named the Robert Treat Paine School, in honor of Robert Treat Paine (1731-1814), jurist, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Attorney-General of Massachusetts, one of the committee which formed the State Constitution of Massachusetts, judge of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts.

That the new intermediate school on Lawrence Avenue, Roxbury, in the Phillips District, be named the La Salle School, in honor of La Salle (1643-1687), persistent and indefatigable French explorer of whom Parkman says "without question one of the most remarkable explorers whose names live in history; the hero, not of a principled life of a faith, but simply of a fixed idea and a determined purpose, the offspring of an ambition vast and comprehensive, yet acting in the interest both of France and of civilization; a tower of adamant against whose impenetrable front hardship and danger, the rage of man and of the elements, the southern sun, the northern blast, fatigue, famine, disease, delay, disappointment and deferred hope emptied their quivers in vain; never under the impenetrable mail of paladin or crusader, beat a heart of more intrepid mettle than within the stoic panoply that armed the breast of La Salle; to estimate aright the marvels of his patient fortitude, one must follow in his track through the vast scenes of his interminable journeyings—those thousands of weary miles of forest, marsh and river, where again and again in the bitterness of baffled striving, the untiring pilgrim pushed onward towards the goal which he was never to attain. America owes him an enduring memory, for in this masculine figure she sees the pioneer who guided her to the possession of her richest heritage."

That the new elementary school on Shirley Street, Roxbury, in the Hugh O'Brien District, be named the Ralph Waldo Emerson School, in honor of Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803-1882), essayist, poet and philosopher.

That the new school on Gove Street, East Boston, in the Theodore Lyman District, be named the Dante Alighieri School, in honor of Dante Alighieri (1265-1321), illustrious Italian poet, commonly regarded as the greatest poetical genius between the Augustan and Elizabethan eras, among the very few who have created the national poetry of their country; of him and the "Divina Commedia" Ruskin says "there is no tenderness like Dante's, neither any intensity nor seriousness like his—such seriousness that it is incapable of perceiving that which is commonplace or ridiculous, but fuses all down into its white-hot fire."

Laid over.

CITIZENSHIP, BOTH SEXES, ALSO FAMILIES.

Native white citizens, 246,816; foreign born whites naturalized, 102,822; Negro citizens, 12,089; total citizens, 361,724. Foreign born whites remaining aliens, 118,214. Only 56.30 per cent of the citizens registered for voting purposes in 1920 (for City Election) and of the 203,666 who did register only 30.53 per cent voted. Coming to the final facts to be remembered, only 17.2 per cent of the citizens of Boston took part in electing the three members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee in 1920, these five candidates taking office at the will of only 8.3 per cent of the citizens, which was more than sufficient to elect. On the question of permitting Sunday Sports and Games, 10.9 per cent of the citizens voted in favor and 4.3 per cent against, 7.7 per cent being more than sufficient for a majority in favor. The City Election of 1920 reveals the most flagrant case of minority rule ever noted in Boston, not more than one-ninth of the women citizens being interested enough to vote.

Total families in 1920, 164,785 or 3,679 more than in 1915. As this shows a larger increase of families than of persons (i. e., 2,621) since 1915, here is another glaring discrepancy that discredits the 1920 Census. As 4.63 represents the average number of persons to a family, 3,679 families would contain 17,034 persons. The U. S. Census of 1920 shows a net increase of only 2,621 persons since 1915.

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

No. 48

BOSTON'S NEW MUNICIPAL GARAGE ON ALBANY STREET SOON TO BE COMPLETED.

STRUCTURE WILL HOUSE MUCH OF CITY'S AUTOMOTIVE APPARATUS AND WILL EFFECT BIG ECONOMIES—ANOTHER OF ADMINISTRATION'S IMPROVEMENTS.

NEW MUNICIPAL GARAGE SOON TO BE COMPLETED AND OCCUPIED ON ALBANY STREET.

Boston's new municipal garage, which has been under construction during the summer, will soon be ready for occupancy. The building is being completed on Albany street and it is planned to house most of the automotive equipment of the city under its roof when completed.

The building is of concrete construction and iron, is two stories high and is built at a cost of $152,490. This is another one of the money-saving improvements being given the city under the administration of Mayor Curley. It will house the autos and trucks of the city. The structure has a frontage of 124 feet on Albany street and runs back 220 feet. It is to be heated with oil-burning apparatus and fitted with high-speed ventilators.

For the convenience of those who will be employed there the building is fitted with showers and lavatories, and hot and cold water. One of the individual features of the building will be that it is supported on its second floor with concrete girders of more than fifty feet spanning, the largest girders of the kind in any building in New England. The second floor will be entered by ramp and elevators. Offices and gas station will be on the first floor. Mulhall & Holmes are the architects.

BOSTON'S PER CAPITA TAX NOT $76.34 BUT IS $48.

STATISTICS DEPARTMENT DISPUTES FIGURES SENT OUT FROM WASHINGTON BUREAU OF COMMERCE AS MISLEADING, WRONG AND CONFUSING.

To the Editor of the Boston City Record:

As specialists in fact-statistics, we like to see our government bureaux at Washington publish statistical reports that are accurate and reliable. But when, as sometimes happens, there is published a statistical statement about Boston which is found to contain errors and misleading figures, it is the plain duty of the Boston Statistics Department to publicly point them out.

The Boston dailies of November 23 contained a statistical report about Boston sent out by the United States Department of Commerce, and in the City Record of November 24 the same statistics appeared. The dailies sent forth their habitual outcry about soaring municipal costs. One of the sub-headlines in the Herald read thus: "Annual Burden is now $58,369,158."

What is the fact about the burden? The actual and only burden imposed by the City of Boston upon its property taxpayers in the year 1921 (i. e., the year covered by the Washington figures) was $30,705,668, to which amount the state added a levy of $8,742,873 (exclusive of income and corporation taxes). Here is a total burden of $39,448,541, or $48 per capita (approximately), reckoned upon an estimated population of $21,907 on July 1, 1921. How misleading it is to state our city's per capita cost to our public (including state tax, etc.) as $76.34 (see Washington figures) when it is approximately $48! The net cost (i. e., after taking account of department revenue and taxes received from state) is the real cost to the public just as the net debt is the real public debt. The Washington statistics state the debt as net, the per capita figures for January 31, 1922, being $110.76, whereas they were estimated by the Statistics Department and published in the "Municipal Register" of last year as $96.54. The Washington department's underrating of Boston's population accounts for the too high per capita net debt, also for too high a death rate.

Further, after stating at the outset that the statistics are for the year ending January 31, 1922, the newspaper report proceeds to give per capita costs and revenue receipts for the year 1922, obviously a mistake—but inexcusable. Similarly, in the Commerce Department's publication, "Financial Statistics of Cities" for 1921, the various figures pertaining to Boston are for 1920, not 1921.

Now the actual governmental cost to the Boston public in 1921, as plainly shown by the property tax levied, was $18,920,617 less than the Herald headline specialists supposed. The Washington figures apparently misled him. How many other Boston citizens were likewise misled? The Washington statisticians might well distinguish between total and tax cost (i. e., cost from tax levy) as they do between gross and net debt? What are the facts about this total governmental cost? According to our system of accounting, the total in 1921 was $56,646,484, called ordinary expenditures, of which $36,128,313 was for department maintenance, $6,782,933 for state tax and assessments (mostly for metropolitan works, water assessment omitted because included in Water Service expenses), $5,727,878 for debt requirements, $4,385,726 for public improvements such as streets and schoolhouses (formerly met by loans) and $3,621,434 for expenses of Water Service and Printing Plant, these two being accounted for separately because they are profitable public service enterprises.

Against the said total of debits for 1921 it appears (from the City Collector's report) that the total amount of the 1921 property tax collected was $33,397,249, or 58.96 per cent of the said $56,646,484.

These figures prove that the 1921 burden upon Boston's taxpayers averaged $48 per capita (approximately), and further, that the burden actually borne averaged but $40.63 per capita, as $6,051,292 of taxes due remained unpaid at end of year.

GENERAL DUNN, HEAD OF SOLDIERS' RELIEF DEPARTMENT, REPLIES TO FINANCE COMMISSION.

SHOWS THAT DEPARTMENT HAS BEEN REORGANIZED SINCE HIS TAKING OFFICE AND FUNCTIONS MORE EFFICIENTLY THAN BEFORE—SOME OF "FIN. COM.'S" RECOMMENDATIONS TO BE ADOPTED.

Boston, November 22, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I have before me the report under date of November 19, 1923, which the Finance Commission makes to your Honor of the examination and investigation which it, by its investigators, has made of this department, and I shall content myself with briefly considering in order the recommendations contained in the Finance Commission's report.

1. THAT THE SOLDIERS' RELIEF COMMISSIONER DEVOTE HIS WHOLE TIME TO THE WELFARE OF THE VETERANS AND THEIR DEPENDENTS WHO ARE AIDED BY THE SOLDIERS' RELIEF DEPARTMENT.

On taking over the duties of my present office I gave up my private law office and practice realizing that my whole time was necessary to carry out efficiently the work of this department. Upon assuming the office I attempted to reorganize it in accordance with the necessities of the department as I then saw them. I appointed Timothy W. Kelly as chief visitor and assigned Mr. Connors to the duty of supervising the reports of the men visitors and Miss Mulvey to supervising the reports of the women visitors. The text of the Finance Commission's report to the contrary is unfounded in fact and unjust to me and to the credit of the city.

2. THAT EMPLOYEES OF THE DEPARTMENT DEVOTE FULL TIME TO THEIR DUTIES.

The employees of this department do devote all their time to the duties of their office, and I know of no exception. The specific instance referred to in the commission's complaint, namely, that on one occasion the greater part of the office employees left the office at 4:30 in the afternoon is correct, in that on one occasion the stenographers did leave the office at 4:30 in the afternoon. The precise circumstances attending this incident and the reasons therefor have now passed from my recollection but my impression is that a generous view of the special circumstances would not justify any serious-minded investigator in making any great moment of this isolated incident.

3. THAT THE DEPARTMENT EMPLOY TRAINED VISITORS, IN ORDER THAT A HIGHER TYPE OF SERVICE MAY BE RENDERED TO THE VETERAN AND HIS DEPENDENTS.

It is always the hope of one conscious of the responsibilities of an office like this that he may improve the quality of his visitors either by their continued experience or by replacement. The present visitors I found in this department when I entered and they came to this department through the classified civil service and the standard of their qualifications is set by the Civil Service Commission, over which I have no control, and I dare say that, for the most part, they are the equal if not the superior of those persons, called "case workers," employed by private and voluntary charitable organizations. I am quite sure that I am well justified in reposing a greater measure of confidence in any of the visitors of my department than what I would be justified in yielding to certain of the special investigators employed by the Finance Commission in their examination of my department. In order that you may appreciate the quality of the latter class of investigators, upon whom the Finance Commission is unfortunately dependent in making their reports, I direct your Honor's attention to the stories appearing in the Boston Post of October 12, 1923, and of October 18, 1923, relative to a Miss Lillian McGeachy of 61 Myrtle street. These stories, if true, in no wise reflect upon the young woman's morality or character but indicate very clearly her temperamental unfitness for the very responsible work which was assigned to her. These extracts from the Boston Post I attach hereto so that your Honor may judge for yourself.

I feel justified in observing that some of the investigators employed by the Finance Commission manifested a degree of mischievous officiousness that seemed to justify my withholding my unqualified approval of these special employees, et. g., sometime during the Finance Commission's investigation one woman, who formerly received aid from this department, called to make the following complaint against Miss Chadwick, one of the Finance Commission's investigators, namely, Miss Chadwick, while engaged in this investigation of this department, called upon the complainant and stated that she, Miss Chadwick, was the visitor from the Soldiers' Relief Department, taking the place of the regular visitor who was away; and that Miss Chadwick asked the complainant what Miss Dorr's religion was (Miss Dorr being one of the regular visitors employed by this department and having formerly visited the complainant while she was receiving aid from this department). To detail further this particular incident or to multiply the examples of the inefficiency of these special investigators would only expand this report needlessly.

4. THAT A CAREFUL STUDY BE MADE OF THE ACTUAL NEEDS OF EACH APPLICANT, AND SUCH ASSISTANCE IN MONEY AND SERVICE GRANTED AS WILL BE ADEQUATE TO MEET THE NEEDS OF THE APPLICANTS.

I assume that before my coming to this office a "careful study" was made of the actual needs of each applicant. I am sure that I have ever insisted upon nothing less and I have hoped that with further experience in this office I may be able in some measure to improve the quality of its service, and your Honor may be assured that I will ever be in a receptive mood toward any helpful suggestions which shall be given to me. However, what assistance as "will be adequate to meet the needs of the applicants" will always be a variable and disputable question, depending much upon the personal equation of the investigator and of the officer who will finally determine the amount of assistance that shall be given. Because of this ever-present element of uncertainty and variability I appointed a chief visitor and supervisors, all of whom must report in every instance to me personally so that I am finally responsible for the amount given in every case, and while anxious in the discharge of this duty to avoid the vice of prodigality, I hope never to be niggardly.

5. THAT THE COMMISSIONER REFUSE TO RECOMMEND THE GRANTING OF RELIEF WHEN THE VISITORS' RECORDS DO NOT SHOW THAT AN INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN MADE AND ACTUAL NEED EXISTS AND THE APPLICANT IS ENTITLED TO RELIEF AS DEFINED BY LAW.

There is no answer that can be expected of me respecting this recommendation and if I have ever wilfully withheld the granting of relief where the records do not show that an investigation has been made and actual need exists, then I am admittedly unfit to hold this office.

6. THAT MONEY PAID AS "OVERDRAFTS" BE RECOVERED.

The overdrafts referred to in the commission's complaint were inaccuracies in payments all happening under the former commissioner, concerning whom the Finance Commission's report is significantly silent. It is not, however, charity on my part, but justice, for me to say that the number of such overdrafts in a department expending as much money as does this are relatively inconsiderable, from my personal observations, to what takes place in the Pension Department of the United States Government.

7. THAT THE POSITION OF CONSTABLE BE ABOLISHED.

This position is too newly created and the reasons for its creation not yet sufficiently tried to justify my approving the recommendation to your Honor that the position of constable should be abolished. One reason for creating this office in our department was that there might be a suitable person to attempt the repayment of the overdrafts complained of, and the persistent agitation in this field of endeavor by our constables has not been without fruitful results and the fact that he has agitated this matter has been wholesome in its deterrent effect upon persons who might otherwise attempt to take advantage of this department under similar circumstances to those which made it possible under my predecessor for overdrafts to be made. Moreover, I believe that the maintenance of this office within our department is directly in accord with the recommendation in the Finance Commission's report that steps be taken to recover said overdrafts.

8. THAT A MODERN AND MORE COMPLETE SYSTEM OF RECORDING THE FACTS ABOUT EACH APPLICANT BE MADE FOR THE COMMISSIONER'S USE, IN RECOMMENDING AID.

This recommendation is not so much without merit as those previously referred to. Since coming into this department I have attempted a more systematic method of recording the history in each case and of keeping up to date every individual record. This matter is still in a progressive stage and, like all modern filing systems, is susceptible of continued improvement.

9. THAT INSTRUCTION BY QUALIFIED PEOPLE IN THE VARIOUS PHASES OF SOCIAL SERVICE BE ARRANGED FOR ALL EMPLOYEES WHO COME IN CONTACT WITH THE VETERANS AND THEIR DEPENDENTS.

It is a very debatable question who are "qualified" to give instructions in the various phases of "social service" such as the Finance Commission may have in mind. The work of this department is not "social service" as this work is generally carried out and understood by private and voluntary charitable organizations. Under the constitution of our state we are not permitted to dispense charity but to extend measurable aid to veterans and their dependents as "reward" for meritorious public service, and we take great pride in the fact that our work is done with so little complaint at the hands of those who are entitled to demand it, and pride also in the fact that we are able to dispense from three hundred thousand to eight hundred thousand dollars a year at a constantly diminishing overhead expense, which this year will come as low as approximately $60,000. I know of no voluntary "social service" organization in this city that has so low a proportional overhead expense as this department. It is difficult to dispense even charity without offending the sensibilities of the necessitous recipient. It is more difficult to extend public aid with satisfaction to those who under the law have the right to demand it.

10. THAT FORTNIGHTLY STAFF MEETINGS BE HELD, IN ORDER THAT THERE MAY BE A MORE COMPLETE UNDERSTANDING OF THE POLICIES AND PURPOSES OF THE DEPARTMENT.

This very policy was among the first to be established by me upon my assuming this office and I have hope of continuing it with increasing effectiveness.

11. THAT CO-OPERATION WITH PRIVATE AND OTHER WELFARE AGENCIES AND WITH THE CONFIDENTIAL EXCHANGE BE ESTABLISHED.

This suggestion can receive but little encouragement at my hands. I do not feel under law that I have any right to give to "private and other welfare agencies" the names of persons receiving by right aid from this department. They are not paupers as this department under the law is obliged to view them and I shall continue to treat them with the generous consideration out of which the law under which I am acting has sprung.

12. THAT A SMALL ADVISORY COMMITTEE OF QUALIFIED AND SYMPATHETIC CITIZENS BE APPOINTED BY YOUR HONOR TO ADVISE WITH THE COMMISSIONER ON DIFFICULT AND COMPLEX PROBLEMS.

I assume that your Honor is always ready to receive the advice of "qualified and sympathetic citizens" respecting the conduct of this department as well as the conduct of any other city department where "difficult and complex problems" may frequently arise. To this end I suggest, in the event of your Honor feeling that some positive step in this direction should be taken by yourself, that such qualified and sympathetic citizens might very likely be found among the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish War Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. DUNN,
Soldiers' Relief Commissioner.

CONFERS WITH "FIN. COM."

A conference was held at the office of the Mayor at which were present all the members of the Finance Commission, with the exception of Mr. Moors, who was unable to attend owing to a business engagement, the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, Deputy Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, Chief Visitor, Budget Commissioner, City Auditor, Assistant Corporation Counsel Lyons and Mayor.

Various recommendations made by the Finance Commission were considered and in the main approved. It was agreed that hereafter bimonthly conferences be held of the employees of the department and arrangements made for addresses by qualified experts upon health and social service work as a means of increasing the benefits that would accrue to persons receiving soldiers' relief. It was further agreed that wherever possible improved methods of recording cases and conducting activities of the department be instituted.

ASKS "FIN. COM." TO INVESTIGATE CITY HOSPITAL CONDITIONS.

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman Finance Commission, 413 Tremont Building, Boston:

DEAR SIR:—The investigations conducted by the Finance Commission of the Overseers of Public Welfare Department and of the Soldiers' Relief Department have resulted in the adoption of recommendations that unquestionably will be of great value to the public and to the officials charged with the administration of these departments.

The groove created and developed through a century of habit and custom is exceedingly difficult to leave and the benefit of the viewpoint of an agency far removed and versed in departmental administration of necessity, if followed, is invaluable. The possibilities along the lines of service to the public in the conduct of the activities of the Boston City Hospital are so great that I sincerely trust it will be possible for the Finance Commission to conduct the same character of investigation, supplemented by equally valued recommendations of this institution.

The trustees of the Boston City Hospital submitted recommendations recently outlining a program anticipating requirements during the next quarter of a century and while it is essential that this phase of the Boston City Hospital activities be considered, it is likewise essential that the development of certain efficiency standards in every branch of the institution be developed wherever possible. The expenditures of the City Hospital have increased approximately 100 per cent in a period of five years and it is desirable that this increased cost of administration represent increased service and this is only possible through a change in the system, and while a change is desirable, it is nevertheless necessary that when such change is determined upon that it represent not only study and investigation by the officials of the institution but an opportunity to benefit through a viewpoint which at present the Finance Commission can best furnish.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYOR THANKED FOR FLOWERS SENT TO HOSPITALS.

Mayor Curley received the following communications on November 23:

MY DEAR MR. CURLEY,—I wish to express my appreciation in behalf of the patients and personnel of this hospital for the beautiful gifts of flowers which arrived last evening. It is a very typical example of your generosity and interest in the ex-service men here, and was deeply appreciated.

Will you please accept my personal congratulations to you on your achievement of another year, particularly one given to the best interests of the City of Boston?

Very sincerely yours,

A. H. PIERCE,
Senior Surgeon, P.H.S., Medical Officer in Charge, U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 44, West Roxbury, Mass.

YOUR HONOR,—I herewith beg to acknowledge the receipt of your kind contribution of flowers to our institution. It is indeed very honorable of you to think of us on your joyous occasion. I wish to assure you that all the children, officers and directors of the institution are joining me in extending to you our most hearty congratulation and best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

Very sincerely yours,

SAUL DRUCKER,
Superintendent, Home for Jewish Children, Dorchester, Mass.

DEAR MAYOR CURLEY,—I wish to thank you for sharing your beautiful flowers with us. We feel greatly honored to think that you thought of us when there are so many others nearer to you than we are. We have placed the flowers before the Blessed Sacrament, and as their sweet fragrance is borne to our Eucharistic Lord in the Tabernacle they also bear the fervent prayers of both sisters and children that God will bless the giver and grant him His choicest graces and blessings. With renewed thanks for your kindness to us and with every good wish, I remain, gratefully in J. C.

SISTER M. VALENTINA O.S.F.,
Home for Italian Children, 1125 Centre Street, Jamaica Plain.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

Upon November 26 the Mayor approved a contract with Henry Shiels for building complete a refrigerating machinery room at the Sanatorium, Mattapan. The bids for the work, opened November 22, were as follows:

Bid Price.—John P. Curley, $7,725; Henry Shiels, $11,645; A. Pioltti, $13,293.

Omitting Ice Room.—John P. Curley, deduct $100; Henry Shiels, deduct $45; A. Pioltti, deduct $119.

Substituting Wood Roof.—John P. Curley, deduct $542; Henry Shiels, deduct $250; A. Pioltti, deduct $883.

Remarks.—John P. Curley, rock $12 a cubic yard.

The unanimous opinion of the trustees is that an error was made in the estimate submitted by lowest bidder, and by reason of this, the work might be very greatly delayed. Inasmuch as time is a very important factor, since any delay would prevent the subsequent installation of refrigerating machinery, it would seem best to invite no such possibility. The building and the installation of machinery must be completed by January 25, 1924.

Upon November 26 the Mayor approved a contract with Jarvis Engineering Company for furnishing and erecting complete and ready to operate a refrigerating system at the Sanatorium, Mattapan. Bids for the work, opened November 22, were as follows: One unit plant, hand control, $11,108.28; add for automatic control, $146.52; add ice storage, $806.08; total, $12,060.88.

From inspection of the bids, it appears that Walworth-English-Flett Company have not complied with the conditions. Column 1 and 2 of the list of bids cites the same figure and column 1 should include column 2 and much more. It is evident that an error was made.

Complete Two-Unit Plant Automatic Control.—Walworth-English-Flett Company, $12,987; Jarvis Engineering Company, $15,160; Carbondale New York Company, $15,680; Refrigerating Machinery Company, $15,881; Brunswick-Kroeschell Company, $16,085; $17,249*; American Carbonic Machine Company, $16,360; Lapham-Perkins Engineering Corporation, $18,100; The Brecht Company, $18,879; Automatic Refrigerating Company, $19,200.

$2,491; $3,254*; American Carbonic Machine Company, $2,785; Lapham-Perkins Engineering Corporation, $4,839; The Brecht Company, $3,766; Automatic Refrigerating Company, $6,000.

Automatic Control.—Walworth-English-Flett Company, deduct $259 each; Jarvis Engineering Company, deduct $293.04 each; Carbondale New York Company, deduct $296 each; Refrigerating Machinery Company, deduct $440 each; Brunswick-Kroeschell Company, deduct $1,043 each; deduct $1,014* each; American Carbonic Machine Company, deduct $575 each; Lapham-Perkins Engineering Corporation, deduct $850 each; The Brecht Company, deduct $672 each; Automatic Refrigerating Company, included in previous figure.

Ice Storage.—Walworth-English-Flett Company, deduct $1,100; Jarvis Engineering Company, deduct $806.08; Carbondale New York Company, deduct $910; Refrigerating Machinery Company, deduct $784; Brunswick-Kroeschell Company, deduct $840; deduct $840*; American Carbonic Machine Company, deduct $865; Lapham-Perkins Engineering Corporation, deduct $900; The Brecht Company, deduct $995; Automatic Refrigerating Company, deduct $800.

All above bids based on using ammonia as refrigerating medium.

*This bid for a plant using CO(2) (carbon dioxide) as refrigerating medium.

"I have held these bids without making any recommendation as to how the contracts should be awarded until now, hoping that the City of Boston might be able to make a contract for a flat price on gasoline at the prevailing price, viz., 11½ cents per gallon on commercial gasoline, but have been informed by representatives of various gasoline companies that the City of Boston would be unable to make a contract on any terms different from those submitted in the proposals of September 5, that is, at so many cents per gallon under prevailing tank wagon price.

"Since September 5 this department has purchased all the gasoline required from the low bidders as noted on the attached sheet. These concerns are still willing to enter into a contract with the City of Boston at the prices noted in the original proposals of September 5."

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Upon November 26 the Mayor approved a contract with Coleman Brothers, Inc., for dumping snow and ice into their scows. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke, Commissioner of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, November 24, 1923.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Your approval is respectfully requested for the award of a contract to Coleman Brothers, Inc., without advertising, for the dumping of snow and ice into their scows at Fort Hill Wharf during March and April, 1923, for a total amount of $5,149.20.

The material dumped comprised snow, ice and dirt which the state inspector would not permit us to dump into the harbor on account of the high percentage of foreign matter, the estimated amount of which was deducted from the total amount delivered to the scows, which means that the bill is for net yardage of snow and ice. The total amount is divided into two items, $3,786 for material handled by our own teams and trucks, and $1,363.20 for material handled by Coleman Brothers in connection with their contract for snow and ice removal for the Paving Service.

The Corporation Counsel some time ago ruled that this is a proper payment to Coleman Brothers. Payment was withheld until money was available in the budget item, which will occur by the transfer, as requested, of $25,000 from Reserve Fund to the removal of snow and ice item.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
 Commissioner of Public Works.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

"This department advertised and received bids on turkeys November 23, and I am attaching list of bids received on that date. A representative of the Hospital Department, together with an inspector of this department and myself, inspected the turkeys offered by the dealers on the attached sheet, and found that the best turkeys were offered by the Mohawk Packing Company, who quoted a price of 50 cents per pound at the opening on November 23, but, owing to a drop in the market price of turkeys since these bids were opened, have given the City of Boston the benefit of the drop in price and have offered the same turkeys at 43 cents per pound. I feel that the best interests of the city will be served if this recommendation is accepted."

MAYOR CONTRIBUTES TO BURIAL OF LOYAL COALITION BY SENDING GIFT OF 100,000 MARKS.

TREASURER HAD ISSUED APPEAL FOR FUNDS WITH WHICH TO WIND UP BUSINESS SINCE ORGANIZATION HAD DWINDLED TO NOTHING—LETTER COMES TO MAYOR.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication November 23:

ARTHUR N. JOSLIN, Treasurer of the Late Loyal Coalition, Care of Miss Doris E. Lee, P. O. Box 164, Essex Station, Boston:

SIR,—I am shocked at the awful tragedy your last touching appeal for financial help has revealed and which you as administrator of the late lamented Loyal Coalition have sent out to the faithful and the few, who rallied to its clarion call so often when country and religion were threatened by those dreaded enemies, the Macs and the O's.

We shall miss the dear old coalition; it has added to the gaiety of Boston and the tremors of the truly good; it has fought the good fight as long as a dollar was rolling its way; but even the dupe and the dumb bell have their limits. I weep to think that Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Mortimore have refused to further finance you; it is pathetic to think that the shrieking petticoats and patriots that once were "touched" with ease have buttoned up their pockets; and now the Loyal Coalition is dead and derelict and you and your fellow patriots find like Othello your occupation is gone.

You have given me so many good laughs when you were active and vociferous and the easy money was rolling in that I cannot see you vanish from darkest Boston without helping you to pay your bills and save you from furnishing your natural enemies with ammunition. The sudden collapse of the Loyal Coalition should not discourage you; take courage from the barber of New Brunswick, who deserted your ship when the lockers were empty.

Let me reach out a helping hand. Inclosed I am sending you a beautifully artistic bill issued by the Government of Germany for 100,000 marks, which any enterprising bank in the city will cash for its exchange value, in America one cent and in Russia one kopeck. Spend it freely and pay your debts and devote the surplus that remains over to placing a wreath upon the grave of the dear, dead coalition, which sleeps in peace on Spectacle Island, soothed by the murmurous scented seas that ebb and flow upon its strand.

I trust your mail will not be tampered with and that this gift may reach the hands of a true patriot and that no enemy of the late lamented may be able to say,

Rattle its bones over the stones,
It's only a pole cat nobody owns.

Yours with tears, idle tears,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

This is a copy of the appeal to which the Mayor sent the above reply:

THE LOYAL COALITION,
BOSTON, November 20, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—As treasurer of the Loyal Coalition, I am making a last appeal to you for a contribution.

We find that we cannot get sufficient constant financial support to keep going, even with the expense down to the absolute minimum.

We want to quit "clean" and not leave behind us unpaid bills, which would furnish our natural enemies with ammunition and possibly subject some of us to law suits. Aside from quite a large sum of money advanced by Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Mortimore, it will only take about $2,000 to clean up everything and close up shop.

As you have shown by your interest and contributions in the past that you are in hearty sympathy with the attempts we have made to arouse the American people to their principal danger, won't you now contribute a reasonable amount to permit me, as treasurer, to pay our bills and close up our headquarters, thus quitting the field, for a time at least, in an honorable manner.

I hope I do not need to ask you to treat this communication as strictly confidential.

As we suspect that our mail is sometimes tampered with, I am sending this letter out in a plain envelope, and would ask you to send your contribution to Miss Doris E. Lee, P. O. Box 164, Essex Station, Boston, Mass. Miss Lee is my stenographer and I have had to hire this box for the above purpose.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR N. JOSLIN,
Treasurer.

His Honor the Mayor received the following communication from the Children's Foundation, Harding Memorial:

BOSTON, November 23, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—You are cordially invited to become an honorary member of the Advisory Committee of the Children's Foundation and in such capacity to co-operate with the Organization Committee in perfecting plans for the movement.

The Foundation has for its purpose the establishment of a memorial to our late President, Warren G. Harding, which will be not only the children's tribute to a great man who dearly loved the little ones, but also a source of happiness to the children themselves by furthering their pleasures in a practical way and in a manner which would have delighted him.

The campaign will be nation wide and will be inaugurated soon after the holidays. Responses to invitations have been cordial and promise early assistance in making the Foundation a success.

Your acceptance will be an honor to the Organization Committee and will assure them of whole-hearted co-operation in your city.

Should you, however, feel that pressure of official business makes it necessary for you to decline the invitation, may we ask that you nominate a representative man or woman who will be interested in helping to carry on the work, which, by the way will not be burdensome.

Looking forward to your acceptance, I am,

Yours sincerely,

SUSANNA TAPSON,
Chairman Organization Committee.

AUGUSTA, ME., November 27, 1923.

MY DEAR MAYOR CURLEY,—I enjoyed my call upon you the other day and appreciate the courtesy which you extended to me.

Under separate cover I am sending you a little story I wrote about my dogs, thinking that some of the young people in your family may be interested to read it.

At your convenience will you please have the proper city official send me a certified copy of the vote accepting my father's bequest, so that I can have it in my files, and I will then make prompt remittance of the first payment due to the City of Boston.

The key to your city which you so kindly presented to me now occupies a place of honor on the mantelpiece in the Governor's office, and I am pleased to show it to my friends.

Believe me,

Faithfully yours,

PERCIVAL P. BAXTER,
Governor of Maine.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR PNEUMATIC TUBE SYSTEM.

The following communication sent to the President of the United States relative to the restoration of the Postal Pneumatic Tube System in the City of Boston, Mass.:

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.:

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT,—Your recent decision refusing to restore to the national budget the appropriation for the restoration of postal pneumatic tube service in the City of Boston has occasioned great disappointment; and I cannot help regarding it as an additional blow to the many that this city and Commonwealth have received in recent years from the several national administrations in Washington.

The closing down of the pneumatic tube service by Postmaster Burleson was a distinct injury to Boston, and the relatively negligible cost of its maintenance made the assigned reasons for its discontinuance—economy—neither impressive nor convincing; while the genuine service it contributed to Boston in expediting and safeguarding the mails, sustaining commerce, industry and finance in a vital phase—their interchange of intelligence—at the highest point attainable in postal dispatch, distribution and delivery, gave it a value far in excess of its administrative outlay.

The President of the United States is thoroughly familiar with conditions in this city; he knows that millions have been invested here in subways to relieve traffic congestion, expedite transportation, safeguard human life and make possible the transaction of the many activities of its commercial and industrial life. The more the streets of the city are relieved from vehicular traffic and their activities placed underground the greater the gain in the efficiency of business and transportation and in the elimination of dangers to those who must use the streets. Thus the pneumatic tubes.

The cessation of the tube service has slowed up the whole postal system and has been seriously detrimental to the best interests of Boston; and when the amount of the appropriation needed to restore this instrumentality to the Postal Service is understood and the enormous difference its functioning will make for the better in the business of Boston, it is difficult to understand why it has been stricken from the budget. The safe and expeditious dispatch and delivery of first class mail, of special delivery, registered and banking and business letters, is of vital importance to a city so peculiarly constructed and traffic-congested as Boston, the capital city of Massachusetts. In 1917 the tubes handled 3,000,000 letters of these classes every day and that service and its demands have increased enormously in the six years intervening. Such a mass of vitally important mail matter calls for a system of administration that is at once modern, swift, safe and satisfactory; and should not be handled by a system of street-truckage which at its very best is slow and obstructive by comparison. To save money at the expense of time, safety and efficiency is a mockery of a wise economy and marks a step backward, arresting the progress and prosperity of a great American Commonwealth.

The elimination of a utility, whose usefulness has been tried, tested, proven, is a false economy.

A man whose leg has been amputated may save in shoe leather but he will lose seriously in the impairment of his ability to move and work with the efficiency of a normal man.

I sincerely trust, Mr. President, that you will reconsider your decision and by your action restore to this great city a postal utility of first importance to its industrial, commercial and financial interests.

With my personal expression of my regard for the dignity and respect due your high office and the sincere hope that my appeal may receive your favorable consideration, I have the honor to remain,

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

CITY FIRE DEPARTMENT'S CAST-OFF COATS GO TO CHARITY.

Mayor Curley received the following communication from the Fire Commissioner:

DEAR MR. MAYOR.—Since the Boston Fire Department has been furnishing uniforms to the members there has accumulated a quantity of old coats which have outlived their usefulness in the Fire Department. These are uniform coats, that are worn and torn to such an extent that they cannot be used as wearing apparel in this department. One disposition that can be made of these coats is to sell them as old rags, but the market value of this material is so low it has occurred to me that a bigger return would be received from the disposition of this old material by distributing it to certain well recognized charities in the city. Of course, the coats, when given away, would have no marks of identification connecting them with the Fire Department. The organizations which, in my opinion, might be interested in this proposition are the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Salvation Army and the Morgan Memorial.

Will you kindly advise me if this meets with your Honor's approval?

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Approved by Mayor Curley.

CIVIL ENGINEERS DECEMBER 17, 1923.

These examinations are for the service of the state, all cities, and such towns as are classified under civil service.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade A if the salary is less than $720 a year or more than $1,200 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Subjects and Weights.—Rodmen: Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; tracing, 3; questions on the duties of the position, 6; total, 20. Assistant draftsmen: Experience, 4; mathematics, 6; penmanship, 1; drawing, 9; total, 20.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draftsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,800 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution, plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

Subjects and Weights.—Instrumentmen: Experience, 16; penmanship, 2; plotting, 6; questions on duties, 8; mathematics, 8; total, 40. Draftsmen: Experience, 16; drawing, 7; mathematics, 6; duties, 4; plotting, 4; tracing, 3; total, 40.

Grade C.

Assistant engineers, assistant civil engineers, and designing engineers: (a) who assume responsibility for the direction of surveys, the preparation and examination of, or advice upon, plans, designs and specifications for a minor section of a large engineering or a major section of a small engineering project; or (b) who supervise or inspect the construction or the operation of work on such a project; or

(c) who operate a completed section of such a project; or (d) who make investigations of, and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C if the salary is more than $2,340 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or, if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years of practical experience.

Grade D.

Senior assistant engineers, senior assistant civil engineers, and senior designing engineers: (a) who supervise and assume complete responsibility for the work of a main division of an engineering organization, involving the direction of surveys and design and construction; or (b) who maintain and operate the major section of a large engineering project; or (c) who make independent investigations of and reports upon engineering projects as a basis for executive, administrative, or judicial action; or (d) who take charge of a large engineering department in the absence of the chief engineer; or (e) who give advice on large or complicated engineering projects, which may involve the preparation of plans.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade D if the salary is more than $3,600 a year.

Laid over under the law.

SPECIAL COUNSEL, INTERSTATE COMMERCE HEARINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 14, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The importance of the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission to determine railroad valuations are of such weight in their bearing upon both the commercial and industrial life of our city that, in my opinion, the recommendation of the Corporation Counsel, Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, namely, "that special counsel should be designated to represent the city on matters now pending before the Interstate Commission," should be approved and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying copy of resolution.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $5,000 be authorized to be expended for the purposes of meeting charges for the employment of special counsel and for reasonable traveling expenses incident to attendance before the United States Interstate Commerce Commission or any conferences held by parties interested in the railroad valuation proceedings now pending before the United States Interstate Commerce Commission, and it is further ordered that his Honor the Mayor is hereby authorized to employ such special counsel to act for the City of Boston in such proceedings. Said sum of $5,000 to be charged to the Reserve Fund, and all expenditures shall be subject to the written approval of the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR ENGINE NO. 31.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 19, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—With the completion of the new fire station for Engine Company No. 31 it develops that the facilities for docking this fireboat are inadequate. An examination of the premises by an engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division has shown that the piles and planking are needed for the wharf and that considerable dredging should be done in the slip and channel. It is estimated that it is necessary that an appropriation of $9,000 will be needed to make the necessary improvements, and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying copy of resolution.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, November 14, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—I have received notice from the Superintendent of Public Buildings that the new fire station for Engine Company No. 31, fireboat, is now ready for occupancy.

I have had an examination made of the conditions of the docking facilities at this location and find that there is considerable work to be done. One of the engineers of the Bridge and Ferry Division has examined the premises and reports that sixteen new oak piles will be needed; that apparently the pile supports will be replaced and that all of the 3-inch plank should be relaid in view of the fact that some of it is rotten and the rest of it when taken down to renew the stringers would probably be in such condition that it could not be used over again. In addition to this there is considerable dredging to be done.

To do this work the sum of approximately $9,000 will be necessary. There is no provision made in the Fire Department appropriation for handling this matter and I would request therefore that a special appropriation of $9,000 be provided for the purpose of dredging and timber work at Fire Station, Engine 31.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,

Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Long Island Landing, $9,000, to the appropriation for Fire Station, Engine No. 31, Improvements, etc., $9,000.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER FOR ENGINE NO. 7.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Fire Commissioner reports that additional funds are necessary with which to complete Engine Company No. 7, new building, the original appropriation for which amounted to $40,000 and the contract for construction $38,900. During the progress of the work certain changes were made in the sum of $500 be transferred to provide for the completion of Engine Company No. 7, new building, and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying copy of transfer.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, November 9, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—I respectfully recommend that five hundred ($500) dollars be transferred from the special appropriation, Remodeling

House, Engine 14, to the special appropriation, Engine 7, New Building.

The original appropriation for Engine 7, New Building, amounted to $40,000. The contract amounted to $38,900. As the work progressed certain matters arose which required attention and which could not be foreseen. In order to meet the expenses for these unforeseen items this additional appropriation is necessary. The work at Engine 14 has been completed for some years and the amount mentioned will not be necessary.

Yours very truly,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to make the following transfers in the appropriations for Fire Department:

From the appropriation for Remodeling House, Engine No. 14, $500, to the appropriation for Engine No. 7, New Building, $500.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

SNOW REMOVAL APPROPRIATION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 19, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am informed by the Commissioner of Public Works that owing to the heavy snowfall of last winter the original appropriation for the removal of snow provided in this year's budget is now practically exhausted. Since contracts are soon to be let for this purpose it is desirable that a sufficient balance be present in the budget of the Paving Service to permit such contracts to be awarded. I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order of transfer.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Office of Commissioner of Public Works,

November 16, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully request a transfer of $25,000 from Reserve Fund to Paving Service under the Item B-21, Removal of Snow, Rubbish, etc., for the removal of snow and ice during the coming winter.

Through an oversight and unexpected expenditures under this item during the past winter, practically nothing is left in it for the winter's work.

Yours respectfully,
J. A. ROUKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Reserve Fund, $25,000, to the appropriation for Public Works Department, Paving Service, B-21, Removal of Snow, Rubbish, etc., $25,000.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

TRANSFER FOR CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The increase in the number of patients at the City Hospital during the year 1923 as set forth in the communication submitted herewith by the trustees, averaging as it does between patients and employees nearly one hundred in excess of 1922-23, makes necessary the transfer of additional monies estimated by the Board of Trustees in the sum of $55,000.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order of transfer.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Hospital Department, November 15, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In 1921-22 there were 22,564 patients treated in this hospital. In 1922-23 the number treated was 27,011. When the budget was prepared for 1923-24 it was not anticipated that this number would be exceeded, as it was felt that our limit had been reached; but to date there has been an average of eighty-four patients daily, and today there are 200 patients more than were in the hospital on the corresponding day last year. These are being cared for by moving the beds closer together and placing beds in the wards. Our daily average for the year will be at least 100 more than a year ago, an increase of 10 per cent in the number of patients. There have also been added more nurses and employees. One year ago there were 260 nurses in this hospital, including fifty-one specials. Today there are 284 nurses, including fifty-five specials.

To provide for this emergency, it becomes necessary to request additional funds to carry the hospital to the end of the fiscal year. Therefore, on behalf of the trustees, I respectfully request an additional appropriation of $55,000, made up as follows:

B-4, Transportation of Persons.....	$500
B-15, Motorless Vehicle Repairs.....	100
C-3, Electrical.....	500
C-4, Motor Vehicles.....	1,000
C-7, Furniture and Fittings.....	10,000
C-12, Medical, Surgical, Laboratory.....	6,000
C-13, Tools and Instruments.....	1,000
C-16, Wearing Apparel.....	2,000
D-2, Food and Ice.....	20,000
D-5, Medical, Surgical, Laboratory.....	10,000
D-8, Laundry, Cleaning, Toilet.....	1,000
E-1, Building.....	1,400

MONEY FOR HIGH PRESSURE FIRE SYSTEM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 16, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Public Works Commissioner in connection with the extension of the high pressure fire system is desirous of continuing his extensions and to do this it will be necessary to purchase equipment and make available sufficient money to provide for the installation of the same.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Public Works Department, December 5, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor of Boston:

Annual is respectfully requested for the following transfer in the Water Department:

From Water Revenue, $25,000, to High Pressure Fire System Extension, $25,000.

Receipts from water revenue, etc., to November 1 was approximately $25,000, with $20,000 of the amount collected to November 1, 1922, and if the same rate of collections continue it would appear that the year's income will be well over the expenditures.

On or about November 10, the laying of the 16-inch high pressure fire pipe in Hanover street between Parkman and Cross streets, will be completed. The continuing of the high pressure fire pipe laying in Hanover street between Blackstone and Washington streets, calling for the laying of 500 feet of 16-inch pipe, is very advisable now in order to have the pipe trench properly settled before the permanent pavement is laid next spring. If the laying of this length of pipe is postponed until the 1924 contract it will be late in the summer before the work is completed, and therefore very uncertain whether the permanent paving can be properly laid; and as regards cost, labor conditions are such that the prices paid next year will be at least equal if not greater than this year's prices.

$10,000 of the $25,000 asked for will be used for this pipelaying and the remaining $15,000 to permit the advancing now of the thirty 16-inch high pressure fire pipes that will be required for next year's work. If we are obliged to wait until February 1 before receiving money for this pipelaying, judging from our past and present experience, it will be late in the fall before the gates are received, and as there are no 16-inch gates on hand, it will practically mean no high pressure fire pipe laying in 1924.

Very respectfully,

J. A. ROUKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That to meet the current expenses payable during the financial year, beginning with the first day of February, 1924, the sum of $25,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated from the income of Water Service, Public Works Department, as follows: High Pressure Fire System, Extension, $25,000.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

STATE ACCOUNTING SYSTEM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, November 14, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—This is in reply to your communication of recent date relative to the effect of chapter 16 of the Acts of 1922 upon the City of Boston, pursuant to the assumed effect of the provisions of which the question "Shall the city petition for the installation of an accounting system by the Commonwealth?" was placed upon the ballot at the last city election, at which election a majority of the voters voted in the affirmative.

Chapter 516, section 1, is a general act reading as follows:

"In every city, and in every town using official ballots, in which an accounting system has not been installed under the provisions of section thirty-five or thirty-six of chapter forty-four of the General Laws or corresponding provisions of earlier laws, there shall be placed upon the official ballot at the next city election, and in such towns upon the official ballot for the election of town officials at the annual town meeting in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-three, the following question: "Shall the (city) or (town) petition for the installation of an accounting system by the Commonwealth?" If a majority of the voters voting thereon vote in the affirmative, in answer to said question, then in cities the city council and in towns the selectmen shall forthwith petition the director of the division of accounts of the department of corporations and taxation for the installation of an accounting system in said city or town under the provisions of said chapter forty-four."

and is apparently in conflict with section 23 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 (amended charter of 1909), which confers upon the City Auditor the power to describe the form in which the petitions of the Legislature to the City of Boston and County of Suffolk shall be kept.

"Section 23. All accounts rendered to or kept in the departments of the Legislature in the city or county of Suffolk shall be subject to the inspection and revision of the city auditor and shall be rendered and kept in such form as he shall prescribe."

This is a special act applying only to the City of Boston and as such it must be considered as being in force until such time as some other act of the Legislature indicates a clear intent that the said special act be repealed.

See Lewis' Southernland on Statutory Construction, section 275, page 581.

"Unless there is a plain indication of an intent that the general act shall repeal the other (special act) it will continue to have effect and the general words with which it conflicts will be restrained and modified accordingly."

"See also the same author, section 278, citing cases in which local and special acts were held not to be repealed by general acts."

I am, therefore, of the opinion that the Act of 1922 was not intended to apply to the City of Boston, did not repeal section 23 of the amended charter and consequently the said section 23 remains in force. I am further of the opinion that the question should not have been placed upon the ballot at the city election in 1922.

However, inasmuch as an expression of the desire of the voters of Boston was obtained in this matter, and his Honor the Mayor and the City Auditor have no objection, I see no reason why the City Council may not petition the Director of the Division of Accounts of the Department of Corporations and Taxation for the installation of an accounting system in the City of Boston in accordance with that expressed desire.

Very truly yours,

E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along the easterly side of Sunnyside street from Centre street to end of property at No. 11 and on northerly side from No. 15 to Creighton street, Ward 14, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, the order in question is one along similar lines as the one just presented by Coun. Moriarty. His was referred to the Executive Committee and I move that this order be referred to the same committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

INVESTIGATION CONCERNING HOMES.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That the City Planning Board be requested by his Honor the Mayor to be requested to investigate what the city of Milwaukee has done to provide homes for those of modest means, and report to the Mayor and the City Council whether some such plan as is in effect in Milwaukee might not be used in Boston.

Passed, under a suspension of the rule.

HOUSING ACCOMMODATIONS.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be respectfully requested to confer with the Corporation Counsel as to the advisability of petitioning the Legislature to amend the present statute which permits municipalities to provide housing accommodations in time of emergency, and strike out from the present law the word "temporary," as in the opinion of the Corporation Counsel the city can do something so that it prevents the city from taking any action that would be helpful to the people.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I would like to speak on both of those orders at once, as the subject is pretty nearly the same. I think it would be well to see if we cannot get some action from the incoming Legislature so that the city can do something to help out in the emergency that is known to exist, providing homes, modest homes for those of modest means. It seems to me that everybody knows of the necessity of this emergency, and in "everybody," I include city officials and state officials; but nobody seems to want to do anything or to know where to do. Everybody seems willing to pass it along to somebody else. The result is that nothing is being done in Boston by either the Legislature or the city government beyond talking on the subject. I am in consultation with the Corporation Counsel he gives me to understand that the present law has a joker inserted in it, in the word "temporary." So that the city is under the law allowed to provide temporary homes and he can construes and interprets the law that we cannot provide anything of a permanent nature. Well, these people don't want to live in tents or shacks while we would have temporary structures for temporary use. They want to live in homes, properly built homes. But according to the Corporation Counsel's interpretation of the present statute law, Boston is tied hand and foot as far as taking any action is concerned. The object of the order is to ask the Mayor to request the Legislature to take action looking to something being done looking to remedy the trouble, and to have the Corporation Counsel appear before the proper legislative committee and see if the law can not be amended so as to remove the joker that exists because of the word "temporary," providing a suitable law so that the city can take some action, I might say, that is permanent, that while we here in Boston are talking on this matter, other cities are doing something. The city of Milwaukee has got to state where it is providing a number of homes of the type and character that we have in mind here, and to meet the same emergency that exists in Boston. The city of Milwaukee has done the City of Boston can do. Somebody in Milwaukee had to take the initiative; somebody had to think, had to take some action, had to do some planning, and somebody did. Just who that somebody was, I don't know, but I think it is the sentiment of every member of the body here that Boston ought to be doing something along these lines. We talked about this in the early spring months, in the hope at that time that perhaps something of this nature might be provided during the summer, before the severe fall and winter months arrive. We are in the same position now that we were the day we started, and nothing has been done. Nothing will be done, if we are going to continue simply to talk about this matter and not get some real action. It seems to me reasonable and logical that what some other city has been able to accomplish we can likewise accomplish. We have the City Planning Board here, a body of interested citizens who I am sure will be glad to investigate the Milwaukee plan and let us know the result of the investigation. I have personally looked into the matter somewhat as well as obtaining what literature could from the Milwaukee City Government; but I would prefer to have the City Planning Board make this investigation and report to the Mayor and City Council, doing it as promptly as possible, so that we may be able to take some favorable action this winter in the line of removing the emergency conditions which now exist, which are a great source of annoyance to a large element of our citizenship. I have no objection to having this referred to the Executive Committee, Mr. President, if that is wished for. I have no objection to the passage of the order I would ask a suspension of the rule that it might be put upon its passage at this time. I will not protest the passage, however, if there is objection.

The rule was suspended and the orders were passed.

PAYMENT FOR ENGROSSING OF RESOLUTIONS.

President LANE offered the following order—That the expense of engrossing the resolutions adopted on the death of Hon. Samuel W. Hall be charged to the Executive Committee and Passed under a suspension of the rule.

SALARIES AND COST OF LIVING.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the Budget Commissioner be requested, through the Honorable the Mayor, to submit to the City Council on or before the second Monday of January, 1924, two reports on salaries and wages received, respectively, by each county of this Commonwealth. The Department excluded, said reports to include charts and tables indicating the number of employees receiving uniform wages in various departments, and other information on the following subjects, viz.:

First, wages and salaries paid by the Commonwealth.

Second, wages and salaries paid by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Third, conclusions reached by recent commission considering the question of wages as affected by the cost of living.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, the death of Mr. Koren took away the leading light in the Statistics Department, and I have therefore proposed this order to have the Finance Commission investigate the same subject which under an order that I introduced two weeks ago I asked to have the Statistics Department investigate.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, you ask to have the information obtained returned on what date?

Coun. HEALEY—About the second Monday in January.

Coun. HAGAN—Are you giving them time enough to do it?

Coun. HEALEY—I don't know. They work fast.

Coun. HAGAN—Well, it is a pretty large order, and I don't know whether you are giving them time enough to do it or not.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am satisfied to get the information but I would rather get it from some other source. I think there is a man within our control, the Budget Commissioner, who could very well furnish the information.

Coun. HEALEY—Well, it would be pretty hard work.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, Mr. President, I don't think the Budget Commissioner's Department is at all anxious to avoid work. I would like to say that we would wish to get information that I would have some faith in, and I would have no faith in any recommendation coming from the Finance Commission. I would like the council say that I introduced a similar order here two weeks ago. I suppose I am on record as voting for it. If I have heard it, I would have made the same objection. I am making it now, and the Budget Commissioner is the proper man to furnish this information for us. If his department has not got the time he can put on some help. Other men, more men and women loafing today than at any time since the war. I am informed that the Finance Commission has just put on twenty-five more course, they are not subject to the same laws, as we are here. They can do anything they want within their appropriation allowed by the Board. We want to say I agree with Coun. Healey's idea, that we get the information, although I do not agree with the source that he selects to furnish that information. That he be glad to vote for the order, if the information is to be furnished through any other source, but if it is to some through the Finance Commission I will have to vote against it.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, if there is no objection I would ask that the words "Budget Commissioner" replace the words "Finance Commission," in the order.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I think it would be a mistake to send this to the Budget Commissioner, but what I have the most confidence in his ability to do the work, and his good intention to pursue the investigation suggested. But the Budget Commissioner has only one employee more men. Now is the busy season also for that little department because the department heads are preparing their budget estimates and sending them in, and he is going to have to be full to take care of the budget and have it in here within the time required by law, on March 1st.

As I understand the position of the gentlemen opposite, Coun. Moriarty has no position whatsoever to the merits of the order as presented by Coun. Healey. He is just opposed to the Finance Commission doing the investigating. Well that is personal prejudice on his part. He is entitled to have that prejudice, but this information is not anything the Finance Commission are going to conjure up. Coun. Healey is asking for facts and figures, and that is all anybody can give you and all that they will give you. The Finance Commission are by law delegated with the investigation of the body connected with the city government, and they are the people who ought to do this. They are the people who are best equipped to do this work, and therefore I would think people who ought to have the job. I don't understand that there is any opposition to the merits of the order at all, but only as to where it shall be sent. Now, what is the use of sending this to the Budget Commissioner, if it is beyond his capacity to return the information to us, at least in reasonable season? I don't believe we would get the information for many months after the order was sent down there, considering the work that has to be done in his office and get the information. I have only one employee in the office. The Finance Commission are people who could and would readily send the information to us. I don't believe that they need help. I would like to know what is coming to us from the Finance Commission in reply to that order. It is only a question of figures, and they are simply going to compile them and send them in the proper form. That is all we want, all anybody wants, and they will do it for us.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am glad that the gentleman opposite has the confidence he seems to have in the Finance Commission. I want to say this, however, that I have absolutely no confidence in them, and that with me it is not a personal matter. It is a feeling that has come from long experience, long and bitter experience. And I want to say this to the member on the other side. If it is true that the order of twenty girls to work recently, I will be willing to vote that half of them do not belong in Boston. My situation is this. Figures do not lie, no, but certain people can make up their minds that would not put it past the Finance Commission to make figures lie. I remember, in connection with a proposed appropriation here, and the member of the House who was the chairman of that commission told us that if we would appropriate $50,000 for an investigation of the pension bill before the bill was introduced, he would pass it. I would forward a copy to this Council, and the first time we saw it was after the Legislature had passed it. The order says I don't know how busy the Budget Commissioner is, neither do I care. The Budget Commissioner, in my estimation, is just as capable of selecting extra help to get this information as the Finance Commission is, and I think we would have some confidence in the report that came back to us from him. I don't know of anybody here who has any confidence in the ability of the Budget Department. I don't know whether I am the only one who has not got confidence in the Finance Commission. I cannot speak for anybody but myself. I have absolutely no confidence in that commission. I am glad that the gentleman on the other side has confidence he seems to have in them, but in my estimation they have never done one constructive piece of work since they have been in existence, and I don't think that they help to get this information. Mr. Healey proposes constructively if the resolution goes through.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I don't think there is any real controversy over this proposition. The mere fact that Coun. Healey accepts the suggestion of Coun. Moriarty ought to be sufficient. But there is one reason, for that, that I am going to go to the Budget Commissioner. The Budget Commission is an important department of this city, it is a department that has to do very intimate work with vital statistics, wages, wages and appropriations; and I don't think there is any department in the city better fitted to get this information. I don't believe he will have to increase his force in order to obtain the information desired. If he does, we ought to put ourselves in the position of having to get the money which we told him to do it. The Finance Commission surely will put on additional help when they are called upon to do additional work outside of their routine. I am going to leave it to them to do the work. If you will read the City Record of this week, you will see, for instance, that John Jones or John Smith has been employed in the department for the last twenty-one days, something like that, and they never go to the civil service about it. I think myself, in order to keep our departments intact and to get them to do such work as naturally would come in their line, we should recognize the desirability of having departments which deal with certain lines of information or figures, make investigations along such lines for us, when we wish information. As I said in opening, the mere fact that Coun. Healey, who offers the order, accepts without hesitation the proposed amendment that the information be furnished through the Budget Commissioner, is sufficient. Therefore, I trust that the amendment will pass.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, I ought to say, in order to settle the controversy, that in conversation with the Budget Commissioner, I find that he will be willing to have me do such work in the next two weeks to perform the work required under the order.

The amendment to substitute the words "Budget Commissioner" for the words "Finance Commission" was adopted and the order as amended was passed under suspension of the rules. Coun. Hagagan moved that the matter of record, be wished to be recorded as voting "no" on the question of sending the order to the Budget Commissioner, although otherwise he favored the passage of the order.

BRIDGE EMPLOYEES.

COUN. DONGHUE offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to ascertain from the Commissioner of Public Works why it is that the City of Boston, paying half the expense of the Boston-Cambridge bridges, is not entitled to employ one half of the employees working on these bridges.

COUN. DONGHUE—Mr. President, I merely wish to repeat at this time what I said in the executive meeting, that, inasmuch as the City of Boston is paying one half the expense of maintenance privileges, in my opinion there is no reason why the City of Boston is not entitled to employ half of the employees who work on the bridges. The matter came to my attention in looking over the pay roll book, where I observed that there are twenty-two permanent employees working on those bridges, but five or six of whom at the most are residents of the City of Boston. I feel that we are entitled to at least one half of the number of employees there, and also of the laborers who are working on those bridges from time to time. My understanding of the matter is that while half the expense of the bridges is borne by the City of Boston, most of those employees are residents of Cambridge. I feel that, because of the fact that we pay half the expenses, we should be entitled to half the number of employees. It is a small degree at least would help alleviate some of the suffering from lack of work in our city. In other words, I see no reason why, if jurisdiction is handed over to the Cambridge authorities to repair and maintain these bridges, for that reason Cambridge should be entitled to hire most of the employees who do the work on the bridges. I think we should be entitled to half of them. I believe Boston is entitled to a square deal in the matter.

COUN. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I agree with COUN. DONGHUE. As I have said, I believe we ought to go farther. I believe we should request the Mayor to ask our representative on the Commission to see if the abuses existing cannot be rectified and to have a report in regard to the same.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

NIGHT CAR SERVICE.

COUN. MORIARTY offered an order—That the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company be requested through his Honor the Mayor, to restore the all night car service starting from Adams square.

COUN. MORIARTY—Mr. President, this is a matter in regard to which I have received some newspaper notoriety. I do not stay very late myself, so as to see the night cars, but I was surprised, in view of the situation we find here, to hear the representatives of the Elevated today tell us how they were trying to get rid of the reduction of the night cars running from Adams square, as they have for a great many years, and I understand that the trustees are turning their backs down and said that they were going to continue to run from the subway. I think there are many reasons why they should continue to run from Adams square. I very seldom take this floor to advocate the interests of the downtown district, but we all know that there are restaurants located on Washington street kept open nights for the purpose of catering to those people who are unfortunately compelled to work nights to earn their living, and the men and women working nights down in this section and living farther out in the residential sections should not be compelled to walk from the downtown business district during the winter months to the subway to get their cars. I feel that the trustees should continue to run the night cars from Adams square, and I believe it is possible to get the Mayor to urge them to do so it may have some result. I trust that we can bring back to those people who are unfortunately compelled to work during the night hours, into the small hours of the morning, the cars, running on Washington street from Adams square, which will enable them to get to their homes, as they have been able to do for many years.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

CITY STRIKES BARGAIN IN BUYING OLD MORRISON MANSION FOR SCHOOL.

ACQUIRES VALUABLE PROPERTY, SCENE OF FORMER SOCIAL BRILLIANCE, WITH FOUR ACRES OF LAND FOR $125,000. CAN BE TURNED INTO 12-ROOM BUILDING AND STILL BE LESS COSTLY THAN TO ERECT AN 8-ROOM BUILDING.

OLD MORRISON ESTATE PURCHASED AT A BARGAIN BY CITY TO BE USED FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES.

In acquiring the fine old mansion and the four-acre Morrison estate in Roxbury to be used as a school site the present administration has made one of its most businesslike moves.

The property acquired, which is to be devoted to school purposes and on which is to be built a twelve-room structure, with four rooms for domestic science, is located on Walnut avenue and Crawford street and in former years was the scene of many brilliant social activities. The city has acquired the entire property, including the building and the four acres of land, for far less than the ordinary cost of an eight-room school building. The property was bought for $125,000.

There are 162,123 square feet of land in the property, with a front of 510 feet on one street and 394 feet on another. It is planned to spend approximately $75,000 in turning the building into a school, making the total cost to the city $200,000.

PROPOSED NEW $35,000,000 HIGHWAY THROUGH CITY TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC.

The conference of the retail business interests representing Jordan, Marsh Company, R. H. White & Co. and William Filene's Sons Company met Monday, December 3, with his Honor the Mayor, Mr. William Stanley Parker representing the City Planning Board and Mr. John H. L. Noyes, chairman of the Street Commission, to consider ways and means of relieving the city streets of the present congestion either by the establishment of a new traffic thoroughfare or through the adoption of regulations governing the parking of cars in Boston.

Mr. Parker, representing the City Planning Board, stated that the question of a new thoroughfare for Boston one hundred feet in width and extending from a point south of Boston and through the entire downtown section to the northerly extremity of the city had been under consideration and investigation by the experts of the Planning Board for more than a year and that a bill was now being drafted for presentation to the incoming Legislature for an expenditure of approximately thirty-five millions of dollars for this thoroughfare.

Mr. Parker further stated that delegations representing approximately all business and other organizations of Boston had been consulted with reference to the location of the proposed new thoroughfare and that all were in accord with the necessity for the same. The Planning Board will make an intensive study of automobile parking in the city with a view to providing such measures of relief as are imperatively required at the present time.

MAYOR CALLS ON PRESIDENT TO PROTECT BOSTON'S POSTAL INTERESTS.

Mayor Curley, on Monday, December 3, sent the following telegrams to President Coolidge:

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

The Boston Post today reports that Postmaster-General New has recommended the restoration of pneumatic tube to Boston and Philadelphia. It is already operating in New York and Brooklyn. Massachusetts asks that her postal interests be placed on an equality with New York's and requests that the President direct the Budget Commissioner to restore the appropriation for Boston pneumatic tube to the national budget.

The Postmaster-General follows the report of the Joint Commission on Postal Service, made up of postal officials and efficiency engineers, which has urged the restoration of the pneumatic tube service, for reasons it would be well for the Budget Commissioner to familiarize himself with. Boston calls on the President of the United States to safeguard her interests by giving preference to the carefully considered conclusions of experts based on investigation over the mere opinion of inexperienced bureaucrats; and the Commonwealth looks to its former Governor to protect its capital Boston from unwarranted discrimination masquerading under the guise of false economy.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant gem,
 From thy hills looking down on the ship-
 teeming plain of the ocean,
 May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene, Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

 NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

MAYOR CURLEY CALLS ON ALL AMERICANS TO REDEDICATE THEMSELVES TO PERPETUATION OF MONROE DOCTRINE.

BROADCASTS NOTABLE ADDRESS ON CENTENNIAL ANNI- VERSARY OF EXPOUNDING OF THEORY BY PRESIDENT MONROE, WHICH KEPT EUROPE OUT OF AMERICA— BY RADIO FROM SHEPARD STORES—CALLS DAY SACRED IN CALENDAR OF UNITED STATES.

Mayor Curley delivered the following address over the radio at the Shepard Stores, Sunday, December 2, on the anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine:

This is the centennial anniversary of the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine. On the second day of December, 1823, just one hundred years ago, President Monroe sent to the Congress of the United States a document which enunciated certain principles of action and conditions of political conduct that were thereafter to govern the relations of Europe and America, the observance of which would keep America free from the wars, squabbles, and entanglements of Europe and promote the peace of this continent.

The document then sent to the American Congress with the views promulgated by President Monroe came to be known as the Monroe Doctrine. What he said in substance was that America was a field of colonization and conquest was closed to Europe; that the existing colonies and dependencies of any European power would not be interfered with; the governments which had declared and maintained their independence, and which the United States had acknowledged and recognized, must not be attacked with a view of oppressing them or in any manner controlling their destiny, as such action would be accepted as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States. He announced that America would continue the policies promulgated and observed from the beginning by the United States in regard to Europe, which were to preserve friendly relations with all, entangling alliances with none; to observe a manly policy, meeting the just claims of all powers and submitting to injuries from none. He held that the circumstances of the two continents were so conspicuously different that to allow the powers of Europe to extend their political systems to any part of America was to endanger our peace and happiness.

This proclamation was not received with welcome in Europe; the so-called Holy Alliance, consisting of Russia, Austria and Prussia, was crushing popular liberty across the sea and was contemplating the re-conquest of the late Spanish colonies of America, now independent republics; and the new Monroe Doctrine gave them pause, for it came at a time when England had grown suspicious of and antagonistic to the aims of the Holy Alliance and regarded the American attitude at that time with high favor. The Holy Alliance abandoned its American adventure and the republics of the continent found in the Monroe Doctrine the assurance of peace, the opportunity for national development and a measurable freedom from European land-hunger, meddling and military exploitation.

There was no written treaty between the Spanish American countries and the United States, or among themselves, covering the great essential element of the Monroe Doctrine,—non-interference by Europe in American affairs,—yet it hung in the air like a sword whose edge none dared test.

The Monroe Doctrine is coeval with the marvelous growth and development of the Latin American and made it possible. With peace and understanding between neighbors came internal peace, material prosperity, the advancement of art, letters and the higher life and a cessation of that phase of domestic squabbling called revolution which delayed the forward march of the continent. Today, on this centennial of the Monroe Doctrine, peace reigns from Hudson Bay to Patagonia; Latin America is advancing by leaps and bounds, population is increasing, industry and commerce expanding, and without pledges or treaties there exists a League of American Republics stronger than any League of Nations because it rests solely on honor, mutual forbearance and Christian faith.

High amid the snowy wastes of the Andes stands the noblest monument on this continent, a splendid bronze effigy of the cross-bearing Christ, a pledge and a promise of peace eternal between Argentina and Chile, whose influence has spread over the continent and touched the soul and the conscience of the world. The Christ of the Andes has transformed the Andes that divided two republics into an imperishable bond of union. Is it too much to say that the peaceful, unwritten alliance of all America and the peace and fraternity that the Christ of the Andes symbolizes are the legitimate outgrowth of the Monroe Doctrine, which, itself an expansion of Washington's words of wisdom, showed the world that moral force and the spirit of liberty are more potent than the sword?

The promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine even in our days of weakness set up a barrier to European exploitation that has never been successfully surmounted. Ports have been assailed in Spanish-America and wrongdoers have been punished but no permanent occupation of American territory by alien governments has been permitted.

When Napoleon the Little conceived himself powerful enough at a time when the United States was fighting for its life against Southern rebellion, France attempted to set up an empire in Mexico, with its puppet Maximilian of Austria; but when Sheridan went to the Rio Grande with 100,000 veterans and a friendly polite note went to Paris, France settled back to Europe and Maximilian went to the firing squad.

England attempted a policy of expansion in Venezuela that Cleveland stopped; and Germany abandoned her designs in Venezuela and Japan left lower California when Senator Lodge as chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs invoked the Monroe Doctrine.

The Munroe Doctrine had served us well and it must be strongly supported to serve us in the future. Europe is as greedy and predatory today as she ever was; she still looks with greedy eyes upon the fat land and rich possibilities of America; her methods not her morals have changed; America is rich, strong, resourceful and not a subject for the physical conquest of the sword. What Europe may not dare by sword and slaughter she will seek to gain by trick and trap of treaty, by fair words and false pretences. Her propagandists are in our fields and cities where her soldiers dare not venture. Falsehood and flattery are more serviceable than fire and fury.

Eternal vigilance is still the price of freedom. A wise distrust of the Greeks bearing gifts; an enlightened skepticism of the counsel and cozening of Europe's bankrupt militarists, and a face of flint and a fist of steel for the enemies of America born and bred on our own soil, who remain monarchical in thought and spirit despite example and experience and who would betray the republic—these are still the paramount duties of the American.

The Declaration of Independence was a challenge to a world of kings and castes, a call to the oppressed of earth to destroy the privilege and power resting on the sword. The Monroe Doctrine was the formulation into a strong and settled policy of the advice of Washington to beware of entangling alliances with Europe, a policy aimed to keep Europe and her intrigues out of America, and America out of Europe; and the maintenance in full vigor of the Monroe Doctrine was never more necessary in our history than it is today when we have societies and associations of persons organized on our soil to hand America and its riches over to bankrupt Europe under the specious pretence of treaties and alliances to secure peace and protect the world. These servile societies are captained and counseled by alien enemies of America; and whether invasion is made by the soldier with the sword or the propagandist with the pen, it is an invasion that must be repelled with relentless vigor.

Europe no longer ships her Hessians here to strangle liberty; she can buy her eager mercenaries on American soil; she can recruit her hirelings from bench and bar, press and pulpit, college and counting room to preach the creed of colonialism and anti-Americanism to poison sources of knowledge and education, pervert the gospel of Americanism; and she can pay these workers in the field of treachery and treason with the money generously even though thoughtlessly given by America.

The tribe and teaching of Judas are not dead; they still flourish on American soil; and under the guise of a spurious community of interest, false humanitarianism and other thinly disguised methods seek to ally America to the bankrupt European Plunder-bund, that her fate may be wrecked and her fortune wasted in imperial wars and adventures that will destroy democracy and liberty and give the world and its people over to death and destruction and the restoration and rehabilitation of kings and courts, class and caste.

On this centennial anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine, which rounds out and embodies in a protective wall the Declaration of Independence, the wisdom of Washington and the teachings of the fathers, let us highly resolve to give renewed vigor, virtue and vitality to the historic proclamation of President Monroe. Let us with dignity and finality advise bankrupt Europe and her mercenary American hirelings that the Monroe Doctrine is as potent and palpitant today as when Monroe formulated it and Lincoln, Cleveland and Roosevelt thundered it. Let us say to the schemers abroad and the traitors at home that the Declaration of Independence still lives; that America is still vigorous and vigilant; that no new nation can find lodgement on this soil, whether it comes with sword or pen, as open foe, or plotting propagandist; and tell them that while Washington and Lincoln remain names to conjure with and their glorious spirits stand watch and ward around the altars of liberty, government of the people, made safer and more stable by the Monroe Doctrine, shall endure in peace and security.

On this noble and memorable anniversary let us renew our allegiance to flag and country, to the historic teachings of the fathers and the principles that have made us free and great. Let us insist that the government in Washington divorce itself from the whispering traitors and pernicious propagandists who seek to nullify our policies and destroy our national integrity. Let us demand the alien plotters be driven from our soil, that domestic treachery be made perilous, and that they who traffic in our country's peace and plenty and would jeopardize them in the interests of alien schemers be held up to ignominy and contempt of America, no matter under what sonorous title they operate and accept the thirty pieces of silver to Judas.

On this the birthday of American security let us reconsecrate ourselves to God and country, rededicate our energies to vigilance and liberty and renew our pledges to the strengthening and perpetuation of the Monroe Doctrine, that the spirit of American patriotism may inspire us and fortify us in our rejection of the overtures and temptations of Europe and in our resolution to extirpate the noisy and noxious traitors sheltered within the household, no matter how exalted the stations they hold, the names they bear, or how ear-tickling and narcotizing the heresies they preach.

Let Americans never forget that December 2, the day of the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine, is a sacred day in the calendar of the United States, a red letter day in the history of the American continent, and a day big with importance to a world democracy, as the day when king and class and caste were curbed and this continent was set apart for government of the people, by the people, for the people, beyond question.

Upon December 3, the Mayor approved a contract with V. Barletta for sewerage works in Weld street, between Board of Survey street No. 1779 and Parkvale road, West Roxbury. Upon December 3 the Mayor approved a contract with the Mohawk Packing Company for furnishing meats to the various city departments during December, 1923. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

"The prices quoted by the two lowest bidders are so far below the prevailing wholesale market prices today that I feel that neither concern could deliver the quality of meat called for under our specifications, and that this department would have considerable difficulty in securing the deliveries desired. The prices quoted by the Mohawk Packing Company are more consistent with the prevailing wholesale prices quoted today by the leading packing concerns in the City of Boston, and I feel that the best interests of the city will be served in awarding this contract as recommended."

Upon December 3 the Mayor approved a contract with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for furnishing and installing underground conduits and cables to supply telephone service to the Columbus Park Bath House. A communication from James B. Shea, of the Park Department was as follows:

BOSTON, November 30, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—By vote of the Board of Park Commissioners, your approval is respectfully asked for authority to award, without advertising, a contract to the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, 119 Milk street, Boston, for furnishing and installing underground conduits and cables to supply telephone service to the Columbus Park Bathhouse, on a cost plus 15 per cent basis, the sum of said contract to amount to approximately about $3,500.

The reason for this request is that the Board believes that the work of this kind should be done by the Telephone Company in accordance with their standards, rather than to ask competitive bidding by outside contractors.

The Board is very anxious to get this work started and believes that it would be inadvisable to advertise for proposals for this class of work.

Very truly yours,

DANIEL J. BYRNE,
Secretary.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Paving Service).

Construction Company for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

To the Mayor of Boston:

Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets without advertising, to J. F. Fitzgerald Construction Company, 533 Old South Building, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand ($1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

ADDITIONAL WORK UNDER CONTRACT.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Boston, December 3, 1923.

The Mayor has approved the request of Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn for the following extra work under contract of the North Eastern Construction Company. A communication from the Commissioner was as follows:

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—For several winters it has been practically impossible to heat properly the quarters of Engine 20 and Ladder 27 on Walnut street, Neponset. The heater in use in that building was of the hot water type and was worn out to such an extent that it was necessary to condemn it and replace it with a new heater. It was desired to replace the hot water heater with a steam heater, and in order to do so it was deemed advisable to lower the floor of the present boiler room approximately four feet and make an extension on the room to allow for the installation of a No. 937-A Gurney heater. The cost for doing this work was $900, and the contract was given to the North Eastern Construction Company, 230 Medford street, Charlestown.

After the work was completed, the heater installed and connected, it was found that the chimney did not produce a sufficient draft to take care of the house heater and hot water heater for supplying a shower bath that had recently been installed in these quarters. It was also found that after a heavy rainstorm, water would seep through the foundation of the old boiler room.

In order to put the quarters and heating system in proper condition the following work had to be done:

- (a) The chimney was rebuilt.
- (b) A new concrete foundation wall was built over the face of the old wall.
- (c) The door leading from the quarters of the boiler room was relocated to lead into the new addition.
- (d) A window was cut through to the coalbin in order to facilitate the depositing of coal in the boiler room.

The cost of this additional work was $701.33 and was also completed by the North Eastern Construction Company. The extra work was absolutely necessary and imperative although entirely unforeseen when the original contract was commenced. I request your Honor's approval for the payment to the North Eastern Construction Company of $1,601.33 for this work.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

EXTRA WORK UNDER CONTRACT.

B. E. Grant Company have been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for repaving West street, Bedford street, Shawmut avenue and Charles street. Price to be paid: For each square yard, wood block pavement furnished and laid, the sum of $4.25. Estimated cost of extra work, $450.

Joseph A. Singarella has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for laying artificial stone sidewalks in East Fourth and other streets. Items ordered: Remove tree, including stump, roots, etc., from the driveway at No. 10 Rodin street; price to be paid, the sum of $100. Estimated cost of extra work, $100.

DeSisto Company have been granted an extension of the time for completion of the contract for laying and relaying water pipes in Prospect street and Williams avenue, Hyde Park, from November 24 to December 15, 1923, as necessary on account of the extremely hard digging with a special involved connection, which made the work slower than contemplated.

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly Brighton and are bounded as follows: A parcel of land, supposed to belong to owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Sorrento street, bounded:

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on the northeasterly side of Sorrento street, for a distance of about two hundred and forty-five feet northwesterly from Hopedale street, excluding the lot at the northerly corner of Sorrento and Hopedale streets, and the abutting lots of land on the southwesterly side of Sorrento street, from Hopedale street to Eaton street, excluding the lot at the westerly corner of Sorrento and Hopedale streets, will receive benefit or advantage other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement herein ordered, each of the particular lots within said limits to the amount hereinafter respectively set against it; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 536, Sewerage Works, Sorrento street, Brighton, November 10, 1923, F. C. Whitney, Chief Engineer Street Laying Out Department," and on file in the office of said department.

ICE REMOVAL CONTRACTS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved the award of the following contracts for removing snow and ice in the various snow districts of the city:

A. G. Tomasello & Son, District No. 1, $0.70 per cubic yard; District No. 10, $0.65 per cubic yard.

J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, District No. 2, $0.70 per cubic yard; District No. 8, $0.64 per cubic yard.

B. E. Grant Company, District No. 3, $0.65 per cubic yard; District No. 7, $0.70 per cubic yard.

Coleman Brothers, Incorporated, District No. 4, $0.75 per cubic yard; District No. 5, $0.75 per cubic yard.

C. & R. Construction Company, District No. 6, $0.75 per cubic yard.

M. F. Gaddis, District No. 9, $0.80 per cubic yard.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, was as follows:

"The selection of these contractors is based upon the excellent work done by them during the trying winter of 1922-23, when a large amount of ice had to be picked and loaded at a comparatively low price per yard, which was based, in all probability, upon snow alone and resulted in a financial loss to them.

"They are among the best contractors in the city available for this work and the price per yard on the respective bids exceeds but little the average price submitted by all bidders for each district on this work; and in this average price is included bids ridiculously low and from firms not experienced in the work."

Bids for the work, opened November 26, were as follows:

MONROE DOCTRINE DAY PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR.

The Mayor issued the following proclamation on the observance of the Monroe Doctrine anniversary:

To the People of the City of Boston:

The Declaration of Independence was a call to the people of Colonial America to throw off alien control and establish free popular government. The adoption of the American Constitution brought internal peace, security, confidence and stability to the young United States. The promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine by the President of the United States December 2, 1823, gave form and substance to Washington's advice to his country to avoid entangling alliances with foreign governments, and enunciated as a national policy the principle that America had then and there ceased to be a field for foreign intrigue, aggression and exploitation and that any attempt to override this doctrine would be regarded as unfriendly by our government.

The Monroe Doctrine was the supplement and corollary of the Declaration and the Constitution, and has by a wise, firm and dignified adherence to its tenets by the United States conserved the peace, preserved the integrity, and given impetus to the national development of the American republics and the principles of democracy, and saved America from many of the evils of the European system.

The day of the adoption of the Monroe Doctrine is a sacred one in our national calendar, and I ask the people of Boston to mark the anniversary by suitable patriotic celebrations in schools and halls and by the display of flags on homes and buildings of all kinds. It is a notable holiday and one calling for devotion to a doctrine that has served our country well, and that demands from us a vigilance that will protect it from the intrigues of alien schemers and the treacheries of domestic traitors.

Out of the Monroe Doctrine, seldom invoked but always visible, has come the peace of a continent, in contrast to the ceaseless warfare of the mother of America, North and South Europe. It has been an instrument of good to America; an aid to national security and freedom from foreign meddling; it has practically been a charter of a League of American nations and governments, and has preserved us from dangerous alliances.

Stand by it; honor it, celebrate its day; for it is peculiarly and specifically an American day. I ask that during Monroe Doctrine Week, December 2 to 8, that the national flag be kept flying from all the public buildings of the City of Boston.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

TO INSPECT X-RAY LABORATORIES.

The Mayor has received the following letter from Joseph P. Manning, president of the Board of Trustees of the City Hospital:

BOSTON, November 23, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I inclose herewith a copy of a letter from Dr. Paul F. Butler, presented at a meeting of the Board of Trustees held today, which explains itself. Such visits are provided for in many hospitals, and are of distinct benefit to the hospital.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President Board of Trustees.

BOSTON, November 20, 1923.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES, Boston City Hospital, Boston, Mass.:

GENTLEMEN,—Before moving into new quarters for the X-Ray Department I would like to investigate filing systems and deep therapy machines.

I have in mind visiting the Mayo clinic and the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

There is a convention of radiologists at the Mayo clinic the first week of next December. I would like permission to attend this convention and also to inspect the above mentioned laboratories, at this time. As this is for the interest of the hospital, I feel that it should pay the expenses of the trip, which I estimate to be about $250. I submit this for your consideration.

Respectfully yours,

P. F. BUTLER,
Physician to X-Ray Service.

MAYOR REBUFS HALLER COMMITTEE FOR SLIGHT.

Mayor Curley sent the following letter to General Edwards on November 30:

GEN. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS, Commander, Massachusetts Department, the American Legion, State House, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR GENERAL,—I regret exceedingly to be advised by the delegation which you sent to wait upon me that it was impossible owing to physical exhaustion for General Haller to journey from the State House to City Hall to make an official visit to the office of the Mayor of Boston. In conformity with custom I should have received your guest had he been permitted to visit as announced in the press today.

I appreciate the consideration which your invitation to attend luncheon at the Boston City Club tonight tendered General Haller conveys and regret that I cannot in justice to his physical condition accept.

To add to the bodily discomfort of your guest would in my opinion be both unwise and unfair.

Trusting you will convey to the general my sincere wish for speedy restoration to his accustomed health and vigor, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

TRADE SCHOOL HEAD MAKES REPORT OF VISIT.

William Crawford, master of the Boston Trade School, made the following report on his trip of investigation to New York and Cleveland:

In New York, November 12 proved to be a legal holiday and the schools were closed, but that did not prevent my making the day one of the most profitable of all.

I spent the day with Mr. Fred F. Moran and his executive secretary, discussing the ways means and methods employed in the conduct of the apprenticeship classes. Mr. Moran is the supervisor of development, serving in the double capacity of representing the School Board and also the Apprenticeship Commission, and his function has been to bring the employer and employed together on this scheme of apprenticeship training.

I found conditions somewhat different from those prevailing in Boston, that is, so far as the Boston scheme can be said to have developed, and I am inclined to think the advantage of opportunity is with Boston. I had previously secured from Mr. Moran's office a complete course of study and series of lessons on carpentry, and I have now supplemented it with partial courses on painting and decorating, upholstering and electricity, which courses are either immediately contemplated or prospective in our own system.

Tuesday morning I went to the Ethical Culture School, where I had learned there was certain valuable equipment to be purchased at reasonable price. I carefully inspected this equipment, and arranged with one of the teachers, Mr. Richards, to fix upon a price for the whole outfit, crated and placed f. o. b. train for Boston. If I receive favorable figures the saving to us may be quite an item.

In the afternoon I visited Doctor Pritchett's Industrial School, and in the evening, in company with Mr. Moran, the Brooklyn Evening Trade School. Wednesday forenoon I spent at the Murray Hill Trade School, in the afternoon the Brooklyn Vocational School, and the evening again the Murray Hill Trade School, where the special evening classes were being conducted. In the evening I had the advantage of being shown about by Mr. Mahoney, who is associated with Mr. Moran.

While other things might have taken my attention I concentrated only upon those activities which were related to the special apprenticeship work like that which we are about to undertake.

By traveling Wednesday night I was able to spend a day and evening in Pittsburgh, Penn., where, under the conduct of Mr. Leavitt and Mr. Turner, I visited the Ralston Industrial School, a school that has had a wonderful development in numbers in the last few years, increasing from 68 in 1918-19 to 481 in 1922-23. Here again they were working upon the same problem of apprenticeship training, but it was interesting to note that the attitude of the parties concerned was very different from that which I found in New York, Cleveland or Boston, the most undesirable feature being that the unions were absolutely opposed to a single stroke of technical work being done by their apprentices.

Again by traveling at night I was able to give a whole day in Cleveland, where, to use contradictory terms, I found them conducting their evening class work in the daytime, and conducting it in a way that I would be glad to accept as a standard in Boston. There seemed to be great freedom from any troublesome restrictions, and the heartiest co-operation between employer, employed and the school authorities.

The Apprentice Commission here in Boston and the one in New York up to date had no course of study in bricklaying, a thing which I was most anxious to get. Through Mr. Briggs, director of vocational education, who gave me his entire time for the day, I learned of a brief course in bricklaying which could be secured from the Common Brick Manufacturers' Association of America, and I have sent for it. Mr. Briggs, however, has almost completed a course of his own which he allowed me to see. In the course of a few weeks it will be available, and I shall get a copy.

The securing of practical workable courses of study, including progressive lessons on the project plan, is one of the difficult things, and the acquisition of material of this kind was one of the many advantages of my trip.

It would be quite impossible for me to write out in full all of my observations, but perhaps this report is sufficient to indicate the extent of my contacts with the subject in hand.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM C. CRAWFORD,
Principal Boston Trade School.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 429.

The resignation of Patrolman Vincent M. James of Division 18 having been presented, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Monday, December 3, 1923, at 7.45 o'clock a. m., seven days' notice waived.

General Order No. 430.

A trial board consisting of Captains Grant, Goff and Walkins having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Dennis Kelleher of Division 2, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which the said Patrolman Dennis Kelleher was on November 30, 1923, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due notice with the reasons therefor was duly and specifically given in writing on November 30, 1923, to the said Dennis Kelleher.

General Order No. 431.

The Superintendent of Police is hereby directed to make the following details for duty at the city election in this city on Tuesday, December 11, 1923:

1. Three patrolmen for duty in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners, City Hall Annex, on arrival of ballots for city election at about 12 o'clock noon, Monday, December 10, 1923, such detail to continue until all ballots cast at the election have been returned.

2. An officer of rank above that of sergeant for duty at the City Hall Annex to supervise the police detail from 5.30 o'clock a. m. Tuesday, 11th inst., until relieved.

3. The necessary number of patrolmen from the several police divisions to attend the several polling places in this city on city election day, to preserve order and protect voters in the full exercise of their rights.

4. Two patrolmen from Division 18 to report at office of Board of Election Commissioners at 5 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, 11th inst., and there to receive ballot boxes, ballots and other paraphernalia required for the election in Ward 24, and deliver same on motor vehicle, furnished by the Election Commissioners, to the station house of Division 18.

5. Twenty-five sergeants, one to a motor vehicle, to report at office of the Election Commissioners, City Hall Annex, Court square, at 6 o'clock a. m. (excepting the sergeants for Wards 21 and 23, who will report at 5.30 o'clock a. m.), Tuesday, December 11, 1923, thence to proceed in such vehicle with ballot boxes, ballots, etc., to the several precincts in their respective wards (Ward 24, excepted), and deliver same to the police officer detailed in each precinct.

6. Nine patrolmen from Division 18, one patrolman from Division 19 and one patrolman from Division 17, to report at the station house of Division 18 at 6.30 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, December 11; thence to proceed in a motor vehicle to be provided for the purpose with the ballot boxes and other paraphernalia and distribute the same in the various precincts of Ward 24.

7. One patrolman to each of the 274 precincts to report at 7 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, December 11, to receive ballot boxes, etc., from sergeants detailed on motor trucks, in such cases provided; such detail to continue until the ballots are counted and the result declared.

They are then to bring the ballots and returns to the Election Commissioners' office.

8. Cards with the ward and precinct number and location of voting booth printed thereon have been forwarded to the several police divisions, on which the division commander will write the name, the division number, and the number of the officer detailed at 7 a. m., December 11, at the voting booth of each respective precinct on his division. This card, to be given to the officer so detailed at the voting booth, will be retained in his possession until delivered by him to an employee of the Board of Election Commissioners, who will arrive accompanying a sergeant on motor vehicle from the Election Commissioners' office on the morning of December 11, with ballot boxes, ballots, etc., as hereinbefore stated. This card, when returned by such employee to the office of the Election Commissioners will be its receipt that the ballot boxes, ballots, etc., have arrived at their proper destination.

9. In the case of Ward 24 such cards, after having been properly filled out by the division commander, will be given to the two patrolmen who are to report at the office of the Election Commissioners at 5 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, 11th inst., as herein stated, and are to be delivered by them to the Election Commissioners on receipt of the ballot boxes, ballots, etc.

10. On receipt by the patrolman from the sergeant, detailed on motor vehicle, as herein provided, of registering ballot box, voting lists and such other documents as may have been received from the Election Commissioners, the patrolman detailed at polling place will deliver same to the warden or clerk of the precinct, allowing no person to take or handle them before such delivery, and hand the key of the registering ballot box to the warden. On delivery of ballots to the warden, the patrolman will take from him a receipt for the ballots, which receipt will be returned to the Election Commissioners.

11. After the warden has opened the box and allowed the election officers and the public to see that it is empty, the box is to be again locked and the key given to the patrolman who is to retain it until after the polls have closed, except that, at the request of the warden, the patrolman may allow him to open the box for the purpose of pressing down the ballots in order to make room for more ballots, after which the patrolman will see that the box is again locked, and the key returned to the police officer.

12. The patrolman will obtain from the warden copies of poster, which will be sent to the latter, in relation to smoking and the use of liquor in polling places, and post same in conspicuous places where they may be easily read. Tacks will be sent for the purpose.

13. The warden will deliver to the patrolman detailed at the polling place for his use at that place a copy of the descriptive voting list, which must be returned to the warden at the close of the polls.

14. When the polls are opened, the patrolman will mark in the place indicated on the tag attached to the key the figures which the register shows before any ballots are cast.

15. At 8 p. m., Tuesday, December 11, when the polls close, one sergeant will report in each of the twenty-five wards (Ward 24 is excepted), to meet motor vehicle at last point of morning distribution; thence to proceed to each of the several precincts in his respective ward, and receive registering ballot box (which must be locked) and key thereof, (voting lists envelope, signed by the warden and other election officers, receipts for ballots, unused ballot envelope (containing unused and spoiled ballots), stamps for marking spoiled ballots, and receipts for ballots, carry them to the Election Commissioners' office and deliver same to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners.

16. When the polls are closed, the patrolman will mark on the same tag the figures which the register shows after all ballots have been cast. He will then hand the key to the warden, who will open the box and take out all the ballots to be sorted and counted. The warden will then cause the voting lists, including the list used by the police officer, to be sealed up in an envelope and the envelope certified by the signatures of himself and the other election officers, and the same returned to the Election Commissioners, as described in section 15 of this order. The patrolman will not allow this envelope to be put into the ballot box. The sergeant who will report on motor vehicle, will keep it about his person until delivery at the office of the Election Commissioners. The unused and spoiled ballots are then to be put in the envelope for unused ballots, and the envelope sealed and certified.

17. When returning from polls, all motor vehicles must drive to the easterly side of City Hall Annex, Court square, where ballot boxes will be conveyed by chute to the basement.

18. It is important that the patrolman sees that the voting lists envelope is signed by the warden, clerk and all the inspectors. The patrolman will also see that the special book for signatures of voters is returned in the registering ballot box.

19. In case a patrolman is detailed to relieve another after the close of the polls, the commanding officer will see that he is instructed as to the duty of bringing the official returns, the box of ballots cast, and the press return to the Election Commissioners' office as soon as they are delivered to him by the election officers.

20. When the ballots have all been counted, the ballots thus counted, tally sheets and nothing else, shall be placed by the warden in the leatheroid box sent for that purpose, which must be sealed up and signed by all the election officers. The patrolman will particularly see that this box is properly sealed up and that all the election officers have signed their names to the certificate on the box. The patrolman will then bring the box, official return, press return and stamps for marking defective ballots to the City Hall Annex, Court square, and deliver same to the Election Commissioners. The patrolman is directed not to allow the official return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box.

21. After the close of the polls, a vehicle, to be provided for the purpose, will be sent to the various precincts in Ward 24, to bring police officers with regular ballot boxes, unused ballots, etc., to the station house of Division 18, from which place only two police officers need accompany the motor vehicle with the regular ballot boxes, unused ballots etc., to the office of the Election Commissioners.

22. While the polls remain open, an officer of rank will visit the polling places in each division at stated intervals, to be designated by the captain, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer of the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division, the officer in charge will communicate immediately with headquarters.

23. Attention is called to the fact that the polls at the city election on Tuesday, December 11, shall open at 8 o'clock a. m. and close at 8 o'clock p. m.

24. Commanding officers of divisions will see that the officers detailed for duty on city election day are furnished with a copy of the circular issued by the Board of Election Commissioners, entitled "Instructions to Police Officers on . . . Election Days."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

MAYOR ACCEPTS PROFESSOR LEBON'S OFFER OF LIBRARY COLLECTION.

Mayor Curley received advices Wednesday evening, December 5, from Prof. Charles P. Lebon, 1460 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, who for a period of over thirty years was the professor of French at the English High School, stating that when he retired from the service of the Boston Public Schools he sincerely trusted that he should have the privilege of enjoying many years within the recesses of his library.

Within a comparatively short period of time after his retirement, Professor Lebon suffered a severe ocular trouble and which has deprived him of his eyesight. For many years Professor Lebon gathered a valued collection of books pertaining to the history of France, and as he is no longer able to read within his library, he advises Mayor Curley that he will be very pleased to make a gift of his collection to the Boston Public Library. Mayor Curley has advised Rt. Rev. Arthur T. Connolly, D. D., Monsignor, Rector of the Blessed Sacrament, Jamaica Plain, of Professor Lebon's courtesy in this splendid gift to the city, and has addressed the following communication to Professor Lebon:

"I am duly in receipt of your kind letter of the 4th instant advising that by reason of your deprivation of eyesight you will be very pleased to present a valued collection of books, especially pertaining to the history of France, to the Boston Public Library.

"I am deeply appreciative of the honor conveyed and have been very pleased to immediately advise Rt. Rev. Arthur T. Connolly, D. D., Monsignor, President of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library, of your courtesy in the premises.

"I sincerely trust that the coming holiday season may bring you a restoration to accustomed health, and greatly relieve the present burden of your failing sight.

"With many assurances of regard."

BEYOND MONUMENTS AND MEMORIES LIES IMMORTALITY FOR THOSE WHO SERVE MANKIND.

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY TELLS MEMBERS OF MELROSE LODGE OF ELKS IN ADDRESS ON SUNDAY, DECEMBER 2.

On Sunday, December 2, Mayor Curley delivered the following address before the Melrose Lodge of Elks:

To recall the memory of the dead, to speak of them with tenderness and affection, to recite the virtues and graces that marked them in life and in restoring the gifts that made them dear to us in the flesh and forgetting the weaknesses that are the inheritance of mankind, we are following the kindly tradition that has governed the race from the beginning of the world and observing a practice that has made life worth living and taken something from the sharpness of the sting of death.

Death is the inevitable complement of life; it is the law of creation. We come; we spend our little day; we go; and in a few years, despite the best of effort we are forgotten; and except for a name upon a crumbling stone in God's acre we pass out of memory. While yet memory is possible, before the dear ones that knew us in life have followed us into the country that lies beyond the portals of death, it is humanizing and spiritualizing to meet with others to recall them who have passed. We marvel at times at those creatures that are called the ephemera which are born with the sunrise, reach the full development of their powers and possibilities during their little day and have passed out of life with the daylight.

Whether our day be the twenty-four hours of the calendar, or the three score years and ten of the scripture, our lives at their best are ephemeral and though we seek a transitory immortality from kindly and reverent greetings like these in the end we are forgotten of men. And after all the kindest and sweetest service that heaven can give to earth and an immortal God can give to mortal man is forgetfulness, the gentle and merciful mantle that time weaves around the name and memory of him who steps out of life on earth into the glory and imperishability of the Elysian Fields, into the country of our God where there are neither riches nor poverty, sickness nor suffering, parting nor separation no more forever.

There are a beauty of spirit, a reality of hope and an assurance of immortality brought into the souls of those who at meetings such as these seek to keep green the memory of them they knew and loved in life and who stretch out their hands across the grave and call back for a moment the name and personality of a friend who has gone out on the long trail that leads to the Celestial City. When we gather in this fashion to recall and rename the dead, unconsciously we are affirming the belief that is in every human heart and confirming the faith that is in every human intelligence—that there is no such thing as death; that what we call death is merely a separation of kin and kind, one going before into an unexplored world, others remaining yet awhile here until the call comes. These gatherings are an evidence not only that we of the circle that was the dead man's in life will not forget him but will join him in that greater and nobler world that lies out here, the world "of endless bloom and life," where death is not.

This is the consolation that meetings like this bring to the bereaved ones, to the fathers and mothers, stricken by the incidence of pain and disease, and the pangs of separation and suffering—the power of death ends at the grave; the grim old reaper cannot go one step beyond that tenebrous of clay.

The gates of eternity and immortality that opens to the liberated soul that has shuffled off this mortal coil and thrown off the chains that bound it to sin and suffering are closed to death; he cannot enter into that glorious country of liberated souls where those we loved, whose name we speak today, await our coming at a later day.

These gatherings help to pluck the sting of death, to make valueless the victory of the grave, because they emphasize the life and glory that lie beyond our day, against which death and the grave war in vain.

We know that those who have walked the valley of the shadow have emerged upon the sunlit hills of Heaven and this knowledge comforts us and makes us ready to go forth in confidence when our call comes.

It is our duty while yet here to make our life worth living, to make it something of an inspiration to others, and to ourselves a training that can make death worth dying. Let us think of our departed ones as living and waiting for us beyond the shining river. Let us learn to think of death as a kindly guide who leads us out of life on earth and its penalties and pains into the life everlasting, with its joys perpetual and its loves and friendships unending.

Make your death memorable by making your life useful, honorable, helpful to your fellows, that when the hour of your going comes you may say:

"Let not my sinking

In dark be for naught, my death a vain thing.
God, let me know it the end of man's fever,
Make my last breath a bugle call, carrying Peace o'er the valleys and cold hills, forever."

There rests in beautiful Arlington a dead soldier whose identity is known to none but God. Above him a beautiful memorial lifts to heaven, and he sleeps in peace.

Two hundred years hence he will still be sleeping as peaceful and the world will still call him the unknown soldier. Yet most of us in that day will be sleeping in the brown earth, unknown as he is and forgotten as most of us will be; yet no monument can restore to him his identity and such restoration would mar the beauty and sentiment of the monument.

But beyond monuments and memories lies immortality where forgetfulness is not and love and remembrance are eternal.

EXTRA PAY FOR ELECTION OFFICERS.

Mayor Curley received the following letter on December 1 from the Board of Election Commissioners:

DEAR MR. MAYOR.—In reply to your letter of November 28 regarding vote of the City Council relating to extra pay of election officers at city election, December 11, 1923, the Board have carefully considered the matter, and feel that taking into consideration the usual small number of votes cast at city elections in the off years, and in the absence of any appropriations to pay for same, which will amount to $3,288, such an expense would not be justified; but acting under the direction of your Honor, we will include in the new budget a sum sufficient to pay $2 extra to all election officers for the four functions in 1924.

Respectfully yours,

M. H. BURLIN, Chairman.

CIVIL ENGINEERS DECEMBER 17, 1923.

These examinations are for the service of the state, all cities, and such towns as are classified under civil service.

Warning.—Many men fail in the civil engineering examination because they apply for grades for which they are not qualified. It is advisable, therefore, if there is any doubt about the quantity or quality of your experience, to take both the grade for which you think you are qualified and the next lower grade. If you should be found ineligible for the higher grade, you will still have an opportunity to be placed on the next lower grade.

Grade A.

Engineering assistants, drafting assistants, and rodmen, who perform under instruction and supervision elementary or apprentice work in the field or office.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade A if the salary is more than $720 a year or more than $1,200 a year.

Qualifications.—Applicants must have completed a high school course of not less than three years or must have had not less than one year of practical experience in field engineering or office work.

Grade B.

Senior engineering assistants, instrumentmen, and draftsmen (a) who assume responsibility for the execution of definite instructions in a minor division or section of engineering activity; or (b) who direct, under supervision, the operation of minor engineering projects.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade B if the salary is more than $1,800 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion, not less than one year of service in Grade A. If appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade A, at least two years of practical experience in engineering work of Grade A character and standard; or such training in civil engineering as is evidenced by a professional degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction at an institution or college of recognized standing; or the successful completion of not less than two years' study in such institution, plus one year's practical experience in engineering work.

(c) who operate a completed section of such a project; or (d) who make investigations of, and reports upon, such engineering projects as a basis for a report by an engineering superior.

It is prima facie evidence that a position in Class 27 is not in Grade C if the salary is more than $2,340 a year.

Qualifications.—If appointed by promotion within a department or major division thereof, not less than two years of service in Grade B, or, if appointed otherwise than by promotion from Grade B, within a department or major division thereof, at least five years of practical experience in engineering work, at least one half of which shall have been appropriate to the particular branch of engineering work covered by the position, provided that a degree granted on the completion of a standard course of instruction by an engineering school of recognized standing shall be accepted as the equivalent of three years of practical experience.

LABOR REPORT FOR NOVEMBER.

There was a very significant decline in business for the month of November, according to the figures of the Public Employment Office 23 and 25 Pearl street, when compared with the previous month and with November of last year.

The records show that 1,299 people were called for by employers, which is a decrease of 416, or 24 per cent, from October and a decrease of 191, or 14 per cent, from November a year ago. The number of positions reported filled was 1,116, a decrease of 263, or 19 per cent, from October and a decrease of 21, or 2 per cent, from last November.

The attendance of applicants for employment was not so heavy, the records showing 20,342 against 20,984 in October, a decrease of 642 or 4 per cent, while a year ago there were 20,120 applicants, an increase of 222, or 1 per cent.

In the men's skilled department there has been a fair demand for carpenters and painters which was easily met and the few calls for plumbers were filled after some delay. There was a fairly good demand for engineers and firemen which was promptly filled. The printing industry was quiet throughout the month and the few two thirds compositors, pressmen and feeders called for, were quickly supplied. The metal trades were dull with only an occasional call for machinists, which was filled at once. The general trades also were very quiet.

In the men's unskilled department there was no particular demand for help in any one line. The hotels and restaurants were easily able to fill their vacancies through our office. The demand for boys for errands, office and factory work fell off considerably and the supply far exceeds the demand.

In the women's skilled department business has been slow and there has been no special demand for any specific trade. Waitresses, chambermaids and other hotel and restaurant help have been plentiful with practically no call for their services. The demand for factory help and power stitchers remains poor with only a fair supply of experienced help applying.

The demand for day workers and cleaners in the women's unskilled department has been good and has been easily filled. Housework girls continue to be at a premium and the demand far exceeds the supply.

The number of people called for by employers was 1,299 as compared with 1,460 in 1922; 1,021 in 1921; 1,353 in 1920, and 2,410 in 1919.

The number of positions reported filled was 1,116 as compared with 1,137 in 1922; 834 in 1921; 973 in 1920 and 1,280 in 1919.

APPROPRIATION FOR PROBATE COURT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 26, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the attached communication from the Register of the Probate Court, requesting an additional appropriation of $1,300, and I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Suffolk County,
Probate Court and Court of Insolvency,
November 22, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I hereby respectfully ask that this department be allowed the sum of $1,300 from the Reserve Fund to provide for a deficit in the appropriation allowed this department for Items 13 and 29 in Group B of the budget. In the matter of Item 13, telephone service, the sum of $100 is needed, the deficit being due to a change in our system and an extra telephone supplied for the commitment clerk. This latter, however, I understand is to be taken care of next year under a different appropriation.

In the matter of Item 29, court stenographer, there will be a substantial deficit due to the divorce, which now come under our jurisdiction by a change in the law this year, and the sum of $1,200 is asked for this item. I do not anticipate that there will be any surplus in any of the other items in the budget appropriations for this department.

Yours very truly,
FRANK L. BRIER,
Register.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to transfer:

From the appropriation for Reserve Fund, $1,300, to the appropriation for Probate Court, B-13, Communication, $100; B-29, Stenographic, Copying and Indexing, $1,200.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ORDINANCE CONCERNING STATISTICS DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 23, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The untimely death of the former chairman of the Statistics Trustees, who had rendered such exceptional service to the city for so many years without compensation, results in the creation of a vacancy that renders it expedient that compensation be provided for whoever may be designated to serve as chairman. In order that the city may enjoy the benefit of full-time service from the incumbent of the position.

To that end I recommend the adoption of the accompanying amendment to the City Ordinances.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-three.
An Ordinance Concerning the Statistics Department.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. Chapter thirty-three of the Revised Ordinances of 1914 as amended by Ordinance No. 1514 of the City Council of 1922, is hereby further amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following:

"Section 1. The statistics department shall be under the charge of a board of five trustees, who shall collect, compile and publish such statistics relating to the city of Boston, and such statistics of other cities for the purposes of comparison as they may deem of public importance. The board shall collect, compile and furnish such other statistical information as may be required from time to time by the mayor or by the city council. The chairman of the board shall be designated by the mayor."

Sec. 2. Section five of chapter three of the Revised Ordinances of 1914 is hereby amended by inserting the following words:

"The statistics trustees, the chairman, thirty-five hundred dollars."

Sec. 3. Section two of chapter six of the Ordinances of 1923 is hereby repealed.

DISPOSITION OF LAND, SEAVER STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 26, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith opinion of the Law Department and recommendation for order of the Park Department relative to the disposition of certain land on Seaver street and respectfully recommend the adoption of the order as submitted.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, November 24, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Honored Sir,—I return to you herewith draft of an order for the sale of a certain strip of land bordering on Seaver street upon its northeast side, adjacent to the property of Anna Rivitz. This is the last remaining parcel out of that irregular shaped strip of land, resulting from the lay-out of Seaver street and the other parcels have been sold to persons owning land abutting upon the several parcels in this strip, as the same are indicated upon plan of the Park Commissioners made in 1896 by William Jackson, City Engineer. These parcels were all sold under the special authority given to the Park Commissioners of the City of Boston by chapter 411, Acts of 1896. The instant parcel you will note from an inspection of the plan herewith inclosed is contiguous to land indicated as the property of Elizabeth E. Stevens, which is now owned by Anna Rivitz, who also owns an adjoining strip which I have marked in pencil as "X".

The consideration for this transfer mentioned in the accompanying order is comparable, I am informed, to what has been paid in other similar transfers made out of the Seaver street parcel.

Yours respectfully,
E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

City of Boston,
Park Department, October 11, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

CITY FINANCIAL DEPOSITS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 20, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The City Treasurer is of the opinion that the city would gain in the matter of income from the interests on deposits, provided those deposits were more advantageously placed, and in his opinion this can be accomplished through the adoption of the accompanying amendment to the ordinances.

I accordingly recommend approval of the same by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section one of chapter thirty-six of the Revised Ordinances of 1914 as amended by Ordinance No. 1514 of the City Council of 1922, is hereby further amended by striking out in the twenty-first line the word "fifty" and inserting in place thereof the word "sixty".

SALE OF CITY PROPERTY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 26, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Municipal Real Estate Expert has submitted to me a list of various properties owned by the City of Boston which cannot be utilized to the advantage by the municipality and which, in my opinion, it is advisable to sell.

I report relative to each lot recommended for sale, together with a communication from the department head in whose care and custody the property now rests, is herewith appended in addition to the estimated value as submitted by the Municipal Real Estate Expert.

Unquestionably it would be possible to secure a larger return for the city through a private sale of certain of these properties, but, in my opinion, the interests of the city are best conserved through the sale at public auction, and, regardless of estimated valuations, I believe that the upset price should be based on the average valuation for a period of five years prior to the time of sale.

I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying orders.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

USE OF CITY MONEY FOR COUNTY PURPOSES.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—that the Corporation Counsel be requested to inform the City Council whether or not the City Auditor has the right to use money raised by taxation for city purposes for the payment of county expenses.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, my order is in connection with the proposition about which we had some controversy a few weeks ago, relative to the city paying the salaries of the county officers who have been appointed for the new court. My contention then was that unless the City Council appropriated the money to provide for the payment of those salaries the City Auditor or the City Treasurer had no right to pay them. I have been informed since then that the City Auditor and the City Treasurer have been advised by the Law Department that they should pay these moneys. The point I raise is this: There is a certain amount of money raised by taxation for city purposes, and there is also a certain amount of money raised by taxation for county expenses. My understanding of the situation is that money which is provided for the Reserve Fund comes from the money which is raised by taxation for city purposes, and I contend that no payment of county expenses can be made out of money which has been appropriated through the levying of taxes for city purposes. This money is money which is provided for the Reserve Fund, city money, and is being paid for county expenses. I would like to get a ruling from the Law Department as to whether or not they have a right to pay county salaries and expenses out of money which has been raised for city purposes. I do not believe they have.

The order was passed.

SIDEWALK, TREMONT STREET, WARD 26.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—that the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Nos. 24, 26 and 28 Tremont street, Brighton, Ward 26, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under a suspension of the rules.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. DONOGHUE moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

PLAQUES OF FORMER MAYORS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, November 26, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The order adopted by your honorable body under date of October 8, 1923, providing for the presentation to each of the living ex-Mayors the plaque portrait formerly hung in the Mayor's office, and the order placing to the next of kin in each case, was not signed by me and became legal so far as the adoption of the order was concerned through the lapse of the fifteen days required by statute.

I have conferred with the Corporation Counsel relative to the legality of disposing of city property by the City Council without compensation therefor. In the opinion of the Corporation Counsel it is not legal to dispose of city property without reasonable and proper compensation.

I personally believe, because of the questionable value of the plaques, either from an artistic standpoint or otherwise, to any but the immediate relatives of the particular person whom they are supposed to represent, that it would be advisable to rescind the order adopted by the Council and, in the event that a new order is presented, make provision for the payment of a nominal sum to the city, the amount of such payment to be determined upon by the City Council.

The opinion of the Corporation Counsel is herewith appended.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ABSENTEE VOTING AT STATE ELECTIONS.

By Chapter 289, General Acts of 1919, any registered voter absent from home at election time may vote by mailing an "official absentee voting ballot" previously applied for and obtained from the Election Commissioners, to the latter so as to be received before the polls close. Said ballot must be marked by the voter privately but within the observation of an official authorized to administer oaths, and of no other person, in a municipality which is separated by at least two municipalities from that in which he is registered. The voter must make affidavit before said official, enclose ballot in official envelope and mail same on or before day of election.

Of 868 Absentee ballots mailed to Election Dept., on or before Nov. 2, 1920, 570 were counted, 10 were rejected and 288 were uncounted because not received until after closing of polls.

NATIVES AND CITIZENS OF BOSTON AND VICINITY HONORED IN HALL OF FAME.

In the American Hall of Fame, New York City, dedicated in 1901, are inscribed on bronze tablets the names of 56 eminent men and 7 distinguished women deemed worthy of the highest honor on account of their services and attainments. Of the 63 individuals thus selected (up to 1920 inclusive) by an electorate of 100 leading Americans, 27 were natives or for some time citizens of Boston or vicinity. The names of the latter are as follows: Chosen in 1900—John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, William Ellery Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Daniel Webster, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Horace Mann, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Samuel Finley Breese Moore, Joseph Story, Asa Gray, Gilbert Stuart—total, 13.

Chosen, in 1910—Edgar Allan Poe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, George Bancroft, John Lotthrop Motley, Phillips Brooks—total, 5.

Chosen in 1915—Louis Agassiz, Francis Parkman, Rufus Choate, Charlotte Cushman—total, 4.

Chosen in 1920—William Thomas Green Morton, Alice Freeman Palmer. Five additional names every fifth year are to be selected and inscribed until the year 2,000, when the 150 tablets in the colonnade will be complete.

If those who were natives or residents elsewhere in the State are added to the list, the following 7 names increase the total to 34 for Massachusetts or more than half the whole number, viz.: William Cullen Bryant, Jonathan Edwards, Mark Hopkins, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney, Maria Mitchell, Mary Lyon.

If all New England is included, 4 more names will bring up the total to 38 or 60.3 per cent of whole number chosen, viz.: Roger Williams, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emma Willard.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 443, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 436, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor which licensees claimed the right to sell was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

PUBLIC STREETS IN BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (acpected) streets, February 1, 1922, 606.33 miles; total area, 11,459,009 square yards, or 8.47 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,890. 366.10 miles, or 60.38 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 128.03 miles bituminous macadam); 105.66 miles with granite block; 45.50 miles with asphalt; 29.32 miles with gravel; 36.63 miles with asphalt concrete (17.55 m. being bitulithic and 13.71 m. Topoka); 11.69 miles with wood block; 5.42 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., $5,138,678 having been expended during the past four years in reconstructing and improving 313 miles of streets and parts of streets. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1921, 97,049 square yards or about 21 miles, averaging 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1918-1921 includes 13 streets in Boston Proper; 34 in Dorchester; 37 in West Roxbury; 14 in Roxbury; 24 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 3 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic, or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1922, for all street construction, including damages, $22,267,141 or $925,700 more than in 1921, this increase due to new loan for Stuart St. construction.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

NEW HUGH O'BRIEN SCHOOL TO BE COMPLETED EARLY IN 1924.

THIS ADDITION TO BOSTON'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM, IN THE ROXBURY DISTRICT, AT A COST OF $225,000, WILL BE OF HUGE BENEFIT TO DISTRICT.

NEW $225,000 HUGH O'BRIEN SCHOOL TO BE COMPLETED IN ROXBURY DISTRICT IN 1924.

By the opening of the next school year, according to plans being worked out by the Schoolhouse Commission, Boston will be provided with new and up-to-date school buildings that will very nearly provide room and accommodations for every child in the city.

One of the newest additions that will be ready next fall will be the Hugh O'Brien School on Shirley street, Roxbury, in the Hugh O'Brien District. This is a twelve-room building to be used for elementary grades. It is modern in every way with first-class fireproof construction throughout. It will be ready for occupancy about April, 1924, since it is fast nearing completion now. The structure is to cost approximately $225,000. Mulhall and Holmes are the architects.

With a sincere wish that God may give you the strength and health and determination to render a like service for another half century I am sending you in addition to the "Key to the City" a patriotic bouquet, emblematic of America's national colors and as fragrant with God's choicest perfumes as your service has been beneficial in alleviating the pain and suffering of the unfortunate of our city.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

HENRY JAMES BUST AT PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Boston Public Library has recently received by gift from the sculptor, Francis Derwent Wood, R.A., an exquisite marble bust of Henry James. It was offered through Mr. John S. Sargent, who commissioned the work in 1914, and who considers the bust a fine piece of portraiture. In 1917 Mr. Kington Parks of Chelsea, England, wrote to the trustees offering the bust as a gift from Americans in London and English admirers of Henry James, if it should be subscribed for; apparently the required amount was not secured, for the project never came to anything. In the spring of this year Mr. Sargent opened the offer again, saying that Mr. Wood was willing to present the bust to the Boston Public Library. At their meeting of October 26, the trustees renewed their vote of acceptance, which was communicated to Mr. Wood. The bust has been received and placed in the trustees' room until a location shall be made ready for it elsewhere.

A marble copy of the bust was bought by the Chantry trustees and placed in the National Gallery of British Art, Millbank, London, and a bronze replica, subscribed for by residents of Chelsea, neighbors of Henry James, is in the Chelsea Public Library. Mr. Woods writes of it, "The bust took exactly thirteen hours to complete and it was at the instigation of Henry James that I ceased working on it. I may say that he himself and his friends considered it an excellent likeness. . . . I thought your great library might like to possess a portrait of one of the finest minds your country has to be proud of—hence my gift." The bust is said to be "the most remarkable presentation of the famous novelist and sociologist . . . The detail of the work is perfect, the general effect complete and satisfying."

MAYOR CURLEY ANNOUNCES PLATFORM FOR GOVERNORSHIP CAMPAIGN IN 1924.

IN RINGING SPEECH BEFORE 12-13-21 CLUB AT YOUNG'S HOTEL HE CALLS FOR MANY NEEDED REFORMS IN STATE MANAGEMENT.

Mayor Curley at the annual dinner of the 21-12-21 Club at Young's Hotel on December 13 announced the platform on which he will base his candidacy for Governor in 1924. It follows:

I favor an administrative program that will provide, first, justice to capital and labor. Absolute equality for both; second, reorganization of the passenger and freight service of our steam railroads to secure efficiency and economy in their administration and to lighten the burden of our industries, too frequently sacrificed to political aims and ends; third, money for permanent roadways, not a penny for political highways; fourth, an agricultural credit system which will give the farmer loans on terms that represent a low rate of interest and enable him to equip his farm with the power and machinery essential to its successful operation; fifth, the development of our commercial facilities; and sixth, generous treatment of all state wards.

The most insidious organization that America has known during the existence of the republic, the Ku Klux Klan, is happily no longer a menace to the development of friendly relations among the people of our country. The failure of this organization may properly be traced to the inherent respect that all Americans have in common for the fundamental guaranty of equality as set forth in the Constitution of the United States. It threatened, however, for a time to create a division because of the accident of birth, which invariably determines not only race and color but the creed of the individual.

The belief upon the part of the American republic is gradually crystallizing in favor of the elimination of race, creed and color as essentials to the progress or the estoppel of the individual and rather believing that character and devotion to the institutions of America should be the only essential considered. In common with other Americans I had sincerely hoped that the passing of the Ku Klux Klan in the life of the nation might mark the end of movements which serve solely to divide man against man and to prevent the development of that co-operation and unity so necessary for the well-being of all. It is not unreasonable to assume that the position taken last evening by the Employers' Association of Eastern Massachusetts, an organization which it is reasonable to suppose represents education, training and the power that comes through wealth, was predicated upon the assumption that the recent message of the Republican party properly construed was a declaration of war against labor and the bugle call for the assembly of capital to begin the assault.

I cannot conceive by what application of logic the Employers' Association of Eastern Massachusetts can justify the belief that it was either the intent or purpose of the Republican party to openly declare war on organized labor. The experience of a former president of the United States in his endeavors to dictate the leaders and the policies of the American Federation of Labor were of such recent occurrence as to be fresh in the memory of every individual. The humiliation suffered in the attempt to supplant the present able leader of the American Federation of Labor in America, Samuel Gompers, with Mr. Lewis, merited the rebuff and rejection which it received at the hands of organized labor and in view of that fact it would scarcely appear the part of wisdom for another President to attempt a similar course of action.

I cannot believe that the American public are prepared to restore the old divine right theory, the old world ideal, that the right of the state should be paramount to the right or welfare of the individual. The history of America is the story of a people through whose idealism and sacrifice the frontier has been extended from Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate, and from the Mexican border to the Canadian line. The spirit of self-reliance that made possible the discovery of America, the signing of the "Mayflower" compact, the winning of American liberty under Washington, the preservation of that liberty under Lincoln, and the defence of that liberty under Woodrow Wilson is too sacred an institution in the life of the American people and the American nation to permit an assault to remain unanswered or unchallenged. If it is the purpose of those interests responsible for the recently coined political slogan "Coolidge and Capitalism" to seek the destruction of organized labor in America, then it becomes the duty of every lover of justice and American unity to combat this spirit of reaction.

The establishment of humane conditions in industry in America in all probability would have been long delayed were it not for the monumental character of service rendered by the American Federation of Labor. Through the instrumentality of this great force in the life of America the eight-hour day with its opportunity and promise of a little more enjoyment in the home and added opportunity for the increase of knowledge was substituted for the twelve-hour day. The spectacle of a president of the United States pleading in the name of the United Churchmen of America to the powerful steel interests to discontinue an industrial feudal system represented by a twelve-hour day in the steel industry, and such as formerly obtained in every industry, was an abhorrent as the demands now made by the Employers Association of Eastern Massachusetts that organized labor be destroyed.

The Workmen's Compensation Act, with its guaranty of protection to the dependents of the toiler made possible through organized labor, can best be conserved through the perpetuation of organized labor that industrial leaders now seek to destroy.

The Mother's Aid Act adopted in this Commonwealth in 1913 represents the development of a humanitarian spirit supplemented by the intelligence of organized labor during a period of 130 years. It seems inconceivable that any individual or group of individuals would be so blinded by the lure of power which is but another work for money to declare war against such a necessary force for the good of America and its people. We protest against the failure to enact a child labor law that will stand the test of the Supreme Court of the United States and yet despite the knowledge that the exploitation of children in industry constitutes not only a menace to the future womanhood and manhood of America but a menace to the industries in the more progressive and humane states like Massachusetts, I have never known a single instance where capital has extended aid to the only force in America today seeking the enactment of a law in each state of the Union for the protection of the most necessary essential in the republic, a sturdy, healthy womanhood and manhood.

The establishment of what has been termed the saving wage in America was only possible as a consequence of the exigencies of the World War draining the youth of the nation, thereby creating temporarily a shortage which resulted in the blessing of a premium for the creative source of all wealth, they who toil with hands and brain. The saving wage in America maintained for a quarter of a century means a more intelligent America, a more healthful America, a more patriotic America, a more useful America, and it means a fruition of the pledge of equality of opportunity, the cornerstone of the American experiment in government. Who seeks to destroy this institution is the friend of the old order at heart and believer and supporter of the exploded theory of class and caste.

I realize that capital is entitled to justice, but not more and that labor should enjoy every right that is enjoyed or exercised by capital. We have experienced a practical demonstration of the value of cooperation between employer and employee in the agreement signed more than a year ago between the Building Trades Employers and Employees of Greater Boston through which industrial peace and constructive progress has been enjoyed to the fullest measure by the parties to the agreement. The benefits resulting to the parties at interest have been reflected, shared and enjoyed by the entire community. John Boyle O'Reilly has epitomized the progress of organized labor under intelligent leadership in the short lines:

"A nation's greatness lies in men not acres,
One master mind is worth a million hands."

The emancipation of the worker presents the most harrowing story ever unfolded in the world's history. Every reform enjoyed today by the worker is stained with tears and sorrows and in many cases the blood of those who considered no sacrifice too great in the achievement of benefits that might serve as a blessing to posterity. If the program as outlined by the Employers Association of Eastern Massachusetts may be construed as Republican doctrine I accept the issue as a challenge and if chosen as the standard bearer of the Democratic party in this Commonwealth, I shall with the aid of the liberal and progressive citizenship of Massachusetts carry the banner and principles it typifies to victory.

STATISTICS DEPARTMENT.

Boston, December 5, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested for the following transfers in the appropriations for City Record, Publication of:

(1) From the appropriation for B-42, Distribution of Publications, $25, to the appropriation for D-1, Office Supplies, $25.

Owing to unforeseen expenditures under D-1, the appropriation is exhausted, but additional supplies are indispensable.

(2) From the appropriation for B-42, Distribution of Publications, $55, to the appropriation for B-2, Postage, $55.

At present there is a balance of $5.12 under B-2, this being insufficient to cover the increasing postage bills during remainder of current year.

Yours respectfully,

F. M. RUGG,
Acting Chairman.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 11, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Permission is respectfully requested to make the following transfers:

From the appropriation for B-2, Postage, $340; B-3, Advertising and Posting, $200; D-1, Office Supplies, $200; to the appropriation for B-14, Motor Vehicle Repairs, $500; C-1, Motor Vehicle Equipment, $65; D-1, Motor Vehicle Supplies, $175.

The transfer to B-14, Motor Vehicle Repairs, is due to the fact that the Supply Department automobile has been in constant use by this department for over a year without overhauling, and it was found when said overhauling was made that the cost of putting it in proper shape, painting same, and supplying new parts would be approximately $500.

The transfer to C-4, Motor Vehicle Equipment, is due to the fact that the extremely hard going during the past winter lowered the mileage that was estimated and made necessary the purchase of two extra tires and tubes.

The transfer to D-11, Motor Vehicle Supplies, is made necessary because of the great increase in the number of inspections made by this department of materials purchased.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

The transfer of $295.38 from A-2 represents unused compensation for a Temporary Assistant Clerk, 30 days, $210.90, and unused compensation for a Temporary Second Assistant Clerk, 15 days, $84.48. I made no appointment and did the work myself.

The transfer to C-9 is necessary to pay for the manufacture and decoration of three constable's staves for the court rooms. The Building Department ought to have furnished these as a part of the original equipment for the new courthouse but refused to do so.

Transfers to D-1 are for necessary stationery and for printing for immediate use much of which ought to have been done years ago.

These increases to be effective as of December 1, 1923.

I understand that we are well within our appropriation for the year, and the extra sums needed for the increases may be found in other items of the budget. I would request that a sufficient amount be transferred from A-2, Judge, Appellate Division, to A-1, Clerk, Probation Office, to cover increases.

Yours truly,

MAYOR DETERMINED CITY WON'T SUFFER SNOW CONDITIONS OF 1922-23 AGAIN THIS WINTER.

UPHOLDS COMMISSIONER ROURKE IN REMOVAL CONTRACTS AGAINST RECOMMENDATIONS OF FINANCE COMMISSION AND CRITICISMS OF AWARDS.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication on December 11 relative to snow removal contracts:

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman, Finance Commission, Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge receipt at 5.15 p. m. this day of a communication from the Finance Commission relative to snow removal.

I have conferred with the Commissioner of Public Works and, while he is in agreement with the Finance Commission on general principles as to the merit of the suggestion that not more than one district be awarded to any one contractor, he nevertheless believes that the experience of the winter 1922-23 justifies the selection of what, in his opinion, is the most dependable firm to perform this particular work.

The Commissioner of Public Works is in agreement with recommendation No. 2 of the Finance Commission, but is of the opinion that the character and standing of the contractor upon work of this nature should be the determining factor in the making of an award unless the bid submitted appeared unduly excessive.

The soundness of the commissioner's contention with reference to awarding to reputable and responsible contractors was demonstrated during the past winter in the case of contractors who found it impossible to fulfill their contracts without losses due to labor shortage and excessive wage scale thereby rendering it necessary to seek the aid of the Transit Commission. The Transit Commission was required to furnish 300 men and equipment to assist in the removal of ice and snow in a district where the award last year had been made to the lowest bidder. It is not my purpose that a similar condition shall be permitted to obtain this year provided it is possible to guard against it.

The Commissioner of Public Works informs me that the data relative to snow removal last year in the possession of the Public Works Department, upon request, was immediately furnished the Finance Commission about a week ago, thereby affording opportunity for such investigation and study as might be helpful in the drafting of a report. It would appear that with this data in the possession of the Finance Commission a decision might be reached as a consequence of which the signing of the contracts might have been delayed as requested in the report received this day.

Personally, it is my opinion that the best interests of the city, both from the standpoint of public convenience and business, require that the accumulation of snow and ice upon the streets of the city be removed in the shortest possible period of time.

There is no way in which one can justify the award of contracts of this character other than to reputable and responsible bidders and the selection made by the Commissioner of Public Works, he informs me, has been based upon these considerations. Such being the case, I concurred in his judgment and signed the contracts on Saturday last.

The winter of 1922-23 found the Public Works Department of the City of Boston in a precarious condition as far as snow removal was concerned. When the present commissioner was appointed in 1922, the actual equipment consisted of three snow plows, a few horse-drawn scrapers and one tractor. In July of the present year, I approved the purchase of fifty snow plows which have been delivered and are available for use.

During the present year the Public Works Department has purchased nine motor vehicles to be used on snow removal, two snow loaders and one tractor, and has developed an organization competent to handle the snow removal equipment purchased by the city.

It is impossible to estimate the financial loss sustained by the business houses of Boston due to the lack of equipment and the delay in the removal of ice and snow during last winter. It was estimated in the city of New York that the losses to business houses during the winter of 1920 were in the vicinity of sixty million dollars and, as a consequence, in order that a similar condition might not again obtain, the city of New York expended for snow equipment some two million dollars. The wisdom of the step taken by New York has been emphasized during the last two years.

I trust that the City of Boston at the close of the present winter will have been sufficiently successful in the matter of expeditious snow removal through the installation of modern snow removal equipment by the Public Works Department and the award of contracts to reputable and responsible contractors, even though the price in the opinion of the Finance Commission may be slightly in excess of what they deemed it should be, to merit the approval of the public and the business houses whose profit or loss during the winter season is in some measure regulated by the convenience or inconvenience suffered by their patrons.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Concerning the snow removal contracts the Finance Commission wrote as follows:

The Finance Commission calls your Honor's attention to circumstances connected with the award of contracts by the Commissioner of Public Works for the removal of snow and ice from the city's streets during the winter of 1923-24.

The area from which the snow is to be removed is roughly bounded by the various waterfronts and Massachusetts avenue, except that the area south of Massachusetts avenue, between the Charles river and the Fens is included, and also an area in the Summer street wool district in South Boston.

The total area has been divided into ten small districts. The theory on which this subdivision was made is in order that the greatest possible number of contractors may be employed without interfering with each other, and the work of clearing away the snow may be done in the shortest possible time.

Bids were opened on Monday, November 26, and twenty-one bidders took part in the competition. All, except possibly two or three, are experienced and responsible contractors who have done acceptable work for the city, and at least twelve have had contracts for snow removal in previous years. These contractors on account of their previous experience, are well acquainted with the character of the work to be done and the cost of doing it.

Notwithstanding the opportunity offered for selecting a responsible contractor for each district (and at the same time saving money for the city), the entire work for the ten districts has been divided between six contractors, none of whom were the lowest bidders:

There has been no increase in the price of operating auto trucks during the past three years that would warrant the increase. In fact, at the present time, due to the low price of gasoline, the cost of operating such vehicles is materially lower than for the two previous years. Neither has there been any material increase in wages. Therefore, the reason for the remarkable increases in cost must be looked for elsewhere.

Such information as the Finance Commission has at hand regarding the cost of snow removal for the season 1922-23 indicates that there was no financial loss to the contractors, but rather that the contracts were exceedingly profitable.

Examination of the bids also shows that individual contractors submitted different prices for adjoining districts, for which there was no apparent reason. This peculiarity runs through the entire schedule of bids.

After consideration of the facts already known and herein outlined, the Finance Commission recommends:

1. That your Honor withhold your approval of the contracts until the Commissioner of Public Works accounts for the increase in the bids submitted this year over each of the two prior seasons.

2. That the Public Works Department keep accurate accounts of the cost of snow removal to the contractor for use in determining the reasonableness of future bids for snow removal.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

On December 28, 1914, the City Council enacted as an Ordinance, by vote of 6 to 3, the plan submitted by its Committee on Redivision of Wards. This plan describes the new boundaries of the 26 wards. (See Municipal Register for 1921, pages 196-207.) The changes effected by the redivision of wards were mainly these, viz., Wards 1 and 2, East Boston, are divided by Prescott and Princeton streets instead of as before; Charlestown has two wards (3 and 4) instead of three; Ward 5 covers the old Wards 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6 in place of old Ward 9; Ward 7 in place of old 10; Ward 8 in place of old 11; Wards 9 and 10 cover the old South Boston Wards 13, 14 and 15 mostly; Ward 11 takes in the northern half of old Ward 16 and western end of old Ward 15; Ward 12 is similar to old Ward 17 and Ward 13 to old 18; Ward 14 includes old Ward 19 and adjacent part of old Ward 22 (as far as Perkins and Centre streets); Wards 15 and 16 cover old Ward 21 and the northern part of 22 (as far as Boylston street); Wards 17, 18 and 19 cover that part of old Ward 16 south of Dudley street and all of old Ward 20; Wards 20 and 21 cover the eastern half and western half respectively of old Ward 24 (as far as Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street); Ward 22 includes the southern half of old 22 below Boviston street and the northern end of old Ward 23 to Whipple avenue, Walk Hill, South and Allandale streets; Ward 23 is unchanged except as to its northern boundary just stated, and Ward 24 takes in Mount Hope section east of railroad, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Wards 25 and 26 cover the southern half and northern half respectively of old Ward 25, Brighton.

URGES ADOPTION OF MEASURES FOR LIFTING BURDEN OF TAXES FROM REAL ESTATE.

CHAIRMAN EDWARD T. KELLY OF THE BOARD OF ASSESSORS MAKES IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS BEFORE MEMBERS OF MAYOR'S CLUB AT YOUNG'S HOTEL.

Address of Chairman Edward T. Kelly of the Assessing Department before the meeting of the Mayors' Club, Young's Hotel, Saturday, December 8, 1923.

Gentlemen, it is with some reluctance that I attempt to come over and make any suggestions in the way of tax matters on new sources of revenue. I feel a good deal as a girl who used to work for us and who started to get married. We advised her not to, she had a pretty good home, and we pictured the dark side of getting married, but she said, "Please God I'll try it anyway," so I will go ahead and do the best I can.

I think it is generally conceded that the difficulties we are working under are because the real estate is bearing so large a burden of taxation, and that appears to be the general opinion not only in the East but throughout the country, and it is the view of the assessors and the taxation authorities generally to relieve that burden. After some attempt at finding ways and means of getting revenue other than from direct taxation, I think the opinion has been expressed that the means other than from property itself, and the revenue from the income taxes as now levied, would be small. There have been special taxes that have been levied in various ways, but I believe the large increase which must be had would come from the old form of personal taxes, or its present successor, the income tax.

I have several sets of figures that relate largely to Boston, but I am using them only in a general way, and I believe the principle would apply to about all the cities of the Commonwealth. In some cases I have figures which relate to the state as a whole, but generally speaking they are Boston figures.

I want to submit to you the Boston figures of the amount to be raised by taxation for 1916, $28,000,000 as against $45,000,000 in 1923. Of that the state had $3,500,000 in 1916, and it is now about $5,000,000. The increase in cost of government between the period when the income tax was first introduced and now has been substantial, and most of that burden has been thrown on real estate. The income tax produced the highest year for Boston in the way of return about $4,500,000. In 1923 we got back from the state $2,600,000, including the amount that came on account of schools, which makes the total $3,300,000 as against $4,400,000 the highest year, and $3,700,000 the first year of the income tax. The amount that is now coming back from the income tax to the City of Boston is less than it was the first year of its adoption. It ought to be apparent that there should be a change in the rates because we believe that it is generally felt that incomes have increased and the amount that is being returned should be greater than in 1917. I have the figures for the state. The amount derived from real estate in 1923 is $38,000,000, personal about $3,900,000. In 1916, the figures were $22,783,000 real estate, $5,854,000 personal. This leads me to suggest that there seems to be but one way of correcting this, an increase in rate in intangibles from 6 per cent to 10 per cent. It was hoped that by the introduction of a low rate that the income tax might be enacted, and it was enacted largely because that was used as an argument, and suggestion was made that if it was found to be too low it might be increased. Where we had formerly taxed personal property, and where during the war period as personal property holdings increased, we have not received from the income tax the amount that it appears we should have received if we had been taxing the personal property as we did before 1916. I believe much of the loss is due to the net income tax. I have heard it said generally that it is common to figure "How much can we get away with," and then attempt to charge up the various deductions. I believe the thought is worth expressing that a gross income tax has much more merit than the net, but an increase in the rate in my opinion ought to be made. You could get the support of most of the real estate holders. A bill has been prepared to that effect, went in last year, but didn't meet with a happy reception, but will be presented again to the Legislature. The question of the disposition of that money and the money from the corporation taxes I would like to talk about later.

I think we have accomplished a great deal through his Honor in having the present law relative to the banks put upon the statute books. I understand the Tax Commissioner has prepared a bill on the banks that he hopes may produce some more revenue than the present law is producing. It will interest you to know that some of the banks are not paying the taxes that we hoped they might under the present law, and some are paying more than we expected. We thought when this law was enacted that about 45 or 50 per cent might come back. Some of the banks show that proportion, and some of them show very much less, and some of them show nothing. The list of the Boston banks was rather interesting. I will call off the amounts paid last year by these banks in total to the City of Boston, part of which of course was kept by us because the shareholders resided here, and the other part was turned over to the state for distribution.

Boston National Bank, $4,200; this year $76.

Back Bay, last year $2,964; they are out of business this year.

Bovlston National, $22,000 last year; $1,100 this year.

Citizens National, $15,000; $428 this year.

Commercial and Security: they combined, but they paid $10,000 and $7,000 respectively last year; this year the consolidated banks paid $2,200.

The First National paid $931,000; this year $268,000, somewhat nearer the proportion that we had hoped.

Fourth Atlantic, $116,000; $31,000 this year.

The Mattapan has elected to be taxed by the assessors of Boston, as the banks had the right, and there was no tax; $940 was the amount last year, no tax this year.

The National Rockland, $22,000 last year; $2,700 this year.

National Shawmut, $437,250 last year; this year $69.75.

The National Union, $48,000; this year nothing. They report no income to the state. They declared a dividend, however, of 8 per cent.

The Oceanic, $1,500 last year.

Second National, $145,000 last year; $16,000 this year.

Webster & Atlas, $49,000 last year; $189.72 this year.

In other words, the total amount paid by the banks last year was $1,945,000, and this year they pay $393,000.

The tax convention placed themselves on record as favoring some legislation at Washington, defining the words "other moneyed capital" so that they may arrive at some other basis of taxing the banks than the present one.

The tangible personal property that is now taxed I think concerns all the cities in the Commonwealth. It has been customary, particularly in storage warehouses and very many lines of business, to take goods out of the city in the middle of March or before the first of April. If the assessors were able to determine that that property was taken out to escape taxation they could tax them and a fine be imposed. One shipment of wool amounting to $1,000,000 was taken out in the middle of March and sent to Providence, and later sent back. The goods not being here on April 1 were not subject to tax. The average amount of the goods that are carried might be determined subject to taxation for the year. That would take care of the persons who ship their goods out, and it would also take care of the people who come in at this season of the year and compete with our merchants and pay no taxes. It might also remedy the condition where, particularly in furs, the goods are shipped back to New York for reassignment, and taken out of Boston before the first of April, and then brought back again. We find repeatedly, particularly in the fur lines, places full of furs, and where the local assessors were there the first of April, found nothing. The goods were not in Boston April 1 if you can believe the oaths of the people interested. An average tax upon the merchandise carried during the year, whether it was here on April 1 or not, would overcome the difficulty, and I believe would add a very large amount to personal property.

Automobiles are a source of trouble to all assessors. The custom has been to take the cards from the Highway Commission and the Tax Commission. We gathered ours some months earlier because we paid for them. We attempt to assess these cars or property that appears to be assessable. I suppose we have a stack of statements in our office three feet high reporting that persons assessed did not have cars the first of April; they didn't buy them until the second of April or later. Salesmen tell them not to buy until after the first of April, and thus escape the tax. Corporations being the owners we cannot tax them for the merchandise, and the result is the property escapes taxation by being purchased the day after the taxing date. If the state, through its automobile division, when they issue a license for the operation of a car, collected a tax equivalent to the annual state tax, which is about $25-$26, based on the valuation of the car, with money to be reimbursed minus the expenses of bookkeeping, etc., to the cities and towns where the cars are to be located when put in operation, it would quite overcome all those troubles. That would solve the difficulty. If a license was issued in June, he can base the tax for six months of that year. They had a bill last year that provided that a person must apply to the city clerk of the city or town and file with him his application for registration, but the state taking it meets it much better. No license to be issued until the tax is paid, as well as the fee for the operation of the car.

The question of consigned goods is one that has again given much cause of trouble. The assessors have the right, of course, to make doings where no statement is made. We send our men around investigating and they report large holdings of merchandise on the taxing date, but the persons occupying the premises say "We do not own the goods." We ask them "Who are the owners?" They tell us they are consigned goods, frequently from the west, and we have no means of reaching them. I would like to bring to your attention a case of $100,000 worth of cotton in South Boston. The persons in whose warehouse it was located submitted a sworn return of $25,000. I went for them. That was all the property they claimed to own. The $100,000 worth of cotton in their warehouse did not belong to them. We asked to whom it did belong, and they refused to tell. We took the matter up with the Law Department, and we have a letter from the persons in possession saying very politely but firmly that they refused to tell us who were the owners of the property, and that $100,000 was not taxed last year. The Assistant Corporation Counsel said we could not compel them to disclose the ownership. If we could get the right to tax all the goods that are located here on the taxing date to the person having possession, and let them collect from the owners, it would add a substantial amount to the personal valuation.

What has been said of banks would also apply to other corporations. Their tax since 1918 has been materially reduced, yielding in 1921 $10,000,000 and in 1922 $7,000,000. This year's total yield I have not yet received. The income tax of 2½ per cent and the corporate excess tax of $5 per thousand, never produced anything like the old direct tax, and I believe that rate ought to be raised to 10 per cent. A corporation taking its charter in March pays no corporate excess or income tax until the next year.

I think all the cities are interested in the distribution of the income corporation taxes after the money is received by the state. The unsteadiness of using as a basis for taxation any income taxes seems to me an unsound principle on which to operate from year to year. One year we received $4,000,000, and this year $2,500,000. Before the passage of this act in 1918 the corporations paid at a state rate which was about $21, in other words they paid on the corporate excess approximately $21; now they pay on a basis $5, and also pay an income tax of 2½ per cent, which was not effective when $21 a thousand on corporate excess was in effect. I would like to speak now of the distribution of that income. Originally that money was distributed after the state had taxed it to the cities and towns, where the business was carried on.

They changed the law two years ago, and the distribution is made now according as the various cities and towns' total valuation of corporations bears to the total in the state. If Boston assessed one third of all the corporation taxes assessed, then they got back one third of the amount collected from all corporations. This benefits some towns, but I think it is a serious matter for larger cities. I do not know what the principle of the bill was when it was put through, but it results in an inactive corporation that produced no income, yet taxed locally for its real estate and dead machinery, partaking of the taxes for the city or town from an active income producing corporation. It is a matter that well might be considered in having the law restored to where it was before, namely, to distribute revenue to where the business is carried on, and that is where the money ought to go.

Goods in storage have been a matter that is a great deal of trouble for many years, and I personally know hardly how to handle it. This is where shipments out of town come, where the wool and leather and cotton is stored, and where the shipments are taking place, before April 1. We have a law without any teeth in it, that say we may go into these storage warehouses and ask from them the names and addresses of the persons having goods in storage. No amount is indicated, and there is nothing to show whether it is cotton, wool, or leather, or a few barrels of apples. The storage people are not able to determine the quantity or the value of those goods, and unless we have a compulsory return or unless there is some method found of determining the amount the tax cannot be levied. In one instance a list filed contained 1,000 names, and we waded through it. We assessed considerable, but many names were found to be Massachusetts corporations not to be liable to a tax, and others were small holders, and frequently the list showed that the title to the merchandise was vested in the banks. We had no right to tax the banks for tangible personal property, and had difficulty in finding who really owned the property because the banks refused to disclose. The banks have a holding corporation, possibly the title is vested in that, and it is impossible for us to definitely determine who owns the merchandise in these storage warehouses. They give us the information, but after we get it it is of little value. I do not know whether it is wise to suggest a compulsory return, or a return of all tangible property in the city on the taxing date, because that would include the small holders of jewelry, watches, etc., and would create some confusion and perhaps not be worth the net result. But the merchandise money is not being taxed, and I bring it to your attention to show how much is escaping. The banks are very largely interested because the custom is to loan the money and take title, and they claim to own the goods; on the other hand it is claimed the bank has not title to the goods. However, we are unable to find the true owners other than the record as appears on the storage warehouse books.

The machinery of corporations is another thing that I might draw to your attention. We have the right to tax the machinery engaged in manufacture. What machinery might be deemed engaged in manufacture has become somewhat of a problem. In the old days when the state rate was $2 a thousand on corporations they did not care whether they paid it to the city or to the state, now, however, as the state rate is $5 they are very careful not to pay it to the cities or towns. So the question arises what is manufacturing machinery, and the assessors have been to their wits' end to determine whether the mixing of a chemical and spraying it over cotton, is manufacturing a gas within the meaning of the law. It was a delicate question, but it had to be determined whether that machinery manufactured something or not. It could be easily overcome if the assessors had the right to tax all machinery of corporations. I believe there would be no objections to it, and it would meet the difficulty.

I have taken the liberty to bring to your attention that in 1870 the questions of exemption of personal property arose. It would have resulted in adding to the burden on real estate. Some things said at that time I have drafted. Massachusetts was then pretty near the top in wealth and I think seventh in population, and below the average in area, and one or two things were expressed that are worth while bringing to your attention.

"As soon as a free people can be made to understand that a tax law has been enacted which discriminates in favor of property at the expense of persons they will demand its repeal and they will be obeyed."

How long can a system endure which exempts property from taxation and make up the deficiency by methods that increase the cost of living?"

It can safely be maintained that the people of Massachusetts will be slow to believe in any other theory of taxation than that which exempts first, schools, churches, and charitable work, which says the tools of a mechanic, the limited savings of the unmarried female, and the property that lingers in the possession of the poor, aged and infirm shall be untaxed, and then declares that every dollar of the property of her citizens or of nonresidents protected by her laws, shall bear its equal share of the public burden.

MAYOR CURLEY AND CITY PLANNING BOARD BACKED BY LARGE ORGANIZATIONS IN MOVE TO GET LEGISLATURE TO PERMIT SPENDING $32,000,000 FOR BUSINESS STREET 100 FEET WIDE—ONLY SOUND RELIEF FOUND.

PLAN OF $32,000,000 NEW STREET PROJECT DEVISED BY MAYOR CURLEY AND PLANNING BOARD FOR RELIEF OF TRAFFIC CONGESTION.

One of the most important measures awaiting action at the 1924 session of the General Court is contained in a bill submitted by his Honor the Mayor, based upon a recommendation made by the City Planning Board, providing for the adoption of a comprehensive street plan for the downtown section of the city, consisting of an intermediate thoroughfare 100 feet wide throughout, from the intersection of Washington and Kneeland streets, through Church green, Fort Hill square, Mercantile street, Cross street, Haymarket square, Merri-mac street, Wall street and Leverett street to Charles street at the viaduct bridge, together with certain related widenings and extensions as follows:

Stuart street, from its junction with Eliot street to Washington and Kneeland streets, widened to not less than 100 feet.

Tremont street, from Arlington square to Stuart street, widened to not less than 80 feet.

Kneeland street, from Washington and Stuart streets to Atlantic avenue, widened to not less than 80 feet.

Albany street, from Broadway to Kneeland street, widened to approximately 120 feet.

Albany street to Kneeland street, to Beach street, not less than 80 feet.

Kingston street, widened from Beach street to the intermediate thoroughfare to not less than 80 feet.

Broad street from Wharf street to India square, widened to an extent sufficient to afford a uniform width throughout the entire length of the street.

Beverly street, widened and extended to the junction of Cross and Endicott streets to 80 feet.

Stanford street, from the proposed intermediate thoroughfare to Green street, widened to 120 feet.

Green street, from Bowdoin square to Chambers street, 80 feet, and extended from that point to Blossom and Cambridge streets at a width of 80 feet.

The total cost of the entire program is estimated at $32,850,000, based upon present assessed valuations plus 25 per cent for property takings, together with cost of construction and incidental expenses.

SITE FOR NEW POLICE HEAD-QUARTERS AT BERKELEY AND STUART STREETS.

At a conference held at the office of the Mayor on Monday, December 17, between the Police Commissioner, Hon. Herbert A. Wilson, and his Honor the Mayor, an agreement was reached relative to a site for the million dollar police headquarters, the site determined upon being located at Berkeley and Stuart streets, the lot in question being a corner lot with light on three sides and covering 17,254 square feet of land.

The Police Commissioner estimates that about 11,000 square feet on each floor will be necessary for the police headquarters, which will be a building about eight stories in height, but favors the installation of a foundation sufficient to permit of extension to a greater height through the construction of additional stories when required in future years. The selection of this lot will permit of the proper setting of the police headquarters, with grass plot, and light and air on all sides. The selection of Park square as a site for a building that will be both utilitarian and aesthetic should serve as an incentive for additional realty development in this section of Boston.

The plans for the new building have been made by Ritchie, Parsons & Taylor, and now that a site has been definitely determined upon there is every reason to anticipate that work will begin within the next sixty days and the building completed within twelve months.

PLAYGROUND PROPOSED FOR READVILLE DISTRICT.

Mayor Curley sent the following message to the Council on Monday, December 17:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to submit herewith data relative to the establishment of a playground in the Readville section of Boston. The site here recommended has received the approval of the residents of Readville and also the Boston City Planning Board.

Negotiations have been conducted with reference to this site for nearly a year, and a most satisfactory offer has at last been received from the owners, which is the present actual assessed value, namely, $13,200.

In my opinion this is an exceptional trade for the city and represents a site desired by the people of Readville. Consequently it is an exceeding pleasure to recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"
[From Boston Centennial Poem by
NATHAN HASKELL DOLE.]

MAYOR STILL WORKS FOR POSTAL TUBES.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication on December 15 to all the senators and congressmen from Massachusetts:

DEAR CONGRESSMAN (SENATOR).—In view of a communication I have received this day from Mr. C. B. Slemple, secretary to President Coolidge, advising:

"Your letter of December 7 to the President has been received. The President acquiesced in the conclusion of the Director of the Budget not to recommend an appropriation in this matter. The recommendation of the director is not, of course, final; it is still subject to the determination of the appropriating authorities of the Congress."

I feel assured that if the Massachusetts members of Congress will heartily cooperate in behalf of this important federal appropriation for the restoration of the pneumatic tubes in Boston, which is greatly needed as a facility to the industrial and commercial interests of the city, ways and means can be devised for an amendment to the appropriation bill and insuring this important benefit.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEN OF BOSTON TEA PARTY FAME AT ANNIVERSARY.

MAYOR CURLEY JOINS WITH CITIZENS OF BOSTON IN HONORING HEROES OF REVOLUTIONARY TIMES AT OLD SOUTH CHURCH CELEBRATION.

Mayor Curley on Saturday, December 15, speaking at the exercises in honor of the 150th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party under the auspices of the Sons of the American Revolution at the Old South Meeting House, said in part:

It is an exceeding pleasure as Mayor of the brave and historic old City of Boston to join with the Sons of the American Revolution in this observance of an event the relative value of which in the movement for the establishment of free government is today recognized.

In truth, the sentiment so beautifully expressed by John Boyle O'Reilly is peculiarly applicable to the men whose memory and service we this day honor:

Great men grow greater by the lapse of time;
We know those least whom we have seen the latest;

And they, 'mongst those whose names have grown sublime,
Who worked for human liberty, are greatest.

The men through whose genius and daring the American republic became a reality were indeed worthy successors of the heroic souls that endured every hardship prior to and subsequent to their landing at Plymouth Rock. With the progress of time it was but natural that the Pilgrim spirit should develop a love of liberty and a demand for equality of opportunity which could only be achieved through the destruction of the theory that certain individuals were commissioned by the Divinity to exercise absolute control over their fellowman. It is difficult for us in this day of the life of the world to realize how men as intelligent as were the colonial fathers could engage in a conflict with Great Britain, at that time the most powerful nation in the world.

We are prone to overlook the spirit of self-reliance which animated the colonists and without which success would never have been possible.

America needs that spirit today—the spirit of self-reliance which recognizes man's obligation to his fellow man, unrestricted and unhampered because of race, creed or color. Through the Pilgrim spirit of self-reliance the Boston Tea Party blazed the way for Concord, Lexington, Bunker Hill and Yorktown. The Pilgrim spirit of self-reliance developed through the process of time made possible the establishment of the fundamental guaranty of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness without regard to race, creed or color. Through this guaranty America has grown from less than 3,000,000, 150 years ago, to more than 122,000,000 in our day; grown from thirteen colonies weak in finance to forty-eight states and territorial possession whose possibilities in population and wealth time alone can determine.

Our growth, our progress and mighty heritage as a nation and a people have been due wholly to a rigid observance of the fundamentals of the American Constitution, made possible by the sacrifice of the fathers, and the assurance of future growth, unity and patriotism is absolutely dependent upon the preservation of the principles enunciated in the Constitution.

I rejoice as Mayor of Boston on this historic occasion that the torch of liberty lighted by Samuel Adams, John Hancock, James Otis and Benjamin Franklin and the men associated with them still burns brightly in the heart of the citizenship of Boston; that the places where these patriots fought for the establishment of free government are still regarded, and I trust will be until the end of time, as shrines sacred to the cause of human liberty and perpetuating a memory of the men through whose service and sacrifice it became a reality.

NEW TWO-MILE THOROUGHFARE.

It is further estimated by the City Planning Board that a very large proportion of this expense may be returned through the assessment of betterments. The plan has been discussed with no less than twenty civic, business and professional groups in the city and it is the consensus of opinion that it is a city-wide rather than a local improvement and that the entire business district will derive a direct, substantial and assessable benefit therefrom.

The City Planning Board also expresses the belief that the expense of the proposed improvement should be spread out over as long a period of years as circumstances permit on the ground that the completed project will be of vast benefit to succeeding business and individual interests, and as such, a fair proportion of the expense should be borne by them.

In amplification of the brief statement accompanying the plan in its transmittal to his Honor the Mayor, the City Planning Board has pointed out various phases of the transportation problem as it exists in Boston today, including the traffic situation as involved in water-borne, railroad, automobile, street, subways and elevated passenger or freight traffic; the electrification of railroad lines entering Boston, long under consideration and still a project of the future, but eventually involving certain probable major readjustments of present terminals and interconnections; the constant increase in number of passenger motor cars, and in both number and size of automobile trucks; the expansion of subway traffic; and the drastic changes in the character and use of Atlantic avenue, which might be eventually caused by the development of Boston Harbor.

The relief of the traffic congestion in the downtown district, or that portion of the city inclosed by Charles street, Broadway and the waterfront, is declared by the City Planning Board to be urgent and in need of immediate action, on the ground that it will remain no less serious a problem after the larger harbor and railroad adjustments are completed.

It is declared to be a problem of the present day, independent of the considerations attached to these other major considerations, except so far as the solution arrived at must be such as to lend itself to the accommodation of the city as a whole and therefore be fully useful whatever solutions of these other traffic questions are finally adopted.

An analysis of the traffic congestion in the downtown district has confirmed the City Planning Board in its belief that relief is needed in certain definite directions, i. e.:

- (a) An adequate approach to the Charles River dam from the business district.
- (b) The further development of Stuart street to reach the business district.
- (c) A better trucking road between the North and South Stations.
- (d) The relief of congestion in the retail district, between Washington and Tremont streets.
- (e) Relief of congestion in the market district.

This general survey of the entire situation coupled with the more intimate analysis of definite requirements has led the City Planning Board to adopt the theory that through traffic should be led around, not through, the present most congested area, that the possible, existing streets should be widened, but that present blocks should be cut through freely when street lines do not offer satisfactory routes.

It has been deemed essential by the Board for purposes of economy and in order to provide the greatest possible betterments to cut through and widen on low value property, as far as possible. It has been deemed inadvisable to make contact with Atlantic avenue at any point on the ground that its future is uncertain; that it will remain a special waterfront problem; and that it is a complete thoroughfare capable of handling a large volume of traffic entirely apart from any other thoroughfare. To use any part of it in connection with a new thoroughfare it was felt would be to reduce the total capacity for traffic. It has been looked upon as an outer encircling thoroughfare, capable of being made more effective by a connection to the Charles River dam at one end and by the extension of a new road to the junction of Stuart street and Huntington avenue that can be built over the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad after electrification.

An inner thoroughfare running as closely as is possible around Beacon Hill is found in Boylston, Tremont, Court and Cambridge streets.

The problem resolved itself therefore, into a question of the proper location for an intermediate thoroughfare, which would not only afford the much-needed relief from present crowded conditions, but would at the same time facilitate the flow of traffic to and from, and the transaction of business in the retail, wholesale, market, financial and business districts.

While Washington street might serve this purpose to a certain extent if of sufficient width, its development under present conditions was considered prohibitive in cost. It was further felt that the extreme congestion of the retail district, as well as the prevailing high values, prevented any thoroughfare of adequate width, between Washington and Tremont streets, thus fixing the location of the proposed new thoroughfare tentatively to the east of Washington street.

The City Planning Board believing that present conditions had proved the fallacy of any policy of minor widenings of existing streets, felt that a critical condition such as exists in the city today, with the present indication of further rapid increase in motor vehicles, demanded drastic treatment.

A thoroughfare of at least 100 feet wide was accordingly decided upon, thus providing for sidewalks 12 feet in width and 76 feet roadway, which would permit standing vehicles along both curbs and three moving lines of traffic in each direction.

The first step in determining the exact location for such a thoroughfare as appeared necessary from this preliminary investigation was the preparation of a land value map of the downtown district. With this as the second fundamental, every step of the way has been intensively studied. Innumerable changes have been made to avoid serious damage to valuable buildings or to leave adjoining properties with a depth sufficient for suitable improvements.

The result has been that in a thoroughfare approximately two miles long, linking up the entire business center of the city with avenues of approach on either side, a route has been plotted which condemns not a single parcel of property with a value over $100 a square foot; only one parcel with a value from $80 to $100 a square foot; two valued from $60 to $80 a square foot and ten valued from $45 to $60 a square foot. All of the other properties affected throughout the entire distance have a value well below $45 a square foot. In fact fully one third of the takings approximate $20 a square foot or less.

In addition to the question of land values certain other factors have had a more or less definite bearing upon the location ultimately selected, including the new telephone building on Essex street, the Rice building, the new Chamber of Commerce building, the Broad Street building, the new Police Station on Sears street, and other important structures of a similar nature.

The problem as a whole has been submitted in detail to many of the semi-public agencies in the city, either as a group or through special committees appointed for the purpose. In practically every instance the reaction has been distinctly favorable. In a number of cases, formal approval has been already given and in others a definite decision is merely waiting upon regular meeting dates.

The City Planning Board has had the benefit throughout of the advice and assistance of Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, of New York, its general consultant, who states in the concluding paragraph of his report dealing with this particular problem:

"The plan for the creation of this new thoroughfare may be somewhat startling. Few notable improvements have been carried out in Boston in recent years. The Charles River Dam and Basin created new values with little disturbance of existing conditions, but they had little effect upon traffic conditions which have constantly been growing worse. The removal of surface railway tracks within the congested area helped, but increase in volume of traffic has more than counterbalanced that relief. The Stuart street widening and extension will do much but it is only a beginning. The process of tearing down and reconstruction is an unpleasant one, causing temporary inconvenience, but there is no other way to secure the desired results. It is what London did, after talking about it for more than two generations, when Kingsway and Alwinc were created at a total cost of about $30,000,000. New York extended Seventh avenue across the irregular street system of old Greenwich Village and widened Varick street from 65 feet to 100 feet at a cost of more than $8,000,000 in property damage, exclusive of the physical improvement. The people of St. Louis have voted by a large majority to expend more than eighty millions of dollars on municipal improvements, more than eight and a half millions of which is for the opening and widening of streets.

"I firmly believe that the value of the proposed intermediate thoroughfare would be worth to Boston far more than it would cost and that the special benefit to property in the area traversed by it would justify the imposition upon the property of a substantial part of the expense."

In summarizing the results which may be accomplished by the construction of this intermediate thoroughfare as proposed, together with the related widenings as indicated on the plan, the City Planning Board emphasizes the facts that from the Stuart street end of the new thoroughfare easy access is provided to and from the congested business district through Washington, Chauncy, Arch, Summer, Devonshire, Federal, Congress, Pearl and Broad streets; while from the Charles River Dam end a similar access is provided through Green street to Scollay square, Washington, Milk, Franklin and Summer streets. From both ends access is provided to Atlantic avenue and its various wharves by numerous short, connecting streets, at the same time affording connections between the North and South Stations and their freight yards, through Northern avenue, Federal, South and Kingston streets at the south, and Beverly, Canal, Friend, Portland and Lowell streets at the north.

The relief of the Market district is provided for by opening up the long blocks between Commercial street and Atlantic avenue and providing direct access to the lower market without the need of using Commercial street, also giving outlet from Commercial street and Cross street on the new route, leaving Blackstone street available for the upper market traffic.

The relief of the congested retail district between Washington and Summer streets, and the inner thoroughfare formed by Boylston and Tremont streets, is afforded by leading downtown traffic around this district, rather than through it as is compulsory under present conditions.

The related widenings indicated also play an important part in the whole program in that the widening of Tremont street, from Arlington square to Stuart street, will facilitate the flow of traffic to the west; access to the South Station from the Stuart street end is provided by the widening of Kneeland street. The Albany street widening affords an outlet to the south. The Beverly street extension and widening makes it possible for traffic from the north to bypass the congested center at Haymarket square; while the development proposed in connection with Staniford street and Green street makes it possible for traffic to be readily diverted from any one of the three main arteries of travel, the inner thoroughfare, the intermediate thoroughfare, as proposed, or the outer encircling thoroughfare to any point desired.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor December 15, 1923.

Boston, December 15, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In relation to the internal transfers asked for in the Park Department, I respectfully submit the following:

B-4, Transportation of Persons, $219.49: This amount is asked for to pay the expense for the necessary trips made by the curator of the Zoological Garden and the director of the Aquarium for the purchase of animals for the Zoo and the replenishing of the Aquarium.

B-5, Cartage and Freight $73.18: This is an item of which we have no way of estimating the exact amount and is always uncertain.

B-36, Boiler Inspection, $8: This is an item of which we have no way of estimating the exact amount, and is always uncertain.

B-37, Photographic, $330.55: Owing to the fact that the department was doing more construction work than ever before in the building of bleachers, etc. on playgrounds, it was necessary to have photographic copies of before and after effects, and heretofore these expenses have been charged to special appropriations.

C-6, Stable, $4015: This excess amount was due to the additional horses received from the Fire Department.

C-13, Tools and Instruments, $173.12: $7,000 was asked for in the budget on this item and $6,500 was allowed. It was impossible for the Department to do the additional work entailed in the enlarging of the golf links without the extra amount of tools required for same.

D-10, Agricultural, $616.20: $1,000 was taken from this item feeling that we would not receive the trees and shrubs contracted for until 1924. As this department has to receive same when they are in condition to ship from the nurseries, this extra amount was not expected.

E-9, Machinery, $19.99: This amount is asked for additional belting needed at the Dover Street Laundry.

B-39, General Plant, $7,024: On this item a total of $75,500 was requested. Including the special request of $7,500 for Pinebank and $10,000 for Dover street, we were allowed $60,000. It is impossible in this department to estimate correctly the amount that will be required for repairs, etc. As an example, no amount was asked for repairs to the Public Landing, Castle Island Bridge or Marine Park Bridge. An examination made during the month of October showed that the bridges were apparently in good condition and would not require any great expenditure during the year 1923. During the winter months, the bridges at Castle Island and Marine Park were damaged to such an extent that it has required an expenditure of about $3,400. Public landing—when repairs were being made to the floor, the foundations were found to be in such a dangerous condition that we were afraid of a repetition of the Lawrence disaster. Neponset Playground filling—no amount was asked for in the budget, and we were directed by his Honor the Mayor, to take care of same. Sanding of beaches—it was not anticipated in the budget that any great amount of work would be necessary to care for the beaches. On account of the severe storms in the spring, the beaches were in such a condition that they had to be entirely covered with sand. The amount of obstruction to drainage in the Arnold Arboretum during the spring required another large amount which was not anticipated. Another item was the West Roxbury Court-house not asked for in the budget, and graded and planted by this department, and might be charged to Public Buildings Department. For these reasons, we respectfully request this transfer.

D-4, Forage and Animal, $1,000: This was required on account of the number of extra horses transferred to this department due to the motorization of the Fire Department; and also for the feed for additional animals in the Zoo.

E-12, Parks and Recreational, $1,614: On this item the sum of $10,000 was taken off in making up the budget, and we find it was impossible to repair the roads without this additional expenditure.

Very respectfully yours,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

BOSTON, December 14, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

REPORTS ON CONVENTION.

The report of Assistant Superintendent Brodhead to the School Committee regarding attendance upon the annual convention of the National Society for Vocational Education, held in Buffalo, on December 6, 7 and 8, 1923, is as follows:

In connection with this convention, the New York State Department of Education arranged an itinerary of school visiting and conference in New York City, December 3, Rochester, December 4 and Buffalo, December 5, of which opportunity I availed myself. In addition to hearing formal papers from leaders in special educational lines, the possibility of seeing new and typical schools in operation and of engaging teachers, principals and administrators in extended and personal conference has made this convention trip of great usefulness to me.

The school visits have included the following: Textile High School, New York; Manhattan Trade School for Girls; Boys' Vocational School, Newark; Murray Hill Evening Trade School, New York; Evening School of Industrial Art, New York; Rochester Boys' Prevocational School; Rochester Part-time School for Girls; Rochester Part-time School for Boys; Madison Junior High School; Buffalo Elm Evening Vocational School; Evening Technical High School; McKinley Vocational School.

The members of the party while in New York City, numbering over forty people from all parts of the union, were addressed at luncheon by the Superintendent of the New York Public Schools. He described the difficult housing situation in his city, expressed his satisfaction in the present vocational program and his intention of expending it as funds are available.

From 9.45 to 11.15 p. m. in the offices of the Congress on Apprenticeship in the building trades, a discussion was held on recruiting apprentices in the building trades through the combined efforts of employees, employers and of financiers, architects, business men, etc.

In Rochester, automobile transportation was furnished us and we were addressed by the superintendent, who expressed his difficulty in formulating a program for vocational and part-time education above the junior high school.

The school visits, day and evening, showed conditions ranging from that of large classes and improvised accommodations to those of new structures, small classes and sometimes with what seem to the writer like a disregard of overhead expense in unused or little used allotments. In both New York City and Buffalo, many courses are offered for evening classes and well patronized which are not offered in Boston.

The convention speakers covered a wide range of subjects within the main divisions of agricultural, commercial, home economics industrial, part-time and rehabilitation education.

In the commercial section a great deal was made of the fact that now and hereafter there is need of training a variety of commercial teachers and of new courses in high schools for the training of junior executives.

In the part-time section emphasis was laid upon the need for training for health, character, citizenship and employment and it seemed to be conceded that the continuation school problem was the outstanding riddle of the educational universe.

In the industrial section much attention was paid to apprenticeship plans with the co-operation of public schools, employers and employees. It was felt that while the all-day trade school will be always and increasingly useful in industrial centers, part-time education must be the solution of large numbers of vocational problems in cases of small communities and scattered occupations.

The banquet called out a large attendance and the speeches there made were broadcasted throughout the East.

At the last general meeting the program was closed by an address by the secretary of labor, the Hon. James Davis, who emphasized the need that each boy for his own welfare and that of his country should acquire a high school education and learn a trade.

It was generally felt that this was the best convention that the society has ever had in view of the large attendance, the excellence of the convention arrangements and the value of the papers presented.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN C. BRODHEAD,
Assistant Superintendent.

BOSTON WILL TREASURE LONG THE MEMORIES OF CHRISTMAS SPIRIT OF 1923.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT PERVADEING ALL FROM MAYOR TO HUMBLEST CITIZEN CHARACTERIZED CELEBRATION THIS YEAR—WARM WELCOME EXTENDED TO STRANGERS AND VISITORS.

CITY'S CHRISTMAS GREETING TO STRANGERS INTENDED BY MAYOR CURLEY TO REFLECT WARMTH OF BOSTON'S HOSPITALITY.

Through the kindness of the Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, the city enjoyed the happiest Christmas tide known to its citizens in many years. Through his generosity and thoughtfulness not a soul knowingly suffered either for loneliness or lack of some share in the joys of the holiday.

Even the stranger within the gates was made to feel at home and happy as he or she entered the city, whether from the North or South Station or by the street cars. At each of the railway terminals there was a huge card of greeting announcing the welcome to the city, and also in front of City Hall this card was placed, making the heart of the stranger glow with the consciousness that despite the fact of being away from home Boston had opened her heart and taken them in.

At all the city institutions the unfortunates were not forgotten and enjoyed, some of them, the best Christmas they had ever known. From the time the Mayor started the festivities by an address at the Parkman Bandstand and formally lighted the huge Christmas tree that had been provided, until long after Christmas Day was over the spirit of Christ and brotherliness carried on.

Mayor and Mrs. Curley and their seven children sent out nearly 10,000 Christmas cards, designed and colored by J. Philip O'Connell, emphasizing the personal character of the greeting, by bearing, besides the names of Mayor and Mrs. Curley, the names of their seven children, James, Mary, Dorothea, Paul, Leo, George and Francis in a column at the left beneath the entwined monograms of the Mayor, J. M. C., and of Mrs. Curley, M. E. C., surrounded by the design of a laurel wreath.

At the top of the card was the legend, "Christmas—New Year—1923," and the greeting read as follows: "Mr. and Mrs.

James M. Curley extend to you their warmest wishes for the peace and joy of this holy season; re-echoing the Christmas prayer of Tiny Tim, 'God bless us, every one!'"

To the transient guests in Boston hotels and to the visiting theatrical companies the City of Boston sent Christmas cards to the number of 5,000, embellished with a replica of the city seal, above the open gates to City Hall, and laurel wreaths all done in green and red, with the following greeting, signed by the Mayor:

To the stranger within our gates
This festive holiday season:
The City of Boston extends Hospitable welcome and the Best wishes of its citizens for a Happy Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

Among the Christmas presents given by the Mayor were forty-three gold pieces of the $2.50 denomination to the City Hall janitors, elevator men, scrubwomen, engineers and others.

The Mayor gave out baskets, each containing a milk-fed chicken, a peck of potatoes, half a peck of apples, one half pound of tea, one half pound of butter, a pound of sugar and two loaves of bread to twenty-five widows whose applications for help arrived too late for the Salvation Army or other agencies to act.

Boston's official observance of Christmas began with the night before exercises on the Common and by carol singing on Beacon Hill. Previous to that, at noon, four trumpeters from the First Corps Cadets, clad in service olive drab, trumpeted Christmas music from the balcony of the Old State House. The trumpeting was from 12 to 12.30.

The principal event on the municipal evening program was the presentation of a pageant, "Star Gleams," by the Community Service. The cast, including carolers, totaled more than one hundred persons, all students either at Boston College or Boston University. The pageant was written by Florence Lewis Speare, directed by Joy Higgins, and staged by Eugene N. Frost.

The program follows:

5.15—Nativity pageant, "Star Gleams," auspices of Community Service.
5.45—Lighting of municipal Christmas tree.

6—Singing of carols by Mendelssohn singers, H. S. Christopher, leader.

7—Singing of carols by Filene's Choral Club, C. A. Young, leader.

8—Singing of carols by Shepard's Choral Club, Miss Minnie Fowler Scott, leader.

9—Nativity pageant, "Star Gleams."
9.50—Address by James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston.

10—Selections by band.
10.30—Singing of carols by Unitarian Laymen's League, William Weston, leader.

10.50—Selections by band.

"O Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene,
Ensured by thy sons' and thy daughters' unselfish devotion!"

$1,500,000 INDUSTRY IN CHARLESTOWN IS MAYOR'S CHRISTMAS GIFT.

ANNOUNCES COMPLETION OF NEGOTIATIONS WITH HENRY FORD FOR ASSEMBLING PLANT AT SULLIVAN SQUARE PLAYGROUND, EMPLOYING 2,500 HEADS OF FAMILIES, AT $5 A DAY OR MORE, IF COUNCIL SUSTAINS HIM IN PLAN TO SELL LAND.

Mayor Curley's gift to the citizens of Boston was announced in the following:

The most acceptable gift that can come to the head of a household is the assurance of permanent employment under healthful conditions and with good wages. The most pleasing gift that the City of Boston can receive is the addition of new industries, to which the source of New England's prosperity in the past may be traced, namely, enterprises that will combine both commerce and industry.

For a period of nine months I have been in negotiation with representatives of the largest motor industry in the world with a view to inducing them to establish an assembly and export plant at Boston. The assurances received this day are sufficiently encouraging to justify the belief that this great enterprise will be located in Boston and that other similar enterprises will speedily take advantage of the facilities which the Port of Boston affords, namely, a shorter voyage between Boston and any European port by two days on a round trip than any other port on the Atlantic seaboard, and quite a saving in time through sailings to South America and through the canal to the Pacific ports.

It is the purpose of the Ford Motor Company, providing the site which they have selected is made available by the City of Boston at a price that is equitable, to construct a plant that will add to the taxable value of the city $1,500,000.

The site which they desire is the property owned by the City of Boston and known as the Sullivan Square Playground, and which property I have tendered for sale to the Ford Motor Company, subject to the approval of the City Council, at a price equivalent to the assessed valuation of the property.

I realize that the proposal to dispose of a public playground, even though the property in question has never been utilized to even 5 per cent of its potential possibilities, will meet with opposition. I believe it only fair to state, however, that the percentage who will honestly oppose a project of such potential value to Boston will be less than 10 per cent, the remaining 90 per cent of the opposition being divided between opposition developed for possible political capital and the envious political element which has ever given opposition when a worthwhile project is presented for consideration.

To meet this character of opposition I recommended some six months ago the enlargement of the William J. Barry Playground, representing an expenditure of a sum one half as great as the total sum that may be realized from the sale of the Sullivan Square Playground, and in the event that the Council approve the sale of the Sullivan Square Playground to the Ford Motor Company it is my purpose to provide an amount equivalent to the total amount received minus the amount already appropriated for the William J. Barry Playground either for enlargement of existing playgrounds in Charlestown or for a new playground in Charlestown, and in connection with the establishment of the same it is my purpose to either wipe out unwholesome properties used for the stabling of horses or unhealthful and ancient tenement properties.

The establishment of this industry at Charlestown will represent more than a mere addition of one and a half millions to the assessed valuation. It will furnish an impetus for industrial and mercantile development in a section of the city long dormant and greatly in need of financial and industrial aid. The plant when completed and in operation will employ a minimum of 2,500 men, and employment by the Ford Motor Company means permanent employment, and the permanent employment of the head of the household is the greatest blessing that can be conferred, for the weakest link in our social system is that known as seasonal employment which has been strengthened in America through the Ford Motor Industry.

The minimum wage paid will be $5 per day with an automatic advance to $6 a day at the end of two months. It is the purpose of the Ford Motor Company, in the event that the agreement which I have made with them receives the approval of the Boston City Council, that work will start immediately upon the erection of this great plant, which will cover the entire 600,000 square feet of land known as the Sullivan Square Playground.

Every thoughtful American is disturbed at the failure of the nation to develop an outlet for the surplus product of our industries. The present high tariff law has effectually shut out foreign competition up to the present time, but the increased number of applicants for employment in the large cities of America are an indication that the saturation point has been reached and that the welfare of the nation demands invasion of foreign markets with American goods.

The industrial efficiency of America has developed a productiveness which supplies the requirements of our annual domestic consumption by seven months' labor, and this startling fact means five months of idleness and unemployment for our workers, unless markets overseas are provided to absorb the national industrial surplus. To this end the energies of national administration should be devoted, for no condition is so perilous to the stability, peace and happiness of a democracy than the periodic spells of unemployment that come to our industrial civilization.

The facilities at New York are inadequate to meet the present demands and it is but natural that highly intelligent and eminently successful industrial officials look to Boston as a possible solution of their export problems.

In my opinion the location of an export plant at Boston by the Ford Motor Company is in the nature of a Christmas present that marks the beginning of similar action by other large industrial concerns in America, and its fruition may mean the restoration not only of industrial prosperity but the return of Boston's former commercial greatness.

Mayor Curley has approved for payment the bill of M. Ahern, contractor, in the sum of $2,826.66, for plumbing work in Portables Numbers 202 and 204, located on Washington street, in the Bennett District, Brighton.

A communication from Thomas P. Glynn, chairman of the Schoolhouse Commission, was as follows:

"Early in October this Board ordered some plumbing work of an emergency nature to be done in these portables. The cost of this work was estimated to be, and ordinarily would have been, under $1,000. During the progress of the work, however, rock was encountered, and the extra cost of excavating and making other changes necessitated by the presence of the rock increased the total cost to the amount named above. As there was, of course, no way of knowing that the rock would be encountered, and the work had to be done at the earliest possible moment, it was impossible to advertise for bids.

"All of the items for material and labor have been checked and verified by this department, and the Board requests your Honor's approval as stated, in order to comply with the provisions of the city charter and enable the City Auditor to pass the bill for payment."

CALLS FOR SHIP SUBSIDY AND BUSY MERCHANT MARINE TO SAVE UNITED STATES.

MAYOR CURLEY POINTS TO NEED OF EXPORT BUSINESS GROWTH IF STATE AND COUNTRY ARE TO BE SAVED FROM IDLENESS AND DISASTER—ADDRESSES KIWANIS CLUB OF NEW BEDFORD.

Mayor Curley, speaking before the New Bedford Kiwanis Club at noon at New Bedford, Thursday, December 27, 1923, said in part:

The primary and fundamental economic needs of Massachusetts, of New Bedford and every other productive community of America are markets for their products and transportation facilities to carry the products to the points of sale and distribution. It matters not what the character of the productivity of any community, whether it be pastoral, agricultural, forestal, mines, fisheries or the purely industrial, these two basic conditions must exist if they are to live and thrive.

The simpler the processes of production the simpler the problems to solve when these two fundamentals are existent. All industry may be divided broadly into two classes—the elemental or essential and the artificial, those that have grown out of civilization, that supply the luxuries that have through civilization become necessities. The elemental industries of the world—farms, pastures, fisheries, forests and mines—supply the products that feed, house and protect us from the elements, and these products are the raw material for the artificial or manufacturing industries.

The two classes of producers and product are very closely related; the value of their products and the prosperity of the producers wax and wane sympathetically and almost automatically; the prosperity and adversity of each are reflected in the other; each constitutes a market for the other; and it is only when we come to consider the surpluses they produce that we can understand the fundamental difference between the two. Human necessity will always make a market for the elemental products, for men must eat, and house and clothe themselves, but the values of their surpluses must vary in the world markets according to the purchasing ability of the world-wide consumer.

The manufacturer who turns raw material into finished product not only needs the two great fundamentals—transportation and markets—but he has a more complex problem in America, since the activity and efficiency of industrial America have long outrun the consumptive capacity of the American domestic market. Today the manufacturer produces enough in seven months to supply his domestic market; and unless he can secure a foreign market to consume the product of his other five months he will be compelled to close down his plant and subject his workmen to five months of idleness every year. This is a condition not a theory, and unless our government joins hands with American industry and helps to secure a market abroad for our surpluses then the constancy of work and wages for our workers which is essential for the peace, happiness and security of our democracy will cease and the grim presence of unemployment must be faced with the danger and discontent such a condition precipitates.

The solution of this problem and the only preventive of its creation lie in the obtaining of foreign markets for American surpluses, and those can only be secured by finding the market and the transportation to carry our surpluses to it. The only alternative lies in the legislative quackery of attempting the wasteful and expensive plan of supporting an idle industrial population for half a year annually by public purse.

The proper solution and the only one worthy of such a government and people as ours is by carrying our surpluses in American ships under the American flag to the foreign markets—for it is a commercial truism as old as human commerce that the ships and flags that carry a commerce control it; and as long as we permit our commerce to be carried by foreign merchant marines American goods will be carried and marketed at a loss.

Today every European and Asiatic merchant marine is heavily subsidized by its government so that it can place the goods of its nationals in the foreign markets at the very lowest rates, so that it can compete with and conquer its rivals.

America must face the realities of the commercial situation and meet its foreign rivals on an equality of competition and if shipping conditions are equalized the competition of quality of product will begin and in that field America can face the world.

Massachusetts and New Bedford must face this situation with open eyes and resolute courage. It is time to drop sentiment and theory and face the facts. Commerce is war, a peaceful and competitive phase of war—but war. The question in its broadest sense is this: Which is the least expensive for America to maintain, a well subsidized merchant marine that will market our productive surplus and make our workers happy and contented by work and wages all the year round, or refuse to maintain a national merchant marine and a foreign market, close down our industries for five months a year, produce an idle, discontented and unhappy, people pauperized by public doles, the prey of agitators and demagogues, a threat to our peace and security and a destroyer of confidence? Which plan is better for New Bedford and America? It is for you and all of us to insist on the only safe solution of this problem, growing in danger every day. It is bad enough now; but if we do not solve it now resolutely and determinedly we must face the hazards of a cutthroat competition when Europe gets on its feet again. War, disastrous war, has always come out of such conditions.

Courage and wisdom mean peace; hesitation and false economy mean disaster.

The sea is at our door, the high, open road to the markets of the world, the road to be traveled by a merchant marine carrying our surpluses under the American flag. The experience of all nations in all ages since Phœnicia and Carthage carried the commerce of the world and grew prosperous and powerful teaches us a lesson as urgent today as in any of history and we must learn that lesson and obey its teaching.

Our domestic transportation problem will be solved in good time and order grow out of what looks somewhat like chaos today. That transportation system will carry our products to the ocean front and there they must be met by American ships to carry them to market, and no other ships will serve us in peace, nor can we permit any other to serve us in war.

The merchant marine under the American flag, kept up to American standards by the American purse, is the answer to our industrial troubles today and the warrant for our industrial prosperity tomorrow.

Massachusetts must insist, if Massachusetts industries are to prosper, that her men in Congress, without regard to politics shall demand the strong financial support of a merchant marine by our government.

If we pay for schools, roads, reclamation projects, irrigation and a hundred other enterprises out of the national purse we can logically insist that we pay not for the protection but the salvation of American industry, by subsidizing an American merchant marine, to keep our workers busy, well paid, happy and contented by finding markets for the product of their labor.

This is a patriotic duty for Massachusetts and New Bedford. Let us attend to it. Let us see to it that our representatives attend to it.

Transportation and markets overseas for American surplus products are necessary that constancy of work and wages may rule here at home.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service).

Upon December 17 the Mayor approved a contract with V. Barletta for relaying service and water pipe. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke, Commissioner of Public Works, was as follows:

Boston, December 7, 1923.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Authority is respectfully requested to the award of a contract for relaying about 600 linear feet of 12-inch main water pipe and about 300 linear feet of service pipes in East Cottage, Humphreys, Groom streets and Norfolk avenue, Dorchester, to V. Barletta, 10 Whipple avenue, West Roxbury, without inviting proposals by advertisement, at an estimated cost for labor and materials of $2,200.

This authority is requested because the existing 6-inch water pipe was removed in connection with the construction of a large sewer within the above-mentioned limits and it is absolutely necessary that adequate fire protection be restored as soon as possible. As V. Barletta was the contractor for the construction of this sewer, it will be for the best interest of the city to have him lay these water pipes, since his prices are reasonable and will complete the work without any delay.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

LIST OF LEGISLATION PETITIONED FOR BY HIS HONOR MAYOR, JAMES M. CURLEY FOR THE BENEFIT OF BOSTON.

The Mayor has had prepared by the Law Department, after conferences with heads of various branches of the City Government an ambitious program of legislation calculated to aid Boston and its citizens. The bills thus far presented and filed for action are the following:

1. The expenses of Suffolk County: This provides that the expenses of Suffolk County be apportioned among the cities and town of Suffolk County; that is, whereas the City of Boston now pays the entire expenses of Suffolk County, that Winthrop, Revere and Chelsea be required to pay their apportioned share.
2. Greater Boston: This provides that all cities and towns within a radius of ten miles of City Hall be annexed and become part of the City of Boston, that the matter be submitted to the voters of the several cities and towns and that a majority of the total vote so cast govern.
3. The opening of polls at 8 a. m. and closing at 8 p. m.: This provides that the polls at all elections open at 8 a. m. and close at 8 p. m. throughout the state.
4. Water lien amendments: This provides to reduce the time to which a lien may attach after a water bill becomes due and payable from sixty days to ten days, as under the present sixty-day law the abuses heretofore complained of may still be taken advantage of within the sixty-day period.
5. Increasing fees for certificate of municipal liens: This provides that the collector's certificate of municipal liens be increased from $1 to $5.
6. Removal of structures on property taken by eminent domain: This provides that where structures are sold by the city which are standing on property taken by eminent domain that unless said purchaser removes said structures within thirty days he forfeits all right to same, and the city may remove them.
7. Non-exemption of machinery from taxation: The present corporation tax law provides for local taxation of machinery used in manufacture and as it is sometimes very difficult to define just what machinery is used in manufacture: This provides that all machinery be taxed.
8. Abolition of the tax limit: This provides that the Mayor and City Council may fix the tax limit instead of the Legislature as at present. This is a home rule measure.
9. Fixing the tax limit for 1924: This is an alternative bill for the abolition of the tax limit so as to provide a tax rate for the coming year, as under present conditions it is necessary to apply to the Legislature every year for a tax limit for Boston.
10. Change of fiscal and municipal year: This provides that the fiscal and municipal year be advanced from February, the fiscal year to begin January 1 and the municipal year from the first Monday in January.
11. Transit loan: This provides for loans outside the debt limit of such sums as may be necessary for the completion of the Tremont Street Subway and East Boston Tunnel.
12. Street widening: This provides for a loan outside of the debt limit to the amount of $35,000,000 on plans of the Boston Planning Board.
13. Remson Contract: This provides that the laborers and truckmen who did not receive compensation under the Remson contract by reason of the default thereof be reimbursed for their loss.
14. Civil service preference for widows: This provides that widows be given preference in city employment on certification for matrons, cleaning women, scrub-women or helpers.
15. Fire protection for horses and mules: This provides for sprinkler system in basement of buildings where horses and mules are stabled.
16. Civil service for Employment Bureau: This provides that the Employment Bureau of the City of Boston be put under civil service.
17. Fees for licenses and permits. Whereas there are about fifty different statutes fixing fees for licenses or permits in the City of Boston, some of them dating back as far as fifty years without any change having been made therein: This bill provides that the Mayor and City Council shall fix fees.
18. Exemption from attachment: This provides that on claims for necessities that wages be exempt from attachment to the amount of $15 instead of at $10 as they now are.
19. Increasing sewerage appropriation. In 1897 a law was enacted that the city might borrow outside the tax limit the sum of $1,000,000 each year for sewerage construction; this act was later amended by making all sewerage appropriations within the debt limit, but not changing the amount of yearly appropriation: This bill provides that the City of Boston may appropriate any sum of money out of the tax levy that it sees fit for sewerage construction.
20. Abolishing the Licensing Board: This provides that the Licensing Board of the city be abolished and their duties transferred to the Mayor of Boston, who at present grants permits on all matters other than those designated by statute that the Licensing Board shall have jurisdiction over. At present the expense of the Licensing Board to the City of Boston is greatly in excess of the cost for doing similar work through the Mayor's office.
21. Costs of trials in counties other than in which action arises: This provides that in all causes of action arising outside of the county in which suit is brought that the cost of said trial shall be paid by the county in which the cause of action arose on certificate of the clerk of court in which county the cause is tried.
22. Harvard Bridge with island: This provides for an appropriation of $7,000,000 for a new bridge with an island in the center thereof.
23. Increasing fees for examiner of gasfitters: This provides that in the City of Boston the examiner of gasfitters shall receive $10 per day instead of $5 for his services.
24. G. A. R. state appropriation: This provides that the state shall appropriate the sum of $25,000 to be expended by the Governor and Council for necessary expenses connected with the G. A. R. encampment to be held in Boston this summer.

25. Metropolitan boulevards to the Public Works Department: This provides that all the duties of the Metropolitan District Commission in relation to boulevards, together with the expenses therein incurred, shall be transferred to the Public Works Department of the state, which department is supported by said appropriation rather than metropolitan district apportionment. The expenses of the Metropolitan District Commission to Boston are approximately 58 per cent; the state expense to the city is 27 per cent.
26. Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company to repair streets: This provides that the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company be subject to the same law as the Boston Elevated Railway Company; that is, that they be required to keep in repair and to replace in a manner satisfactory to the Public Works Commissioner of the City of Boston that portion of the highway occupied by their tracks.
27. Stock Exchange: In 1918 a law was passed which nullified a Supreme Court decision known as Fisk v. Doucette, that laid down the law that any contract for the purchase or sale of stock through a broker was a gambling contract unless an actual transfer of stock was made by the broker. The new law provided that purchases and sales might be balanced at the end of the Stock Exchange day and thereby restore all the abuses of the bucket shop; this bill provides for a repeal of this law nullifying the Supreme Court decision, and if adopted will effectually wipe out trading on margin and bucketing.
28. Increase of corporation excise tax from $5 to $10 per thousand: This title is self-explanatory.
29. Fines in automobile cases. At present all fines paid in automobile cases are turned over to the state to be used for road construction and repair through the Public Works Department of the state: This bill provides that said fines shall be paid into the cities and towns of the county in which the fine is levied.
30. Concerning the rate of taxation on intangibles: This provides for an increase in the rate of taxation on intangibles from 6 to 10 per cent.
31. Concerning the assessment of personal property: This provides that personal property mortgaged, pledged or consigned shall for the purpose of taxation be deemed the property of the party in possession thereof on April 1. In the past there has been a very large and substantial loss in the assessment of personal property by reason of the fact that the persons in possession of taxable personal property claim that they were not taxable thereon because of the fact that they did not have title to the property.
32. Three million dollars for the City Hospital: This provides for a loan outside the debt limit of $3,000,000 for necessary additions to the City Hospital, to be placed upon the City Hospital grounds.
33. Transfer of land from the Convalescent Hospital to Park Department: This provides that the care and custody of a certain strip of land, a part of land now occupied by the Convalescent Hospital in Dorchester and adjacent to Dorchester Park, be transferred to the Park Department for playground purposes.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 17, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In relation to the internal transfers asked for in the Park Department, same being referred to in our letter of December 15, I respectfully submit the following:

From the appropriation for B-32, Towing, $372.92, to the appropriation for B-28, Expert and Architect, $372.92.

On account of the many changes being made in the Park Department that require the services of an expert architect, we find that it will be necessary to ask for the additional sum of $372.92.

From F-11, Pensions and Annuities, $288.57, to C-7, Furniture and Fittings, $288.57.

An order was given to the Supply Department on December 8, 1922, for three hundred folding chairs which we expected to be delivered before the end of the fiscal year. This order was canceled and on April 2 an order for 200 folding chairs was given by the Supply Department to Byron S. Jackson for $18 a dozen, or $360 for the lot. In June the 300 chairs ordered from the Massachusetts Reformatory were delivered at an expense of $831 and bill was not sent until October 22. As this was a superior type of chair and one best adapted to the uses of this department, the chairs were kept instead of being returned, believing that we would have a sufficient sum on hand to pay for same; but we find that we are now obliged to ask for this transfer.

Very truly yours,

JAMES B. SHEA, Chairman.

The above transfers were made by the City Auditor on the approval of the Mayor December 20, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—The consumption of stationery used in the work of consolidating the indexes for Suffolk County especially that of the catalogue cards has been much larger than was anticipated when the budget for the current year was prepared, and the expense of copying and indexing was somewhat less than was estimated partly due to certain changes which have been made but which affect the matter only temporarily. It will therefore be necessary to transfer the sum of $375 from Item B-29 of the current budget to Item D-1, and $225 from Item B-29 to Item B-1.

Very respectfully yours,

WILLIAM J. KURTH.

BROADCASTING THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Public Library of the City of Boston has found a new way to express its Christmas greetings. At the entrance of the Central Library and of every branch is conspicuously placed a Christmas poster, beautifully printed in red, green and brown by the Printing Department of the library. This poster, which seems to indicate that the Christmas spirit of the library is its spirit all the year round, reads as follows:

"With the coming of Christmas the Public Library of the City of Boston extends its greetings to you, its friends and patrons, and expresses the hope that in the new year it may be able to serve you more fully than in the past.

"This year nearly three million library books have been used in the homes of citizens, and while many new and valued friends have been made, it is the desire of the library to welcome many more during 1924.

"In the spirit of the holiday season will you not call to the attention of some friend or neighbor the advantages of the Public Library and the possibility of obtaining a borrower's card at either the central building in Copley square or any of its thirty-one branches.

"Each citizen has the right to make free use of the Public Library, and will be given a hearty welcome and every help by all the librarians and their assistants.

"With every good wish for Christmas and the New Year!

THE DIRECTOR AND STAFF."

In addition to this greeting to those who enter its doors, the library is this year sending into the homes of its readers a bookmark, which is placed in every book borrowed from the library during the Christmas season. This card, which is a very attractive piece of printing in color, is headed by a candlestick with the library motto, "Lux Omnium Civium," and bears a message similar to that of the poster.

The director and staff of the library evidently intend that the citizens of Boston shall have no excuse for not using the resources of this institution, of which the city is so proud. A further evidence of the library's eagerness to serve the public has been lately displayed in the posters carried on the front of the cars of the Boston Elevated Railway during the past week, reading:

"Free books for your use in the Public Library and its branches."

MAYOR SEEKS LAWS TO RELIEVE REALTY OF HEAVY TAX BURDEN.

Mayor Curley is fighting to secure relief for real estate from the heavy burdens of taxation placed upon it by reason of banks of the state shunning their fair proportion. He is aiming to draft bills for enactment of legislation which will force banking institutions to resume such payments as share of the cost of municipal and town government. The Mayor held a conference on this subject with a committee representing the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts Friday afternoon at one o'clock at the Parker House.

This committee is composed of Mayor Childs of Newton, Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, Mayor Leonard of Springfield and Mayor Remington of New Bedford. Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan of Boston and Solicitors Bartlett of Newton, Dearborn of Springfield, Mackay of Quincy and Nichols of Fall River advised the Mayors, as did also the chairmen of the respective boards of assessors, headed by Chairman Edward T. Kelly of the Boston Assessors.

"By dumping what was their fair burden in supporting organized government onto the real estate group," said Mayor Curley, "the bankers have simply passed their load to all the people of the community—since the additional load on real estate is diffused by the owners of real estate to tenants in the way of rentals and to the cost of goods which the consumer of food, shelter and clothing must pay as toll."

As illustrative of the falling off this year in Boston's taxation revenue, Chairman Kelly of the assessors informed Mayor Curley that whereas last year the total amount of taxation paid the city by banks was $1,945,000, it has totaled in this current fiscal year only $393,000, and is headed lower still.

The following list, showing the mark-down achieved under the new state taxation agreement by individual institutions, has been given to Mayor Curley by Chairman Kelly:

Webster & Atlas National Bank, $19,000 last year, $189.72 this year.

Boston National Bank, $4,200; this year, $76.

Back Bay, last year, $2,964; they are out of business this year.

Boylston National, $22,000 last year; $1,100 this year.

Citizens' National, $15,000; $428 this year.

Commercial and Security; they combined, but they paid $10,000 and $7,000, respectively, last year; this year the consolidated banks paid $2,200.

The First National paid $931,000; this year, $268,000.

Fourth Atlantic, $116,000; $31,000 this year.

The Mattapan has elected to be taxed by the assessors of Boston, as the banks had the right, and there was no tax; $940 was the amount last year, no tax this year.

The Merchants Bank, $122,000 last year; $70,000 this year.

The National Rockland, $22,000 last year; $2,700 this year.

National Shawmut, $437,250 last year; this year, $69,75.

The National Union, $48,000; this year nothing. They report no income to the state. They declared a dividend, however, of 8 per cent.

The Oceanic, $1,500 last year.

BOSTON GREETED HEAD OF G. A. R. AT LUNCHEON.

Mayor Curley and Boston greeted the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, Col. Gaylord M. Saltzgeber and Mrs. Saltzgeber on December 21, in a way they will long remember, when they came to prepare the ground for the national encampment of the G. A. R. to be held in August.

Colonel Saltzgeber and his staff were given a luncheon by the Mayor at the Parker House, at which the visitors received a foretaste of what Boston has in store for them next summer.

The commander-in-chief said he wished the ringing, patriotic remarks of welcome by Mayor Curley could have been broadcast throughout the country.

At his Honor's invitation some one hundred prominent citizens, both military and civic, gathered around the festive board.

The Mayor said the welcome that awaited comrade Saltzgeber and his comrades in August from the citizens of Boston would eclipse that of the three previous national encampments held in this city, that no expense would be spared to make every comrade feel at home on his arrival, and take nothing away but pleasant memories on his departure.

The city had appropriated $25,000 towards the expense of entertaining the visitors, and the state had been asked to appropriate a similar sum. He said the Grand Army of the Republic was the greatest organization for inculcating patriotism in the hearts of the rising generation and its teachings would ever be remembered.

A unanimous vote was also passed indorsing the bill now before Congress, increasing the pension of veterans of the Civil War from $50 to $72, after Mayor Curley spoke in eloquent terms in favor of the bill.

Others present were the following past department commanders of the G. A. R.: Wilfred A. Wetherbee, John D. Billings, J. Payson Bradley, Thomas J. Ames, John A. Woods, Alfred H. Knowles, Edwin P. Stanley, George W. Wilder, Horace Goodwin.

The city and state were represented at the tables by Adj. Gen. Jesse F. Stevens, City Councilors Watson and Lane, Brig. Gen. John H. Dunn, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Dr. Diswell, Past Commander-in-Chief Fred E. Bolton, S. of V.; Walter E. Morrison, potentate of Aleppo Temple, M. S.; Capt. William N. McKenna, commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; Maj. James W. H. Myrick, commander of the Fusilier Veterans, and Colonel Keville, United States marshal.

JOHN HANCOCK MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
BOSTON, December 12, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR.—It is with some satisfaction that I have viewed the silver cup which you presented to our women as a prize for the most meritorious service in the "forget-me-not-sale" for the disabled veterans.

This evidence of your public spirit is more appreciated because it stands for a reciprocating spirit in this organization. It is especially gratifying to me that our young women are engaging in these good works from time to time, on their own initiative.

It is a pleasure to thank you for your recognition of the women of this office.

Yours very truly,

WALTER L. CROCKER,

DISTANT CITIZENS REMEMBER THE MAYOR.

Mayor Curley received no message which he more highly appreciated than that from the officers and crew of the submarine division of the Asiatic fleet of the United States Navy.

These men of the United States Navy are assigned with the Asiatic fleet, thousands of miles away from home. The message of greeting came from J. P. McCarthy, of Charlestown, who represented the officers and crew and who is serving with the Asiatic fleet. The letter was carried by a relay of messengers from the southernmost part of the Phil-pine Islands until it reached Cavite Postal Station, where the card was mailed upon November 24.

Another message received by the Mayor was from United States Marshal Albert C. Dowling, of Baldez, Alaska.

Mr. Dowling who left Boston some thirty years ago was one of the best known leaders in athletic sport in New England at the time of his departure from Boston.

MAYOR SEEKS TO REDUCE THE PRICE OF GAS FOR CITIZENS.

Mayor Curley sent the following communication on December 26:

MR. D. D. BARNUM, President, Boston Consolidated Gas Company, 149 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to direct your attention to the necessity for favorable action if possible on the question of a reduction in the price of gas to consumers in the Boston district.

Some three months ago I discussed this question with you, and at that time the company was somewhat fearful as to the price of fuel and climatic conditions generally. The present winter having been an open one, the supply of fuel having been fairly plentiful and the price showing a considerable reduction over that which everyone was required to pay last year, it would appear possible for your company in the early part of the new year to effect a reduction to which in my opinion the people of Boston are entitled and which I trust your company will find it possible to grant.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

NATIVES AND CITIZENS OF BOSTON AND VICINITY HONORED IN HALL OF FAME.

In the American Hall of Fame, New York City, dedicated in 1901, are inscribed on bronze tablets the names of 56 eminent men and 7 distinguished women deemed worthy of the highest honor on account of their services and attainments. Of the 63 individuals thus selected (up to 1920 inclusive) by an electorate of 100 leading Americans, 27 were natives or for some time citizens of Boston or vicinity. The names of the latter are as follows: Chosen in 1900—John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, William Ellery Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Daniel Webster, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Horace Mann, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Samuel Finley Breese Morse, Joseph Story, Asa Gray, Gilbert Stuart—total, 13.

Chosen in 1910—Edgar Allan Poe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, George Bancroft, John Lothrop Motley, Phillips Brooks—total, 5.

Chosen in 1920—William Thomas Green Morton, Alice Freeman Palmer. Five additional names every fifth year are to be selected and inscribed until the year 2,000, when the 150 tablets in the colonnade will be complete.

If those who were natives or residents elsewhere in the State are added to the list, the following 7 names increase the total to 34 for Massachusetts or more than half the whole number, viz.: William Cullen Bryant, Jonathan Edwards, Mark Hopkins, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney, Maria Mitchell, Mary Lyon.

If all New England is included, 4 more names will bring up the total to 38 or 60.3 per cent of whole number chosen. viz.: Roger Williams, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emma Willard.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor which licensees claimed the right to sell was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

PUBLIC STREETS IN BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (accepted) streets, February 1, 1922, 606.33 miles; total area, 11,459,009 square yards, or 8.47 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,890. 366.10 miles, or 60.38 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 128.03 miles bituminous macadam); 105.66 miles with granite block; 45.50 miles with asphalt; 29.32 miles with gravel; 36.63 miles with asphalt concrete (17.55 m. being bitulithic and 13.71 m. Topeka); 11.69 miles with wood block; 5.42 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., $5,138,678 having been expended during the past four years in reconstructing and improving 313 miles of streets and parts of streets. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1921, 97,049 square yards or about 21 miles, averaging 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1918-1921 includes 13 streets in Boston Proper; 34 in Dorchester; 37 in West Roxbury; 14 in Roxbury; 24 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 3 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic, or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1922, for all street construction, including damages, $22,267,-141 or $925,700 more than in 1921, this increase due to new loan for Stuart St. construction.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.
